FESTIVE EXCITEMENT OF FUNNY DEMOCRATS.

Succeed in Having Glorious Rough House in Convention's First Session.

Police Subdue Uprising of the Southern Insurrectos. Theodore Bell Follows Out His Orders to the Letter. "Princess Alice" and the Daughter of "The Peerless One" See and Hear Things, Side by Side.

BY HARRY C. CARR.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Col.) July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Neither Princess Alice nor Bryan's daughter had much fun at the opening session of the convention today.

Mrs. Longworth heard her father pretty roughly manhandled by T'dore Bell, the chairman; and Bryan's daughter had to sit by while the Democrats hilariously kicked her father's steam roller all around the shop.

This was a grand old-fashioned Democratic rally. They rough-housed the illustrious ones of the party; hooted the decisions of T'dore Bell; jumped with both feet through the Peerless One's programme.

The crowning tribute to the success of the occasion was when the police subdued the gentleman from West Virginia who discovered the first outrage. No Democratic convention would be complete without an outrage.

At first it was so sweet and peaceful. In fact, it was too peaceful, especially when they were bringing in the Bryan banners that were supposed to throw everybody into spasms of emotion.

Steam rollers, it seems, don't work very well on Democrats.

WHAT 'TIS LIKE.

There's Murphy's gang from New York and Sullivan's gang from Chicago and Guffey's from Pennsylvania and Fingey Conner's from Buffalo and they don't care a hoot who is President as long as they get back with the pie.

Denver produced one of her perfect days for the fracas.

All the morning long, brass bands and citizens with badges were parading around the streets with great pomposity and finally they all headed for the big new pavilion.

It's one of the finest assembly halls in the world, being better arranged for acoustics than the Coliseum in Chicago. Over the speaker's stand were three dyspeptic-looking pictures: T. Jefferson, who was naturally ashamed of it; Gen. Jackson, who glowered at the whole works, and George Washington, who was obviously controlling his feelings.

The Democrats carefully waited until they were sure the convention had been called to order and then marched in. Just to show they could be late if they wanted to.

The moment of most frenzied enthusiasm came when Bryan's home town arrived bearing a big banner. The cheering lasted exactly a minute and a quarter.

FOR CALIFORNIA.

Another wild outburst occurred when the California delegation marched in with their Bryan banner. The cheering lasted a little more than a quarter and less than half a minute.

Tom Taggart, the chairman, started the convention by having T'dore Bell escorted to the chair by three stalwart Democrats.

As he mounted the rostrum, T'dore gave one withering look in the direction of the California delegation as though to say: "There, [illegible], I did get here in time, even if I did have to travel on a handcar."

To his astonishment and to the snickering delight of the con-

BY HARRY C. CARR.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Terrible discovery! Somebody has stolen four barrels of San Diego beer and several cases of Masson's San Jose champagne from the California boozatorium. A meeting was held today at which it was agreed to make up the loss to the owners of the liquor.

After the convention today, Theodore Bell visited the delegation for the first time and melted somewhat. He came around again tonight on the report that Mrs. Ruth Bryan-Leavitt was to be entertained at the California headquarters. Mrs. Leavitt had been invited, but at the last moment declined on account of a meeting of the Jane Jefferson Club.

Some one has started a boom to bring the next National Convention to Los Angeles.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, July 7.—The possibility of a revolt by delegates not in sympathy with the Bryan control of the Democratic National Convention against the parliamentary practices employed by officers of the convention today in sending the Pennsylvania controversy to the Committee on Credentials is the only hope left to the allied opposition to Mr. Bryan's nomination.

This opposition is proceeding on the belief that the Committee on Credentials will report against the contested delegates from Philadelphia in favor of the election of Col. James M. Guffey for national committeeman, in which event a minority report will be made.

The first test of anti-Bryan strength therefore will occur over the adoption of the report of the Credentials Committee, and it promises to be the bitterest of the convention. Should it be decided against the Bryan men, some of whom have announced a purpose to "railroad" the Pennsylvania leader out of the party in accordance with the expressed wish of the Nebraska candidate, unquestionably it will encourage the opposition to Mr. Bryan to renewed efforts to defeat him for the Presidential nomination.

ISSUE IS FURNISHED.

No sooner had the convention adjourned today than the anti-Bryan men began to gather to discuss the situation. At several of these informal conferences the consensus of opinion was that the Guffey-Bryan fight furnished an issue on which the anti-Bryan men could take their stand and supplied the rallying ground that has been needed in order to consecrate their forces. It was asserted by anti-Bryan men tonight that the refusal today of Temporary Chairman Bell to recognize the demand of the Guffey men for a roll call on the question of sending the Pennsylvania case to the Credentials Committee had brought them many recruits, and that these, added to the force that has been against Mr. Bryan on other points, promises victory for Col. Guffey tomorrow.

On the other hand, the Bryan men claim to have Col. Guffey's scalp already dangling at the belt of their leader, and declare they are not worried in the least.

WOULD REBUKE BRYAN.

Much is being made by the Guffey men of the differences which Mr. Bryan has had with such men as Roger Sullivan of Illinois, John T. McGraw of West Virginia and certain of the Democratic leaders of Texas, Tennessee, Wisconsin, Michigan and other States. They profess to believe the delegations from these States are anxious to administer a rebuke to Mr. Bryan for his alleged interference with the State delegates in selecting their representatives in the convention after the States themselves had declared in favor of the nomination of the Nebraskan.

Should the anti-Bryan men prove to be correct in their estimate of the situation, Mr. Bryan without doubt would be defeated in his attempt to overturn Guffey in Pennsylvania.

It is not unlikely that a contest over this issue would engender the bitterest kind of feeling and have an important bearing on the vote of the convention after candidates have been placed in nomination for the Presidency. It is conceded that if Col. Guffey should be defeated, which would be the result of seating the anti-Guffey delegation from Philadelphia, that would end the opposition to Mr. Bryan, and all of the fighting spirit would be taken out of the anti-Bryan men. The Nebraskan's friends then would be given a clear road to the adoption of whatever character of platform they favor, and no showing whatever would be made against him for the nomination for first place on the ticket.

RUNNING MATES FORGOTTEN.

Should the Bryan men be so disposed,

CLEAN SWEEP BY OUTSIDERS.

AUTO WORLD'S GLORY SEIZED BY GERMANY.

Two Men Killed and One Dangerously Crushed in Most Furious Grand Prix Ever Run—Hemery Drives Five Rounds After Losing Sight of Eye.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DIEPPE, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After the fiercest struggle in the history of the race, the Grand Prix of the Automobile Club de France was won today by German drivers and German cars. Entering the greatest event of the motoring world as rank outsiders, they swept the board, taking first, second and third. Lautenschlager, driving a Mercedes, was first in 6h. 53m. and 43 4-5s.; Hemery in a Benz was second in 7h. 4m. and 24s.; and Hanriot, also driving a Benz, was third in 7h. 5m. and 12s.

Two men were killed, a third badly injured, and a fourth had the sight of one eye destroyed during the race, in which more accidents occurred than ever before. Cissac, driving his Panhard at a furious pace in the final round, took a curve sharply and tore a tire off. The car overturned and he and his mechanic, Schaub, were horribly mangled underneath the wreck.

Harrison, driving one of the English entries, the Weigel, was badly injured when his car turned a somersault at the dangerous corner near Eu. He was crushed under the car, but the attending doctors say tonight that his injuries are not fatal.

Hemery, one of the Benz team, gave an exhibition of grit and endurance that brought rounds of cheers from the stands. When the race was about half over, Hemery was in a brush with another car, the flying wheels of which sent a shower of stones behind it. One of the pieces of rock struck Hemery's goggles and drove a splinter of glass into his eye. He refused to retire from the race, and stopped only long enough for a surgeon to give him an injection of morphine to deaden the pain. With one eye blinded, and suffering intense agony, he drove more than 200 miles and brought his car through to the finish of the race.

Cissac, who was killed, had never driven in a great road race before, although he was acounted a nervy and accomplished driver. He was the idol of the motorcycle racing enthusiasts, and was the most prominent of the motorcycle racers. He first came into prominence by finishing second in the fifth Ardennes Circuit race, and won the Gaillon hill climb in 1905 and 1906. He also established several motorcycle records at the Dourdan meets.

An immense crowd, estimated at a million, saw the race contested on the triangular circuit embracing Dieppe, Londinieres and Eu. It was the most furious contest since the race was inaugurated, and as the popular drivers met with disaster one after the other, the stands became more and more excited. The totally unexpected victory of the Germans was not popular, but Lautenschlager, received a hearty cheer when he swept past the stands a winner on the final round. For the first time since Jenatzy won the Gordon Bennett in 1903, a German driver and car had finished first in a great road race, and the crowd was astonished. The favorites were Nazzaro, Thery, Farman, Wagner, Lancia and Henry Fournier, and not one of them made the pace expected of them.

The average speed of the winner was 111.5 kilometers, or 69.24 miles per hour, a pace slightly less than that of last year's winner, Nazzaro, who turned off 70.61 miles per hour, the fastest time ever made in a road race.

Louis Strang, the only American entrant, was beaten before he went into the race. Before the start of the race, he was driving his Thomas car into the enclosure, when something went wrong with his transmission gear. He and his mechanic worked on the difficulty as best they could, but the gears were hopelessly jammed. When the time came for Strang to appear at the start, he ran his car out with the reverse, first and second speeds out of commission. Although no protest was made, this condition would have disqualified him had he won a place, for the rules expressly state that the car must have a reverse gear worked by the motor. Strang made the first round of forty-eight miles in 53m. and 44s., and then made more repairs. He resumed the race, but only completed four rounds. He stated after the race that in addition to his other mishaps, he had tire troubles all the time.

The pace in the beginning of the race was terrific. On the first round Thery and Babiot on Brasier cars, the popular Wagner of the Fiat team and Salzer of the Mercedes team all beat the time of the fastest lap of last year, made by Duray driving a De Dietrich. Salzer made the fastest times, doing the circuit in 36m. and 41s., or 124.5 kilometers an hour. Nazzaro later equalled this time.

Nazzaro, the winner last year, began to set the pace immediately, and by the end of the second round was running a whirlwind race, leading by a good margin for so early in the contest. The excessive pace soon began to tell, and the leaders one after the other had to stop and replace tires. There was a gale blowing on the sea leg of the course, and this cut down the

ATLANTIC FLEET.

BIG WARSHIPS SAIL AWAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

U. S. S. CONNECTICUT, (At Sea,) July 7.—The Atlantic battleship fleet passed out of the Golden Gate at a speed of 10 knots. When outside the heads, a thick fog shut it in. The fleet was stopped off the lightship by wireless telegrams and gun signals in order to discharge pilots. On the second gun signal the fleet proceeded on its course for Honolulu.

The fog lifted at about 6 p.m., At 9 p.m. the fleet changed its formation in perfect order to line of squadron. The weather at this hour was fine.

WESTWARD HO!

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Fifteen battleships of the Atlantic fleet sailed today on the voyage that is to take them around the world, and end at Hampton Roads, whence they started last December.

The sixteenth member of the fleet, the Nebraska, was left behind because of an outbreak of scarlet fever among the crew. She will be held in quarantine three days and thoroughly fumigated, after which she will join her sister ships at Honolulu.

Without ceremony or celebration of any sort, the fifteen big fighting ships got under way promptly at 2 o'clock, upon signal from the Connecticut, Rear-Admiral Sperry's flagship, and, steaming in single column, slowly wended their way out of the bay where they had found anchorage from time to time since their arrival here, just two months ago.

A few small craft followed in the wake of the fleet as far as the Golden Gate, and gave the big white ships a parting salute with their sirens, while on the hills were gathered scattered groups of people silently watching their departure, which was in striking contrast to its enthusiastic reception upon its arrival May 6.

The vessels presented as impressive and beautiful picture as they slowly steamed through the harbor as when they entered the Golden Gate two months ago. As the Connecticut passed Fort Point, the flagship set signals for more speed, and the bows of the warships were soon throwing up a sea of white foam as they plowed through the water.

It was 3:10 when the Kentucky, the last ship in line, passed the lighthouse at the entrance of Golden Gate, and half an hour later the fleet was lost to view in a dense cloud of black smoke belching forth from the forest of funnels, and the thick weather which was rolling in from the sea.

FORENOON A BUSY ONE.

The forenoon was one of busy preparation on the fleet. Launches and cutters dotted the harbor, flitting from ship to ship and ship to shore. On the flagship Connecticut signal flags were constantly flung to the breeze, and the incessant "zip, zip" of the wireless telegraph communicating with ships and sending farewell messages to shore stations, never ceased. Boats were made fast, orderlies ran to and fro, and a few visitors, newspaper men and relatives and friends of the officers came aboard to say a last good-by.

The commanders of the other warships came aboard the flagship early in the day to receive their final orders from Admiral Sperry.

At 11 o'clock Secretary of the Interior James R. Garfield, who arrived last night from Honolulu on the cruiser St. Louis, boarded the Connecticut to pay his respects to the commander-in-chief of the fleet. He was given seventeen guns, the salute that members of the President's Cabinet are entitled to, as he took his leave.

On the water front patrols of bluejackets with stout "billies" rounded up a few belated stragglers from the various ships, and at 12:50 the last boat left shore with mail orderlies.

OFFICERS TRANSFERRED.

Early in the day Lieutenant-Commander Benjamin Hutchinson, executive officer of the cruiser St. Louis, was hurriedly detached from that ship and assigned as executive officer to the battleship Wisconsin in place of Lieutenant-Commander Phelps. The latter was ordered to Mare Island on account of illness. Dr. Koltez, junior surgeon on the Connecticut, and two surgeons from other ships, were temporarily transferred this morning to the Nebraska to assist in treating the scarlet fever cases on that ship.

Just before the fleet sailed, Rear-Admiral Sperry received a telegram from President Roosevelt, in which the President conveyed to the fleet his heartiest good wishes upon the eve of its departure.

ADVANCE AUXILIARIES.

The fleet auxiliaries preceded the battleships by a week, and are now nearing Honolulu, where they will unload supplies and sail away for New Zealand before the arrival of the fleet at Honolulu. These auxiliaries are the Panther, repair ship; Glacier, refrigerator supply ship; Culgoa, supply ship; Ajax, collier; Relief, hospital ship, and Yankton, tender and dispatch boat.

The battleships which sailed today on the longest voyage ever undertaken by such a powerful fleet, during which they will completely encircle the world, from Hampton Roads to Hampton Roads, have a total tonnage of 184,100 tons. The fleet is capable of steaming on an average of ten knots an hour under any sea conditions, and is following an itinerary which will bring the ships to Manila on October 1.

The complete route from Manila to Hampton Roads has not yet been definitely announced, but it is expected that the fleet will arrive at its ultimate destination during the latter part of February, 1909, when it will be joined at Hampton Roads by most of the other ships of the American navy then on the Atlantic Coast, and this great fleet of war vessels—greater even than that which gathered in San Francisco Bay on the morning of May 6, and greater than the one that assembled at Hampton Roads December 16, when the present record-breaking voyage began, will again be reviewed by President Roosevelt, just prior to his going out of office.

HONOLULU PREPARED.

The fleet is scheduled to arrive at Honolulu July 16. Residents of that remote possession of the United States have prepared a magnificent and fitting reception to the officers and men, which will be of the nature of a reception and a belated Fourth of July celebration combined. It will be the first special entertainment of the fighting men since Puget Sound cities dearations have been making for months at Honolulu that no pleasing feature shall be lacking.

Cissac, Who Was Killed in the Grand Prix Race Yesterday, in the Panhard racing car, which overturned and mangled him, and (below) the only American entrant, Louis Strang, in his Thomas, with which he failed to make a showing.

After a stay of one week in Honolulu, the fleet will proceed to Auckland, New Zealand. It is by special invitation of the New Zealand government that the American ships go there, and at this port the "Yankee" sailors will receive their first greetings from a foreign people since leaving South America. This greeting will be particularly cordial, and the entertainment arranged for officers and men promises to be magnificent. The fact that this greeting will come at the end of the longest leg of the voyage around the world, when the men are worn by a stretch of seventeen successive days out of sight of land, will tend to make it all the more welcome.

AUSTRALIANS EAGER.

Perhaps the greatest of all the entertainments to be given the men of the fleet in any foreign city, however, will be waiting their arrival at Sydney, the great port of Australia, where the warships, after leaving Auckland on August 15, will arrive on August 20. Half a million dollars is the sum the government of Australia and the people of Sydney have appropriated for the entertainment of the American sailors. Varied and many are the pleasures the Australians have planned and placed in store for them, during the nine days of their stay at that port. The government will take an active part in these entertainments, those in the official life of the colony vying with the private citizens in efforts to display their hospitality. A series of elaborate social functions for the officers, and parades and excursions and sports for the enlisted men, comprise the programme.

Melbourne and Albany are two other ports of Australia where the fleet will stop, and where open-handed hospitality, and lavish entertainment will be given the men. From the port of Albany the fleet will steam on September 17 for Manila, and it will arrive in these American waters, the last home port until Hampton Roads, on October 1.

The reception to be accorded the fleet in Manila will be a striking one, and the entertainment of the officers and men ashore will be as cordial and heartfelt, if not as elaborate, as the receptions at other places. The American colony in Manila is looking forward to the event with fervent anticipation. A large fund has been subscribed, and committees are at work on the preparations.

IMPERIAL INVITATION.

Great interest is felt in the fleet's visit to Japan. Proceeding to Yokohama from Manila, the fleet will arrive there on October 17. Here on October 24 it will be divided, the first squadron returning October 31 to Manila, while the second squadron will steam to Amoy, China, where it will arrive October 23. The promise is that the welcome to be given the Americans in Yokohama will not be second in graciousness at least, to anything met with at any port previously touched; for it is upon the special invitation of the Emperor of Japan that the fleet goes there. Elaborate functions at court, and social affairs will be held for the officers of the fleet.

At Amoy, China, the reception will doubtless be the occasion of a great celebration characteristic of the Chinese.

The two squadrons of the fleet will be brought together again at Manila on November 7, and the departure thence for Aden, and the passage of the Suez will take place within the following few days, the exact date not yet having been determined.

The ships of the Pacific fleet, which assembled here previously to the departure of the battleships for Hampton Roads, will remain in this harbor until August 5, at which time they will start for Samoa and the Philippines, with the little black boats comprising the Atlantic and Pacific torpedo flotillas in tow.

Admiral Dayton, now in command of the Pacific fleet, will retire August 1, and it is considered probable that Admiral Swinburne will succeed him in command of the Pacific fleet and take it across the Pacific and back.

PRESIDENT REMEMBERS FLEET.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

OYSTER BAY, July 7.—President Roosevelt today sent to Rear-Admiral Sperry, commanding the battleship fleet at San Francisco, a telegram expressing his good will to the officers and men on the eve of their departure for the trip around the world.

The message will be read at muster on each of the sixteen battleships at San Francisco, which leave there at 2 p.m. today.

"OYSTER BAY (N. Y.) July 7, 1908.

"Rear-Admiral Charles S. Sperry, U. S.N., commander-in-chief, battleship fleet, San Francisco, Cal. (Through Navy Department.) I send to you and the officers and enlisted men under you, my heartiest good wishes on the eve of your departure. That the American people can trust the skilled efficiency and devotion to duty of its representatives on the fleet has been abundantly shown by the trip around South America and I know will be made equally manifest on the return trip across the Pacific, Indian and Atlantic oceans. You have in a peculiar sense the honor of the United States in your keeping, and therefore no body of men in the world enjoy at this moment a greater privilege or carry a heavier responsibility.

[Signed] "THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Glacier at Honolulu.

HONOLULU, July 7.—The refrigerator ship Glacier, which sailed from San Francisco June 29 in advance of the battleship fleet, arrived here today. News of the sailing of the fleet from San Francisco today was received with the most intense interest.

speed of the cars, so that the times made were wonderful.

It was in the fourth round that the complexion of the race changed suddenly. Lautenschlager had been driving a steady and speedy race. Nazzaro in the lead jammed his clutch and had to stop. The German swept into the lead, and was never headed. At the same time the other Italian drivers had tire troubles and various mishaps, and after the fatal fourth round they were never in the running. The English cars also came to grief in the fourth circuit, and as the American driver was never a factor, there were left only the Frenchmen and the Germans. One after the other in disheartening succession the crowd saw its favorites drop out of the leading places, until in the sixth round practically the only serious challenger to the flying German leader was Thery, the hero of the great Gordon Bennett race run over the Taurus course. He was cheered wildly by the stands every time he appeared, but in the sixth round he came to grief through the bursting of a tire. With Thery out of the race, the last hope of the French entries was gone.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An extraordinary sensation has been created by the publication in the Times this morning of the story that Admiral Lord Charles Beresford signaled during the present maneuvers to two ships of his fleet, one commanded by Sir Percy Scott, his deadly enemy, an order which, if Scott had not refused to carry it out, would unavoidably have resulted in a repetition of the terrible disaster in which the battleship Victoria was sunk by the Camperdown.

The story was offered to the other papers, but none regarded it sufficiently authentic, and so they declined to print it. Tonight it is rumored in Fleet street that it is a hoax.

The evening papers were afraid to touch it because if proved to be untrue, Beresford would have a claim for record damages for libel.

New York Jeweler Has Had Drawn Plans for Construction of Revolving House.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, July 7.—William Reiman, a jeweler, has drawn plans for a revolving house to cost $35,000, which he will build at Bayside, L. I. Mr. Reiman holds that with the advantages of modern appliances, such as electricity, there seems little reason for the sunny side of a house being in the su nall summer, and the shady side being in the shade all winter.

As proposed, the house will be constructed on a turntable, which will be operated by electricity. The owner in his library may press a button, and the house will swing to right or left

Refuses to Discuss Question as to Probability of War Between United States and Venezuela—Says Bubonic Plague Is More Prevalent Than Is Supposed.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, July 7.—Jacob Sleeper, formerly chargé d'affaires of the American Legation at Caracas, Venezuela, whose departure from that post marked the severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Venezuela, arrived at New York today from Havana.

Mr. Sleeper said he would go to Washington immediately to present to the State Department his report of the negotiations with Venezuela.

Regarding the probabilities of war between the two countries as a result of the unsettled conditions, Mr. Sleeper said:

"Well, I have been recalled as a result of the Venezuelan refusal to arbitrate our differences, and what the next step shall be remains with Washington."

Mr. Sleeper would not comment on the matter. Further questioned as to the extent if the bubonic plague in Venezuela, Mr. Sleeper said that it was far more prevalent that was supposed, and that business interests have suffered as a result.

MRS. M'DONALD BANKRUPT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Dora McDonald, widow of the late "Mike" McDonald, recently acquitted of the charge of killing Webster Guerin, the artist, was declared bankrupt by Judge Landis today.

The court declined to accept an affidavit that Mrs. McDonald is not a resident of Chicago, but is living in New York.

The bankruptcy proceedings were started by creditors, led by the owners of the Sherman House, where Mrs. McDonald stayed during the progress of her trial.

The action followed a restraining order issued by Judge Landis June 23, which tied up the McDonald estate. Besides the Sherman House Hotel Company, other creditors are the Lakeside Stables Company and John L. Adams, the real estate man.

Although the petition represents an indebtedness of only $1000, the actual amount which will be sought exceeds $40,000. This represents attorneys' fees and other liabilities incurred by Mrs. McDonald during the trial.

NET EARNINGS ARE UPHELD.

Harriman Lines Are Strong Despite Hard Times.

Operating Officials Make an Excellent Showing.

Expenses Cut So Decrease in Gross Is Minimized.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Much attention is being devoted to the statements of earnings of the Harriman roads, the particular feature of which is the complete control that those who are in charge of the operating department have obtained over the expenses.

This is made conspicuous by the fact that while there has been a decided decrease in gross earnings of late, net earnings show but little difference from those of the corresponding period last year.

Gross earnings of the Union Pacific for May, for example, show a decrease of $1,110,748, but the only loss in net was $68,286. For the same month gross earnings of the Southern Pacific decreased $2,003,949, or 19 per cent., while the loss in net was kept down to $453,303.

For eleven months of the current fiscal year the loss in net earnings for the Union Pacific was kept down to $2,407,000, which is insignificant when compared with the decrease in net suffered by a majority of the roads in the United States.

Reports filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission show that these gratifying results have not been obtained at the expense of the maintenance of the physical condition of the property, because for the period covered these expenditures have been as liberal as formerly.

LUMBER SHIPPERS LOSE.

MUST USE STAKES ON CARS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The Interstate Commerce Commission, in a decision today, upholds the present laws enforced by the railroads requiring shippers of lumber on open cars to use stakes to secure safe transportation. The contention of the lumbermen was that such a practice subjected them to undue expense.

The decision grew out of a number of complaints filed by the National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association and the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' Association against several of the leading railroads of the country.

DESERTS HER TINY BABY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the Wentworth Sanitarium, in this city, lies a beautiful 18 days old baby girl, blissfully ignorant of the fact that its mother, Mrs. E. Reed, has gone with a handsome man, never to return.

The babe was born on the evening of June 19, its mother coming to the sanitarium that morning. She said her name was Reed, and she had left the limited train while en route from the East to her home in San Francisco. She is 22, of German descent, and pretty.

On the evening of July 4 she left the sanitarium with a dark, lame man, giving his name as Gene Clark, saying she was going to view the fireworks. Since then she has not returned to claim her baby.

The hospital officials believe the woman is from San Francisco, but that both she and the man have given fictitious names.

PACIFIC SLOPE.

TO GUARD THE COAST.

California Will Ask Congress for Tariff Protection.

Important Meeting Is Held in San Francisco.

Pacific States and Hawaii to Be Invited to Join.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—California interests which would be affected by the proposed revision of the tariff, have combined to study the State and the Pacific Coast's need for protection, and will present a memorial at the extraordinary session of Congress when it meets in Washington subsequent to March 4 of next year.

This memorial will be a succinct statement of the State's interests and its purposes will be to defend those interests.

This was decided upon today at a meeting attended by Gov. Gillett, United States Senator George C. Perkins, Congressmen Julius Kahn and Joseph R. Knowland, J. C. Needham and about fifty representatives of commercial associations of the State. Gov. Gillett was temporary chairman and Arthur R. Briggs, president of the California State Board of Trade, was chosen the permanent chairman of the organization. Chester W. Burks, secretary of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, was elected secretary.

The State body on tariff revision will consist of representative of each trade organization, which would be interested by the tariff. It was also provided that allied interests in all the Pacific States and the Hawaiian Islands be invited to cooperate with the California organization.

Gov. Gillett explained that a revision of the tariff was imminent, but that under the Dingley bill the State's industries and activities were well protected; that deciduous fruits, dried fruits, lumber, wool, wines and other products were on the protected list and should be kept there. To retain existing protection, the Governor asserted, it would be necessary for Californians to back up the California organization, and be well fortified with facts to maintain their position.

Representatives Meet at San Francisco to Talk Over Rights of Business Men of That City and Los Angeles to Trade in San Joaquin Valley.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—A conference affecting the entire interests of San Francisco will be held tomorrow between Frederick T. Greggson, representing the Associated Jobbers of Los Angeles on the one side, and James D. Kellar and J. W. Chapman, representing the merchants of San Francisco on the other.

It is the old fight for the control of the trade of the San Joaquin Valley. The Los Angeles jobbers say they should be given a lower rate into the valley as far north as Fresno, on the ground of the shorter distance. On the other hand, the San Francisco jobbers insist the rate be protected because of the grades the Southern Pacific trains have to encounter between Los Angeles and valley points.

It is believed a settlement at a conference can be reached without the matter having to be taken before the State Railroad Commissioners.

GARFIELD TALKS OF HAWAII.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Secretary of the Interior James R. Garfield, who arrived late last night from Honolulu on the cruiser St. Louis, came ashore today. The Secretary spent two weeks in the islands inspecting the various departments of the Territorial government, which comes under his supervision, paying particular attention to and conferring much data upon the further commercial development of the islands and the immigration problems.

"The islands are thoroughly American and the American spirit is paramount and strong," said the Secretary today. "I spent a busy two weeks in visiting them, and I found the people happy, prosperous and progressive. Of course, I made a special study of questions and matters that came under the purview of my department. I observed the operation of the pure-food law, and was impressed with the way with which it has been received by the people. The lighthouse system is a successful operation, and I have but few recommendations to make in respect to it.

"There is not the slightest race agitation in the Territory. The different races are living in the utmost harmony, and I could not help observing the general prosperity of the people. I was greatly impressed with the growth of the sugar and coffee industries in the islands, and the possibility of their future development."

Secretary would not discuss the recommendations he would make in his report to President Roosevelt on the conditions in the islands, saying he had not yet had time to go over the data he had gathered, and would not make his report until he returned to Washington.

Secretary will leave here shortly for a two weeks fishing trip in Southern California in company with Gifford Pinchot and United States Senator Flint.

AGONY OVER.

DE SAGAN WEDS ANNA GOULD.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

LONDON, July 7.—Mme. Anna Gould and Prince Helie de Sagan were married at a registry office in Henrietta street, off Covent Garden, today. A subsequent ceremony was conducted at the French Protestant Church on Soho Square.

There was absolutely no secrecy about the wedding. Notwithstanding this, the Prince and Mme. Gould made an effort to escape the crowd. They had a large motor car waiting at the hotel. When the hour for them to leave arrived, however, the couple, accompanied by three friends, left the hotel by a rear entrance, and entering ordinary cabs drove to the back entrance of the registry office.

The civil ceremony was simple. Outside of Prince Helie, Mme. Gould, the witnesses and the officials, no one was present. A great crowd, consisting largely of porters from Covent Garden and employés of publishing-houses in the vicinity, assembled in the street outside. Prince Helie produced a copy of the notice filed with the registrar establishing his two weeks' residence in the district, and the registrar granted his license.

GO TO WRONG CHURCH.

Armed with the registrar's certificate, the party, again leaving the building by the back door, drove in cabs to the French Protestant Church. The cabmen misunderstood their instructions, and stopped in front of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, which faces Soho Square, and the entire party had alighted before the mistake was discovered. New directions were then given, and the cabs drove over to the French Protestant Church. The entrance to this church was blocked by trucks, and Mme. Gould and the Prince had to make their way through a maze of traffic.

The party passed into the church almost unnoticed. They were followed by only a half-dozen reporters and a few poorly-dressed parishioners. They were escorted to the vestry, and the pastor, the Rev. Fremont, carefully read the document brought from the registry office. Having satisfied himself of its correctness, he escorted the couple to the altar, while Mme. Ranatte, a daughter of the associate pastor of the church, played the hymn, "Abide With Me," on the organ. While the ceremony was proceeding, several photographers who had come in with the party took snapshots of the couple as they stood at the altar.

BRIDE IS NERVOUS.

Mme. Gould and Prince Helie both answered the usual questions in a firm voice, but the bride turned nervously to the small congregation when the quietness of the church was disturbed by the clicking of cameras.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the pastor, as is the custom of the church, presented Prince Helie with a Bible, and then congratulated him. After this he led the way back to the vestry, where the church register was signed. The witnesses were Baron de Montenillat and C. J. Benchauvrin. The only other person with the party was Prince Helie's private secretary.

Mme. Gould wore a handsome costume of cream-colored silk, richly embroidered, and a straw hat to match, trimmed with ostrich feathers.

The news that the Prince and Mme. Gould had been married in the Soho Square church got about quickly, and by the time the party were ready to leave the building a big crowd had gathered in the street in front.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PARIS, July 7.—Count Boni de Castellane, accompanied by his counsel, this afternoon went to the office of Judge Henri Ditte, president of the tribunal of the first instance of the Seine, and applied to have the custody of his children restored to him on account of his divorced wife's marriage to Prince Helie de Sagan.

After hearing arguments by Maitre Bonnet and Jullemeire, Judge Ditte adjourned the case until the return of the Princess De Sagan to Paris.

APPROPRIATION APPRECIATED.

Officials of Tokio Exposition Much Pleased Over Our Having Set Aside $1,500,000 for It.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

TOKIO, July 7.—The action taken by the American Congress in appropriating $1,500,000 for the Tokio grand exposition of 1912, has done more than anything else to convince the public that the policy of America is one of friendship.

The exposition officials, who were somewhat discouraged by the proposition to appropriate $250,000, are now loud in their praise of the United States. It is believed the example thus set will be followed more or less generally by other countries, but it is hardly expected that any of them will do what has been done by America.

Preparations for the exposition are now going on rapidly, and with the beginning of 1909, the ground will be broken. Among the porjects on foot for the exposition year is a $6,000,000 hotel situated on high ground near the exposition. The government has been extremely generous in connection with all projects that will further the undertaking, and the greatest attention is being given to the requirements of foreigners

Republican Leaders Meet at Hot Springs Today.

Executive Committee Is Unanimous in Choice.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HOT SPRINGS (Va.) July 7.—The Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee will meet here tomorrow, and from present indications there will only be a brief session, at which Frank H. Hitchcock will be elected chairman, and Representative McKinley of Illinois, will be made treasurer of the National Committee.

Senator Hemenway and Representative Watson, of Indiana, who were representing the Fairbanks section; Representative McKinley of Illinois, who had charge of the Cannon campaign, and Representative Burke of Pennsylvania, who represented the Knox candidacy, say that they have no objections to Hitchcock.

In the case of Mr. McKinley, there is but one sentiment, and that is in his favor, for the office of treasurer. Mr. McKinley has long been considered for the treasureship, but as he is treasurer of the Illinois committee, it was thought for some time the opposition to having him leave that work would operate against his selection. But that objection has been overcome by the proposition that he should be treasurer of both committees.

SHERMAN SAYS NO OPERATION.

SPENDS FORENOONS AT HOME, AND AFTERNOONS IN AUTO.

Intends to Take Care of Himself Until Health Is Fully Restored, and Does Not Expect to Take Up Campaign Work for Week or Ten Days.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

UTICA (N. Y.) July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Congressman Sherman, when asked tonight if there would be an operation for the removal of gall stones, his present ailment, said that he had reached no definite conclusions, but that there would be no operation for the present.

The Congressman will remain at his home her for a week or ten days before he will take up the active work of his campaign.

Mr. Sherman said that he intends to remain quiet until his strength is fully restored, spending his forenoons at home and going out afternoons to ride. He is now taking a little solid food, including eggs and toast.

Today he received an invitation to go on yachting trips and other excursions, but declined. He dictated letters to a stenographer for several hours today, and received a few visitors.

Chief of Police Brophy has designated Officer McCarthy to act as Mr. Sherman's bodyguard at the latter's residence until next November. He will be in citizen's clothes. Some one of the police officers on that beat will also be near the Sherman residence at all hours during the night.

INSURGENTS KILL AND BURN.

SLAY PEACEFUL KOREANS AND DESTROY THEIR HOMES.

Murder Nearly One Thousand Hard-Working Men Whose Only Offense Is Friendliness to Japanese Protectorate, and Burn Three Hundred and Sixty Houses.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SEOUL (Korea) June 15, via San Francisco, July 7.—[Correspondence of the Associated Press.] Nearly 1000 Koreans have been murdered by the Korean insurgents and so-called patriots, within the last few months.

These Koreans were all members of the Il Ching Hoi, a pro-Japanese society. Most of the Koreans murdered by their fellow-countrymen were peaceful, hard-working men, whose only crime seems to have been opposition to the disturbing element in the country and friendliness to the Japanese protectorate. In addition to those murdered, there have been a number of cases of cruelty and hardship.

The actual statistics, carefully collected, and in every case verified, show that since the Japanese protectorate of Korea commenced, 926 members of the Il Ching Hoi have been murdered by all Korean insurgents, and 360 houses have been burned, involving a loss of about 50,000 yen.

The revolution in Korean territory is gradually being driven into a corner. Scattered bands of rioters are being rounded up, and either forced into surrender, or their activity effectually stopped.

The course taken by the government in the late rigorous campaign instituted against the disturbing element is approved by the people of the country, both foreign and native.

It will not be possible to submit the disputed fisheries question between the United States and Canada to The Hague arbitration court for settlement this year. Under the arbitration treaty between the United States and foreign governments, ratified by the Senate, the last-named body is required to give its assent to the specific issues arbitrated. The seizure in the fisheries question will be submitted to the Senate when it meets in December, so that it will be next year before the matter can be brought to The Hague.

TAILORS RISE IN THEIR WRATH.

DECLARE FREAK STYLES IN CLOTHING MUST GO.

In Convention at Chicago They Decide Innovations of Season Shall Not Be Carried Into Fall Styles Even If Football Gatherings Look Like Camp Meetings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Woe for the college youth, the negro gambler and the flashy bartender.

The tailors' convention today, figuratively speaking, tore freak clothes to tatters. What was left of the drop front, four-inch trousers cuff, the frilly pocket flaps and other innovations of the season was not enough to interest the ragpicker. The indignation of the tailors over the bizarre garments rose to a high pitch, and they vowed even college boys would have to submit to more conservative clothes in the fall, even if football gatherings come to look like camp meetings.

"Your salvation lies in stemming the torrent of freakish garments," he said. "Tailors originated the so-called gingerbread styles for their college patronage, but they have got beyond us."

Unusual fabrics were also selected by tailors for discard. Conservatism in shades will replace "zebra" styles.

JAPAN RETRENCHING.

Government Is Contemplating Great Reductions in Expenditures for Army and Navy.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

TOKIO, June 19, via San Francisco, July 7.—[A. P. Correspondence.] "Financial reform" is now the slogan in Japan. It is heard on every side, in politics and out of it.

Twelve months ago there was merely a small stir over the question of finance and the policy of the government. Today the Cabinet totters before the storm of public opinion, and the dictum of the day is retrenchment of naval and military expenditures, reform of the tariff and a restoration of the balance of trade.

The railway nationalization scheme is still under discussion. It is believed that for the present the idea of complete denationalization has been abandoned, and that the railway will be made a separate department. Great reductions are contemplated in the army and navy programme, and every effort will be made to develop resources.

FOR ARMY AND NAVY.

HOBSON PLEADS FOR AN ANTI-JAP PLANK.

Tells Resolutions Committee of Danger to Pacific Coast and Inability of United States to Repel Attack—Predicts Great Foreign War.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The full Committee on Resolutions went into session at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the national headquarters on the second floor of the Brown Palace Hotel.

The corridors in front of the room immediately became the center of activity for lobbyists of all kinds. Richmond Pearson Hobson, the naval expert and Japanese war alarmist, was one of the first to appear. He was admitted into the committee-room.

Sam Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, with the other union agitators, appeared. Gompers sent for Gov. Haskell, and the Governor said that he would inform Gompers when the committee was ready to hear him.

Gov. Haskell then called upon Mr. Hobson to speak on the subject of the navy. He began by saying that, as he had had access to accurate documents all the statements he was about to make could be taken at the face value.

FEARS FOREIGN WAR.

"I believe that the party now in power should be held responsible for the present inadequate national defense," he said. "I believe that a great foreign war practically is inevitable. I believe that the lack of preparation on the part of America will entail inevitable humiliation. It is not unlikely that war will come before another national convention is called, and it is more than likely that our party will be in power.

"There is not a foot of soil on the Pacific Coast that isn't at the mercy of Japan. This is because there is no balance of power there. Since 1898 Japan has been preparing to take the Philippines and other valuable islands from us. The possession of those islands is the key to the commerce of the Pacific, and the control of the Pacific means the control of the destinies of the world.

"Which will it be—the white man or the yellow man?

"Japan also wants China. She is leading a general conspiracy to divide China so that she can get the coast towns, and get money to finance her schemes. And America is her great competitor. For the first time in the history of the world the white man has met the yellow man on a plane of equality. And the yellow man is giving the challenge. That means war, now.

SPIES ON COAST.

"While I am talking to you now, 150,000 men are under arms in Japan. Japan has 85,000 men under arms on the Pacific Coast of America. They are formed in clubs. Nine are in Vancouver. Spies are all over this country surveying important points. Japan could put 1,000,000 trained men on the Pacific Coast within a few months. The United States has not 100,000 men ready.

"The only chance this nation has of safety is in the control of the Pacific Coast. We must hold our enemies at bay with a big navy. While we are doing that we must build up our army and develop our resources.

"Japan's plan is to take the islands first, then Hawaii, then the Pacific Coast. As we would have no basis for the fleet, to send it after the Japanese fleet would be destruction. And we cannot build up an army in time to cope with the Japanese army that would come down from Canada. Our people are fast asleep. We must protect that Pacific Coast at all cost. Japan is lulling us by every means in her power, even to decorating the press."

Mr. Hobson ended his address by proposing two resolutions. The first one held the Republican party responsible for the present condition of the navy, and the second pledged the Democratic party to take hold of this great problem willingly.

Some of the learned platform carpenters were hungry about this time. Mr. Hobson had made some of them tired, too, and they adjourned for the purpose of eating.

JUST AS BRYAN ORDERED.

Immediately after being called to order at 5:30 o'clock the platform committee proceeded to carry out the wishes of Mr. Bryan, by declaring Gov. Charles N. Haskell, of Oklahoma, permanent chairman.

The committee then decided to entrust the details of the preparation of the platform to a sub-committee of seventeen members to be appointed by the chair; but before these appointments were announced the full committee listened to arguments in support of various planks which will be offered for adoption.

The first of the hearings was on the subject of the improvements of the inland waterways. Gov. Broward, of Florida, argued that a liberal pronouncement in favor of the improvement of the water courses of the interior would prove the means of obtaining many votes in such states as New York, Illinois and Ohio, and therefore urged the proposition as a matter of practical politics.

BABEL OF SOUND.

TEN THOUSAND AT CONVENTION OPENING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, July 7.—With cheers from 10,000 throats, with the swell of political oratory and the inspiring spectacle of a vast multitude of people, the Democratic National Convention began its deliberations today. The session, lasting a little over two hours, was notable more for its impressive magnitude and spectacular effect than for the business accomplished.

It was a stirring scene which spread before Chairman Taggart when, with uplifted gavel, he sought to bring order out of the confused babel of sound and motion. The splendid amphitheater, bedecked with flags and bunting, was packed to its uttermost limits with a dense and seething mass of humanity.

Below, in the central arena, sat the delegates, just two more than an even one thousand, and back of them the 1000 alternates—those 2002, the real convention, with the destinies of the party in their hands. Flanking them and sweeping around the hall were the long lines of eager expectant onlookers, rising tier on tier and gallery on gallery, in solid masses, the brightness of the women in their gay costumes vieing with the splendors of Old Glory, which hung at every hand.

Here and there amid bewildering throngs stood out the notable groups of leaders. Immediately in front and under the presiding officers' eye were ranged the Nebraska delegation, bronzed sons of the West, headed by the cowboy mayor, Dahlman, the personal spokesman of Bryan.

WHERE LEADERS SAT.

Well in front were the New York cohorts, with Chief Murphy, cold and impenetrable, and Judge Parker, rather serious-faced. Further back Col. Guffey was the smiling center of his Pennsylvania adherents, and near him, James Kerr, who is struggling to displace Guffey and take up the leadership.

Illinois was to the left center, with the rotund Roger Sullivan to the fore. Further back Tom Johnson, the fighting Mayor of Cleveland, moved among his adherents until the gavel sent him to his place among the distinguished guests upon the platform. Near him there sat a notable group—the venerable Senator Daniel, of Virginia, a type of the old time Southerner, with Towne, the vice-presidential candidate and orator, and the tall, blonde Congressman Silzer, of New York. With the Virginians could be seen Gov. Swanson; with Nevada, Gov. Dickerson and Senator Newlands; with Kentucky, Senator McGreary; with Missouri, Senator Stone, and occasionally ex-Gov. Dockery and the redoubtable Champ Clark; with Idaho, former Senators Dubois and Heitfeldt.

FOREIGNERS ON PLATFORM.

On the platform, too, were many representatives of foreign countries, young Viscount de Chambrun, of France; M. Kroupensky of Russia, Hon. H. F. Charteres of England, and the Ministers of Argentine, Greece, Belgium and Chile.

The appearance of the temporary presiding officer, Bell of California, was another signal for enthusiastic outbursts. He came forward amid the storm of tribute, sturdy and immaculate, with silk-fronted Prince Albert coat resplendent with convention medals and watch charms, giving the appearance of a decorated diplomatist.

It was noticeable that great applause came from the delegates at Bell's impassioned declaration that the writ of injunction shall not be turned into an instrument of oppression. Again there was uproarious applause as he arraigned Republican campaign contributions without a "cash register."

BRYAN AND GRAY.

After referring to Taft as a "bisected candidate" and demanding "but one man in the White House at a time," he adroitly turned his speech into a panegyric for Bryan, the reference to the Nebraska leader bringing forth a tumultuous demonstration.

The tide of Bryan sentiment sweeps on, gathering force as it proceeds, and tonight the chorus of "Bryan, Bryan" is well nigh universal. With it is a steadily swinging undercurrent for the nomination of George Gray, of Delaware, as Vice-Presidential candidate and this movement, at first intangible, has now assumed a definiteness which promises to merge it soon with the seemingly overwhelming current moving toward Bryan.

Tonight the opponents of Bryan are still seeking to unite their strength against him, with the hope of ultimately accomplishing his defeat.

NEW YORKERS DRAFT PLATFORM

ADOPT GOMPERS'S PLANK.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

DENVER, July 7.—The New York delegation in caucus early today adopted the platform prepared by its subcommittee, in which the declare, among other things, for a parcels post, postal savings banks, publication of campaign expenditures, and a modification of the Sherman anti-trust law so as to guarantee to the wage-earners, agriculturists and horticulturists of the country the right of organized effort in the protection of wages and the improvement of the condition of labor, to the end that such associations or their members shall not be regarded as illegal combinations in restraint of trade; declares for equal rights to all and special privileges to none, and the equality of all citizens before the law.

The platform also embodies substantially the anti-injunction plank proposed by the American Federation of Labor, and is as follows:

"We insist most strongly that the courts must be maintained and upheld in every way within the province assigned to them by the Constitution of our country. Neither the executive nor legislative branch of the government should be permitted in the slightest degree to invade or interfere with that part of the work of government assigned to the courts, but because of the way in which some judges have acted in cases where contempts occurring outside the view of the court are alleged to have been committed, we pledge ourselves as we have done in three prior platforms to the end that public confidence in the courts may be continued and strengthened, to the enactment of a law forbidding the issuance of injunctions in any cases in which an injunction would not issue if no labor disputes were involved, and providing that no injunction shall be issued when there is an adequate remedy at law.

OF COURSE.

LICKED BOOTS OF ONE SAM GOMPERS.

BY HARRY C. CARR

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A meeting that no doubt will be historic took place tonight, when Sam Gompers and other labor-union leaders addressed the Democratic Resolutions Committee. They were somewhat astonished to be asked questions even sharper than those put by the Chicago committee.

Isidore Dockweiler, the Los Angeles lawyer, floored Gompers and made him angry.

The meeting took place in a hotel parlor, gorgeously frescoed and furnished.

Little cupids playing with doves looked down incongruously from the ceiling on the little, duck-legged Pole in the skull cap.

Down in the rotunda of the hotel an insane brass band was playing "Dixie," and excited crowds of people were screaming at the tops of their voices. Every time the door opened to admit some belated member of the committee, a blast of maniacal sounds swept down on Gompers's dry, rusty voice.

Before the Republican committee his demeanor was the height of insolence. Here, however, he supposed he had them all with him and was suavity itself.

On the whole, he is more interesting when he is insulting. I can't imagine where Gompers ever got his reputation for brains, wit and general education. It seemed to me that he is intolerable.

Mere words! With a positive salaam, the committee removed the time limit and he ambled on for nearly an hour. He seemed not to be able to see when he is talking to the point.

With an air of deep portent and solemnity, he pounds out the most stupendous words, and does not always clearly understand what they mean.

There is, however, a certain fascination about his personality. There is an indescribable flavor of the Orient about him and his slumbrous, half-shut eyes. He looks like some evil old necromancer.

His boasted wit and repartee did not develop, however. When he was through talking, some of the members of the committee asked him questions. He couldn't answer them, and made a most ridiculous spectacle of himself.

DOCKWEILER'S POSER.

Isidore Dockweiler asked him the worst poser. Gompers contended that injunctions should never issue in labor disputes. He said there was always another remedy in the law.

"Suppose," said Dockweiler, "that all the cooks and waiters of this hotel should walk out tonight, and tomorrow morning should form a cordon around the house, preventing other men by force from coming to work. According to your idea, how could that hotel man save his business?"

"He could cause their arrest for battery," said Gompers learnedly.

"Oh, no he couldn't," said Dockweiler. "The man assaulted by him could have the striker arrested but the hotel proprietor couldn't. Under your ideas this hotel-keeper would have no remedy to protect his property."

Gompers tried awkwardly to argue the case, but was so foolish that the lawyers on the committee began to laugh.

The labor leader became angry and snapped out: "The trouble with lawyers is that they don't know the law."

Senator Stone of Missouri asked Gompers a few muddled questions that no one, including Gompers, could see any point to. Attorney King of Salt Lake City demanded to know of Gompers, if he could conceive of any case wherein an injunction would lie if his platform is adopted.

STUMPED.

Gompers tried to think up a case but it was obviously out of point.

The consensus of opinion on the committee seemed to be that the court injunction will simply go out of business, if the Democrats can put it out.

Several members of the committee, like Williams of Massachusetts, fairly licked the boots of the labor-union leaders. Several times, when Gompers was floundering in such deeps, these men would nasally butt in and answer for him.

One dreary individual named Fuller, who represented the various railroad unions, insisted upon reading about a bushel of cases in which Federal injunctions had issued.

He seemed not to have the faintest conception as to which ones applied to his argument and which did not. It seems to be a characteristic of an untrained mind.

Before they got through, most of the members of the committee were grumbling very loudly because the time limit of ten minutes each had not been observed.

Milton K. Young of Los Angeles presented a proposed plank providing that no injunction shall remain in force more than three days without a hearing and that two judges must concur in the issuance thereof. He and Joe Call of Los Angeles are the authors thereof. It attracted great comment from the committee.

The platform demanded by Gompers is virtually the same as that he asked of the Republican convention. He asks that labor unions be exempted from the Sherman Act.

He asks that no injunctions issue in any cases where an injunction would not lie if there were no labor dispute on.

"Well, what on earth do you mean by that?" asked one sleepy and exasperated member of the committee, and it was painfully evident from his reply that Gompers had not quite an idea himself.

He made a great lot of talk about the English law that shelters unions from civil liability for acts of their members

ALL HE WANTS.

So, all he said is this:

That no union shall be restrained from conspiring to ruin a man's business and that the law shall not permit the man to recover damages after the unions have ruined him.

Before the discussion was through, most of the lawyers on the committee had become thoroughly disgusted.

Among other leaders present was John Mitchell, mentioned as a candidate for Vice-President.

New Jersey Sticks to Gray.

DENVER, July 7.—The New Jersey delegates decided today after a heated argument in their cause to vote for George Gray of Delaware for President. It was also decided to vote under the unit rule. The latter decision was not reached until after a long debate which at times was somewhat heated.

ANTIS SEE HOPE.

they could dictate also the nomination for the Vice-Presidency. Gossip over the candidates for Vice-President has been completely overshadowed by the events of the day, and there is little change in the situation. There are nearly a hundred men in the field. Such leaders as found time to give attention to the Vice-Presidential situation tonight, however, seemed to think that the Bryan-Guffey contest, having become a national convention issue, that there is little hope left of the nomination of a conservative eastern Democrat on the ticket with Mr. Bryan.

The feeling was that there is such grave danger of the alienation of the conservative wing of the party that no man representing that wing would consent to being named.

IN BALANCE.

NEW YORKERS ON PRESIDENCY.

VITAL CAUCUS TO BE HELD TODAY BY DELEGATION.

Seventy-eight Votes of Empire State Are Yet Unpledged to Any Candidate and Chief Murphy Still Rivals Sphinx—Tammany Is Said to Be Conciliated.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, July 7.—The New York delegation will hold its third caucus of the convention week tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock to reach a long-delayed decision as to which candidate for the Presidential nomination shall receive the big block of seventy-eight votes from the Empire State.

The caucus has been called by Charles Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, and chairman of the delegation. The adherents of Mr. Bryan still claim that New York will vote for the Nebraskan, while the opposing forces are hopeful that the decision may help them in their efforts to block a nomination on the first ballot.

Mr. Murphy maintains the same Sphinxlike silence which has characterized his attitude ever since his arrival in Denver.

A spirit of conciliation, it is said, still pervades the Tammany delegation. As an evidence of this, it is pointed out that Judge Alton B. Parker, who was reported as coming to Denver as the representative of New York in a fight against the adoption of an anti-injunction plank, went into the session of the Committee on Resolutions tonight to advocate an anti-injunction plank which is declared to have been drawn by Gompers himself, and which formed a part of the tentative platform put forth today by the New York delegation.

Lewis Nixon was chairman of the subcommittee of the New York delegation that brought this about and it is the boast of the delegation leaders tonight that they have conciliated the radical, conservative and labor interests all at once, and that they have put forth a strong bid for the western vote by putting in a naval plank to establish a fleet on both coasts. Delegates from the West advocated such a plank in platforms of both parties, but the New York people say the West was ignored in this respect by the Republicans.

Altogether the New York delegation displays a feeling of contentment with its position at the convention despite the criticism that has been uttered because of its failure to express a preference as to the Presidency.

It was said tonight a fourth caucus might be held after the nomination of a Presidential candidate to decide where the support of the State shall be thrown in the Vice-Presidential contest.

FOLK IS SUBSERVIENT.

CLAYTON TO BE CHAIRMAN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, July 7.—The Committee on Permanent Organization met this afternoon, and on motion of Gov. Folk of Missouri selected Henry D. Clayton of Alabama as permanent chairman of the convention.

For the other offices the temporary selections were made permanent.

In presenting the name of Mr. Clayton, Gov. Folk said he had intended to offer the name of Champ Clark, but on being shown a letter from Mr. Bryan, in which the desire was expressed that Mr. Clayton occupy the chair, he gladly assented to Mr. Bryan's suggestion.

The Weber Piano of Today

The really great pianos of Europe and America—those possessing a distinct individuality—can be numbered almost on the fingers of one hand. In this very limited class the Weber Piano has held a place ever since that genius of pianoforte construction, Albert Weber, brought it into existence in the year 1852.

No piano has of late made such rapid progress, has so notably advanced its artistic standards as has the Weber. The musical world has been quick to appreciate this fact, and one great artist after another has added the weight of his personal indorsement to the Weber's prestige. Today such artists of the musical world as CARUSO and PADEREWSKI find in the WEBER PIANO that tone which alone can satisfy their desires.

IT WILL COST NOTHING TO INVESTIGATE

But remember, those dealers who cannot furnish the Weber Piano are not likely to tell you of its qualities, therefore you should come to Weber headquarters, where every style and size of Upright and Grand may be seen. Weber pianos range $550 up. We make arrangements for monthly payments if desired.

...VENTION HALL, DENVER, July 7.—A strong cordon of police was stretched about the Denver auditorium when the delegates to the Democratic National Convention began to arrive today at the scene of the next four days' activities. The sidewalks were roped off to assist the officers in handling the interested throngs that began to gather about the hall early in the day. Mounted police kept the streets clear as a passageway for those holding tickets.

On two of the streets fronting the auditorium great banks of snow gave cool greeting to the visitors. From the mountain heights the snow had been brought down to this mile-high city on a special train and hauled to the city in carts of various descriptions. The day was by no means hot, however, and the only effect of the snow was the novelty of an icy street fight in July.

The doors of the hall were unbarred at 11:30 o'clock, nearly one hour before the gavel of National Chairman Taggart was scheduled to fall as the signal for the beginning of the initial session. The apparent conveniences, facilities and architectural fitness of the new auditorium for convention purposes was remarked by practically every delegate who filed in.

Nebraska, as befitted its prominence in the convention proceedings, was seated directly in front of the speakers' stand. On its left was the Alabama delegation, on its right Indiana. Immediately behind Nebraska was the State which will weigh heavily in the outcome—New York.

OPPOSITION GROUPED.

Georgia, the nest of Bryan's opponents who have from the first longed for an opposition standard, was close behind. New York and somewhat to the left. Colorado was properly placed in the convention host, being far off to the left, where the seeing was poor and the hearing no better. With the Bryan State along the outer edge of Mississippi, Wisconsin and Idaho, Minnesota was less advantageously placed than Nebraska, the Johnson boomers being located far in the rear of the left center of the group of States. The Gray men from Delaware were on the left of New York, while their friends from New Jersey, today announced their intention to vote for Gray when the Presidential ballot is on, close by them.

The banner of the standards which designated the delegations commanded his lettering on too large a scale, so that when he came to the State of Alaska he was compelled to drop the last two letters. The standard, as it stood in the convention hall spelled the mournful ejaculation "Ala," and provoked much merriment among the delegations seated in its vicinity.

The day's session was looked forward to as one of preliminary formalities the reading of Temporary Chairman Theodore A. Bell being the feature. The announcements of committees and an early adjournment out of respect to the memory of the late ex-President Cleveland complete the announced programme.

Senator Alton B. Parker of New York was to the hall with a Cleveland resolution to be offered in case he should secure recognition by the chair. An official party of Mr. Cleveland faced the platform, having a position of honor second only to that of Thomas Jefferson.

BAND BEGINS TO PLAY.

At 11:36 o'clock, when the hall was more than one-third filled, the first notes of the convention crashed from the upper balcony. A splendid band of forty odd pieces, uniformed in costume of the western plains—blue flannel shirts, peaked hats and red bandana handkerchiefs, flung about their necks—played a series of patriotic selections which the applause of the incoming crowd, despite unusual precautions observed in the convention halls were disregarded by many of the delegates, notably in the Virginia section, where half a dozen men puffed pipes and sent up curling clouds of smoke from their stogies. When the band, after playing a medley of Southern airs, swung into "Dixie," the smokers forgot their tobacco while they rose and cheered spirit of the old-time melody. The rest of delegates and spectators followed suit and for a few minutes the hall rang with the shouts of delight.

Temporary Chairman Taggart reached the convention hall at 11:45 o'clock, and was followed by Temporary Chairman Bell, and they were liberally applauded as they made their way to the platform. All the delegations had been

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CONVENTION HALL, DENVER, July 7.—A strong cordon of police was stretched about the Denver auditorium when the delegates to the Democratic National Convention began to arrive today at the scene of the next four days' activities. The sidewalks were roped off to assist the officers in handling the interested throngs that began to gather about the hall early in the day. Mounted police kept the streets clear as a passageway for those holding tickets.

On two of the streets fronting the auditorium great banks of snow gave a cool greeting to the visitors. From the mountain heights the snow had been brought down to this mile-high city on a special train and hauled to the city in carts of various description. The day was by no means hot, however, and the only effect of the snow was the novelty of an icy street fight in July.

The doors of the hall were unbarred at 9 o'clock, nearly one hour before the gavel of National Chairman Taggart was scheduled to fall as the signal for the beginning of the initial session. The apparent conveniences, acoustic and architectural fitness of the auditorium for convention purposes was remarked by practically every delegate who filed in.

Alaska, as befitted its prominence in the convention proceedings, was seated, with the exception of Nebraska, the delegation from that State made a spectacular entrance. They came in marching in a solid column, down the center aisle, holding high a large banner of red, white and blue silk, on which was painted a portrait of Mr. Bryan. Above the picture were the words: "Bryan Volunteers," and beneath it "Of Nebraska." The sight of the banner and the march of the Nebraskans created great enthusiasm for a few minutes, many of the delegates and alternates leaping upon their chairs and waving hats and handkerchiefs.

California followed Nebraska into the hall and vied with that State in the splendor of the banner in white, blue and gold, which also bore a likeness of Mr. Bryan. The Californians carried palm leaf fans and small national flags, which they waved in enthusiastic acknowledgment of the cordial greeting accorded them by the delegations already in the hall.

CONVENTION CONVENES.

At 12 o'clock, promptly, Chairman Taggart of the National Committee, brought down his gavel with a resounding whack and called the convention to order. Cheers followed the blow of the gavel, and Chairman Taggart, as soon as they had subsided, spoke as follows:

"As chairman of the Democratic National Committee, it becomes my pleasing duty to call this convention to order, and in so doing I can not refrain from the suggestion that in numbers, in the personnel of the delegates, in enthusiasm and in the determination of victory, it is the greatest political convention ever assembled in the United States.

"It is certainly appropriate that such a convention should meet in this great western city, whose citizens have shown their generous hospitality on every hand, and whose enterprise and energy are attested by the erection of this magnificent auditorium.

"In this connection, I desire to express the thanks of the members of the National Committee to the people of Denver and especially to the members of the Denver Convention League, whose unselfish and untiring work has contributed so much to this successful and happy opening of the campaign in 1908."

Following Mr. Taggart's remarks the secretary read the official call of the convention. Bishop John W. Keane of Wyoming was introduced to deliver the invocation prayer, and the spectators, rising to their feet at the request of the chairman, joined. The bishop read his prayer.

In the midst of the prayer, a photographer in the gallery set off a flashlight, calling down on his head the wrath of all who were grouped in his vicinity. The smoke from the explosion filled a corner of the hall.

"I am directed by the National Committee," said Chairman Taggart, "to name temporary officers of the convention and the clerk will read the list."

TEMPORARY OFFICERS NAMED.

Temporary chairman, Theodore A. Bell, California; general secretary, Urey Woodson, Kentucky; assistant general secretary, Edwin Sefton, Washington, D. C.; assistant secretaries, Charles S. Northern, Atlanta, Ga.; H. C. Richmond, Fremont, Neb.; C. A. Nash, Perry, Iowa; Edward Cahill, Springfield, Ill.; Will Reif, Rawlins, Wyo.; Frank B. Ross, Indianapolis, Ind. Reading clerks, William McEnry, Rock Island, Ill.; T. F. Smith, New York City; William E. R. Byrne, Charleston, W. Va.; C. J. Gavin, Denver, Colo.; Rees F. Borrocks, Little Rock, Ark., and Joseph L. Reily, Indianapolis, Ind. Sergeant-at-arms, John I. Martin, Missouri; chief assistant sergeant-at-arms, J. C. Fenn, Indiana; chief doorkeeper, Eugene W. Sullivan, Illinois; tally clerks, Ruby LaFoon, Madisonville, Ky.; V. Allert, Langdon, Md.; E. E. Murphy, Leavenworth, Kan.; Thomas H. Lovelace, St. Louis; Thomas B. Collier, Memphis, Tenn., and C. C. Ernst, Decatur, Ind. Messenger to secretary, W. V. Richardson, Danville, K.; messenger to chairman, Ernest Brasley, Sullivan, Ind. Parliamentarian, Nat T. Crutchfield, Kentucky; official stenographer, M. W. Blumberg, Washington, D. C.; chaplains, Tuesday (open day,) Rt. Rev. James J. Keane, archbishop of Wyoming; Wednesday, Rev. C. F. Reimer, Denver, Colo.; Thursday, Rabbi Samuel Kerch, Seattle, Wash.; Friday, Rev. P. T. Ramsey, Denver, Colo.

The name of Theodore A. Bell was greeted with an outburst of applause, as was that of Urey Woodson, the secretary. A few handclaps followed each of the other names as they were called.

The list as read was adopted by the convention unanimously.

Chairman Taggart appointed Gov. Blanchard of Louisiana, Lieut.-Gov. Ellison of Virginia and Representative Ollie James of Kentucky a committee of three to escort Temporary Chairman Bell to the speaker's rostrum.

Before Mr. Bell spoke, Chairman Taggart requested that there should be no smoking in the hall. The announcement was greeted with applause.

"Gentlemen of the convention," said Mr. Taggart, as the committee of three appeared on the platform with Chairman Bell, "I take pleasure in introducing to you your temporary chairman, Theodore A. Bell."

A shout of applause greeted the words of the chairman and as the temporary chairman advanced to the front to deliver his address, the cheers were redoubled.

BELL IN GOOD VOICE.

Mr. Bell is about five feet ten inches in height, slender, clean-shaven, brown-eyed and brown-haired. His voice is clear and penetrating, and he had no difficulty in commanding the instant and close attention of the convention.

The delegates were prone to applaud from the utterance of Mr. Bell's first sentence. His manner of delivery lent emphasis to his points and there was spontaneous hand-clapping at the conclusion of each of his gracefully-rounded periods. The galleries, too, joined liberally in the applause bestowed upon the speaker.

Cheers mingled in the outburst of applause when Mr. Bell asserted that the Democratic party would always stand unalterably opposed to monopoly of production. Laughter and cheers greeted the speaker's announcement that he had read deeply in the Chicago platform and had failed to find therein anything about "Republican prosperity." His sarcastic illusions to the claims of excellent management of the country made by the Republicans also elicited the approval of the delegates.

As Mr. Bell approached the subject of the anti-injunction plank the attention of the convention was quickened and his statement that the Republican declaration on that subject was merely a recital of existing law called out increased applause.

Still greater cheering followed the declaration, "Whatever we do on this subject must be done firmly, frankly and unequivocally," and this was in turn intensified when Chairman Bell asserted that injunctions must not be turned into "an instrument of tyranny."

HOT SPARKS SCATTERED.

A flashlight exploded directly in front of the platform, while Mr. Bell was speaking, sending a shower of red-hot powder sparks scattering among the New York delegation and the antics of the members in dodging and brushing away the fire brand caused a wave of laughter. Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, was directly in the line of fire, but sat placid while his lieutenants on either side slapped the sparks from his shoulders.

Flags and hats went up in a cloud and voices rose in a storm of approval when the speaker asserted that the popularity of the present administration is due to "the Democratic principles he had practiced."

At the prediction of Mr. Bell that the convention would name the next President of the United States, alluding in the most pointed manner to Mr. Bryan, the roar of delight broke loose once more. Some of the New York delegates joined in the demonstration, but the majority remained passively in their seats. Illinois acted in exactly the same manner, and while Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas with delegations from the Far West yelled and stamped in approval, the men from Georgia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Vermont sat silent and gave no tribute to the first unmistakable allusion to Mr. Bryan as a Presidential candidate.

Mr. Bell called out another demonstration when he sharply criticised the Republican party for its refusal to adopt a plank calling for publicity of campaign contributions prior to election day. He declared the refusal of the Republicans to adopt "a cash register" was a confession of dishonesty.

The declaration of the speaker in favor of the direct election of United States Senators by the people also was cheered on the main floor and in the galleries. A stand for protection against immigration "from oriental waters" caused a renewal of the applause which seemed very near the surface, and burst forth time and time again. At the conclusion of the speech, the delegates rose to their feet and cheered Mr. Bell for some time.

DEMOCRATIC ISSUES OUTLINED BY BELL.

Temporary Chairman Bell spoke as follows:

We have assembled at a time when the public conscience is demanding honesty of purpose in the men who undertake to direct the affairs of state. The public eye is keenly sensitive to every political movement, and our proceedings here will be approved according to the degree of sincerity appearing in the work of this convention.

There is a widespread belief, founded upon evidence of a convincing character, that the party in power has not been true to its trust, that it has betrayed the common interest into the hands of the enemies of good government, thereby forfeiting its right and destroying its ability to rule in the name of the people.

Apparent to every one is the fact that way down deep in the heart of the Republican convention at Chicago there was a feeling of anger and resentment over the popular clamor for reforms; and it is equally patent that there is no bona fide intention on the part of the Republican party of granting any reforms, if the machinery of that party can be retained in present hands. Its paper platform, divided like ancient Gaul into three parts—barren promises, makeshifts and evasions—it is hoped, will make a good campaign transparency; but no one seriously believes that the Republican party really indorses that neutral manuscript, which held the convention together until it could ratify the nomination of a Presidential candidate.

Approaching our great task in a manly manner, imbued with the loftiest sentiments of patriotism, ambitious to throw every safeguard around the liberties of our people, determined to stamp out the abuses that are consuming the substance of the nation, let us proceed to our appointed duty with the sustaining consciousness that we are responsible alone to God and to our country for the justice of our cause.

THREE THINGS TO DO.

There are three things that this convention should do. It ought to present in a plain and intelligible manner the serious industrial and political conditions that are disturbing the peace and happiness of our country. We should then proceed to a courageous exposure of the Republican policies that are coöperating with private greed in the general oppression of the people. Most important of all, we must exhibit a readiness and an ability to grasp the problems of the hour and to effect their solution in a manner that will satisfy the sober, common sense of the multitudes whose interests are at stake.

Among the great evils that afflict the country at the present time is the abuse of corporate power. At first the advancing aggressions of the corporations are not discernible to the common eye, for every move is carefully covered up until sufficient political strength is attained to defy the protest of the people. Thus the constant and insidious invasion of the people's rights finally results in a species of arrogance and defiance so formidable in its appearance that the body of the people, in fear of even worse aggressions, hesitate to assert and exercise their rightful authority over these colossal enemies of the commonwealth. And so we behold a subversion of our free institutions, a government voluntarily subordinating itself to selfish private ends, special privilege resorting to cunning, bribery and intimidation to maintain its unholy power, while the masses timidly hope that when avarice has at last reached the point of satiety it will then benevolently permit the people to resume their rightful share in the government of themselves. Whenever the mutterings of the people become too threatening the cry of confiscation goes up and appeals are frantically made to the sacred rights of property. This is intended to affright the ears of honest men in the enjoyment of the fruits of their industry and thrift, and by thus playing upon their prejudices and fears to deter them from casting their influence upon the side of wholesome reform. The cry of confiscation is the historic defense of usurpation.

Let the people take warning. Whenever the wrongs of today become the rights of tomorrow, the nation is in dealy peril.

NOT PROPERTY'S ENEMY.

The Democratic party is not the enemy of property, but to the contrary, it has always stood and will continue to stand firmly against every species of aggression that would destroy or weaken the right of any man to enjoy the rewards to which his patience, his skill, his industry and his economy entitle him. Our party approves that feeling of pride which always accompanies the possession of property, and it commands an individual ownership in the soil that will bring to the homes of America more of the conveniences, comforts and luxuries of life. Against the evils of special privilege we urge the benefits of equal opportunity, in order that there may be more land owners, more homes and more happiness among the masses.

The Democratic party is not an enemy of all corporations. It recognizes their great value in the industrial world. Through the agency of corporations scattered wealth is brought together and given a deceiving force that it would not otherwise possess. Great enterprises are thereby undertaken and the undeveloped resources given to the world.

No radical man can be opposed to corporations as such and the assertion that the Democratic party is waging an indiscriminate war against this convenient form of transacting business has no foundation in fact. It is the abuse only of corporate power that we seek to eliminate, viewed in the light of a great moral question, etc.

Our party is not opposed to production on a large scale but it is unalterably opposed to monopoly in production. It is easier to prevent monopoly than it is to control it after being established. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and the withdrawal of special privileges will take away the meat upon which the trusts are fed. If this be followed by a criminal prosecution and an imprisonment of the directors and officers of the guilty corporations, monopoly will be shorn of many of its terrors.

No fair-minded man can be opposed to such forces as the Democratic party is now waging against these corporations. The only abuse of corporate power that we seek to eliminate, viewed in the light of a great moral question, the control of corporations, should remain a question of common concern rather than a political one; but the shameful complacence of the Republican party in permitting its forces to be controlled and operated by the most offending corporations of the country throws the problem into the political arena and compels the public to choose between the Democratic party, that will, and the Republican party, that will not, place some restrictions on incorporated greed.

PLAYS CHICAGO PLATFORM.

We are now confronted with the inquiry, What assurance has the Republican party given that it will use the forces at its command to restore the people to their rights? In its Chicago platform it did not make even a decent pretense of championing the people's cause, and the proceedings of that convention are glaringly insincere. It was noted that two elements were present at that gathering, one with sufficient votes to adopt a platform and nominate its candidate for President, and the other powerful enough to unwrite the platform and tie the hands of the nominee. The distinguishing feature of the Chicago platform is its oft-repeated promise to do a lot of things that the Republican party has heretofore failed to do. That party went to Chicago fresh from the halls of Congress, where an overwhelming Republican majority in both branches enabled it to propose and to adopt any legislation that it chose. Does the Republican party believe that it can be absolved from its dereliction of duty by an empty promise to do in the future what it has wilfully failed to do in the past?

Some one has suggested that this convention should publish an indictment against the Republican party.

We probably can expedite the proceedings by entering the plea of guilty that is contained in the Chicago platform, simply changing the words "we will" to the words "we did not," to conform to the admitted facts. We then have the following Republican confession of guilty:

"We did not revise the tariff."

"We did not amend the anti-trust laws to secure greater effectiveness in the prosecution of criminal monopolies."

"We did not add a single line to the interstate commerce laws giving the Federal government supervision of the issuance of stocks and bonds by interstate carriers."

"We did not enact a currency measure that would mitigate the evils of a financial panic, such as has recently prostrated the country under a Republican administration."

"We did not limit the opportunities for abusing the writ of injunction."

"We did not establish postal savings banks."

"We did not establish a bureau of mines and mining."

"We did not admit into the Union the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona as separate States."

POSTAL BANKS UPHELD.

The last Congress was in session during a financial crisis, when innumerable banking institutions, preferring a holiday to a funeral, closed their doors and filled the minds of millions of depositors with anxiety and fear. The sentiment in favor of postal savings banks, which has been steadily growing, became almost universal during the recent panic. So insistent became the voice of the people that the President sent a special message to Congress, urging the establishment of postal savings banks, where the earnings of our people might be safely deposited under the direct control and responsibility of the Federal government, and where no peculating bank cashier or gambling board of directors could eat up the savings.

The United States Senate showed its hearty sentiment with this popular demand, and its profound respect for the President, by adjourning while the message was being read, while over in the House of Representatives they refused to suspend the roll call long enough to receive the communication that had been sent there from the White House.

The Chicago platform points with pride to the passage of a child-labor law for the District of Columbia. Let the Republican party go further than the enactment of penal laws and in the name of humanity use its vast energies for the removal of conditions that are forcing our children into the labor market.

It is the reign of monopoly that is emptying our schoolhouses and filling the sweatshops with child labor, and this same system of monopoly is fast limiting the opportunities for independent livelihood among those who are forced into the industrial field, and thus it is doubly blighting that hope of youth which in former stages of our national growth opened an avenue of honor and independence to every child reared upon our soil.

ELLIS DRIFTS OUT A HOMER.

Angel Outfielder Scores One Run Ahead of Him.

Truck Eagan Also Hits Ball Over the Fence.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Los Angeles took the first game of the series from Oakland at Freeman's Park today by a score of 5 to 2.

Hosp pitched fine ball for the winners, allowing but four hits and striking out six men. Eagan's home run was one of the quartette of safeties, but as no one one was on bases when he slammed the ball over the fence on a line, the effort only netted one tally.

Nelson, the Oaks new importation from the State League, had two bad innings, which were sufficient to lose the game for him, three runs coming through in these stanzas.

In the third inning the lengthy southpaw presented Jud Smith with a base on balls with the bases full and Bernard was forced home. This tied the score for the Angels and they cinched the game in the eighth. Ellis knocking the ball over the right field fence with Brashear on the paths. Hogan then was called into the box and Wright finished the game at first base.

Happy Hogan had a wordy battle with Bull Perrine in the fourth inning, but lost the decision as he was ordered to the bench and Easterly took his place.

There was no scoring in the first inning, but Oakes was crewited with a two-bagger through Cook's misjudgment of the ball.

In the trans-bay players' half of the second, with Eagan out Slattery was given a base on balls, stole second and touched home on Cook's double-sacker to the right field fence.

Then both nines gave a fine exhibition of going out in one, two, three order until the Angels' turn at bat in the eighth spasm, when two runs were hustled over the plate. Dillon was the first man up, but was out on a hard-hit grounder to Haley. Brashear followed and lined a pretty double out to left field. Smith was an easy out, Haley to Hogan, but Ellis waited for a nice one and lifted it high over the right field fence and two runs were tallied. Delmas gave no trouble.

Hogan was sent into the box in the next and last inning and dismissed Easterly and Hosp in a hurry, but Bernard hung onto one of his slow dropping ones and sent the ball sailing away into right field while he trotted safely to the keystone sack. This did not please Hogan and he retaliated by striking out Oakes.

The Oaklands lost Haley and Heltmuller by the infield and strike-out route in the final round, but Eagan listened to the urging voices from the bleachers and knocked the ball over the fence; then Slattery made a feeble hit to Bernard and every one rushed for the cars.

There was a good attendance for a week-day game, both left and right bleachers being well lined with people, and they surprised themselves by rooting for the home team.

BEAVERS BEAT SEALS.

GAME FULL OF FEATURES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Beavers celebrated their home-coming by taking a game from the Seals by a 4-3 score. The visitors led for several innings, but in the sixth the locals organized a hitfest, Casey's walk and Cooney's hit in that inning scored Madden with the winning run.

Groom was on the mound and was somewhat erratic until the thir, when he rallied nicely. Willis was up for the Seals, but had such bad luck in the opener and again in the sixth that he was pulled out and Henley sent in.

Portland opened up in great shape. Casey ambled and Cooney sacrificed. Ryan lined one to the fence for two sacks, registering Casey. Raftery was hit by Willis and forced at second by McCredie, which brought Ryan to third, and the latter scored on a double steal. Melchoir and Curtis got to bases on poor fielding by Cooney, and McArdle stopped a wide one with his shoulder. This filled the sacks. Berry sent a long fly to Raftery and Melchoir beat the throw to the plate.

With two men down in the third, Groom became wobbly, walking Hildebrand and Bieser, and Williams beat out a bunt to Ryan, which filled the bases again. Melchoir came through with a corking double to left that scored two more Seals, in catching Curtis's foul fly against the bleacher screen; Danzig cut two of his fingers badly and had to leave the game. Johnson took his place on first.

McCredie led off in the sixth with a bunt to McArdle which he beat out. Johnson got a two-bagger and Madden's drive brought the manager home. Johnson tried to score on Groom's infield hit but was thrown out by Mohler. Casey got to first on four wide ones and then Cooney soaked the ball, bringing Madden in with the winning run.

Groom was presented with a bouquet today and Casey got a handsomely mounted elk tooth. Garret has recovered from his illness and will be sent against the Seals tomorrow.

McArdle had a dispute with Umpire O'Connell today when the latter called Johnson safe at third in the eighth, and he was chased to the bench.

CATCHER CLEVELAND PLACED

Al Cleveland, catcher of the Southern State League, over whom much contention has arisen lately between Managers Vacher and Messenter of the Christopher-Levys and Eagles teams, was awarded to the former at the weekly league meeting held last night.

Complaint has been received regarding the poor support given the league games in San Diego, and in all probability the Griefers' dates will be cancelled. C. A. Nagle of Rivera is endeavoring to organize a strong nine in the walnut section and in such event will make application for admittance to the league.

The league games for Sunday included the Eagles-Dyas-Cline contest at Joy Park, and the Christopher-Levy-San Diego game at San Diego.

TRAP FOR L. A. HIGH.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—From present indications, Berkeley High School and Belmont Military Academy will form the strongest football teams in their history, when the 1908 season opens in September, and in case games are arranged with Los Angeles High school, the northerners expect to make a killing that for once will bring the State interscholastic championship away from the south.

Belmont Military Academy will marshal a host of giant players when the new term opens, and as William Reid, the famous Harvard fullback and coach, will again have charge of the squad, the students are jubilant over the prospect. It is calculated that the team should be 20 per cent. stronger than the eleven that lost to Los Angeles High two years ago by the score of 6 to 4, and to the military boys this means that a victory over the southerners is a certainty if a match is arranged.

Last year the cadets were unbeaten. They easily beat Harvard Military School, Lick High, and Lowell High, and early in the season played a tie game with Berkeley High. Although the game with the Berkeleyites was a draw, it was the opinion of the majority of the followers of the game that the Berkeley aggregation was inferior to the soldiers, and that Belmont was entitled to the State championship, but as Los Angeles High was not included in the reckoning the decision was clearly unfair. Nearly all the old players will return to school, and there is an abundance of material for the two or three vacant places.

Last year Berkeley carried off first honors in the Academic League, and the present outlook points to a repetition of the feat this season with less difficulty. Only two of the old players will be missing when the roll is called in September, and there is sufficient material to be selected from last year's scrub and second teams to fill up the gaps. Knupp, Hartley, Morse, Incell, Mitchell, Steele, Boone, and the Sinclaire brothers are among the veterans who will again be in the line-up.

The annual game between Berkeley High and Belmont will be the principal interscholastic contest in the north this year, unless Los Angeles High plays here. The northerners are inclined to omit the Los Angeles aggregation entirely in figuring out the State championship, and the appearance of the southerners here on the gridiron would probably go far to change this method of calculation.

SIMPSON CATCHES DADDY YELLOWTAIL.

AVALON, July 7.—W. W. Simpson of Lancashire, Eng., returned from a fishing trip to San Clemente yesterday afternoon with the largest yellowtail ever caught since fishing tournaments began on the island. The monster weighed 60½ pounds and Simpson was fifty minutes in landing him. Previous to this, the largest yellowtail ever taken here was in 1902, when Dr. Trowbridge of Fresno landed a 47½-pound fish.

INSTITUTES PLAYGROUNDS.

O. S. Lowsley Introduces Los Angeles Plans Into Santa Barbara Recreation Resorts.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 7.—Two public playgrounds, planned on similar though less extensive lines to the Los Angeles recreation resorts, have been opened at Santa Barbara, being located on the High School athletic field and Lincoln-street school grounds. Oswald S. Towsley, who recently resigned the physical directorship of the Los Angeles high schools, has been largely instrumental in securing the interest of the Channel City citizens, and coöperating with the Women's Civic League and School Superintendent George, he completed arrangements for the immediate organization of the playgrounds on a self-governing system.

Eugene McCann was appointed director of the new recreation grounds upon the recommendation of Mr. Lowsley, and will soon form a baseball league and arrange a series of contests between the playground and school teams.

Upon the completion of the ball series, other games will be instituted. Indoor baseball will be the principal game for the girls, being considered far more beneficial than basketball, which Mr. Lowsley believes is too strenuous for the untrained player to indulge in. Handball and tennis will be diversions for the youngsters, and in the fall track and field sports will be arranged.

Nearly every youngster not employed has taken enthusiastically to the free recreation idea, and assisted by High School and T. M. C. A. athletes, are planning many interesting meets.

McCann was assistant to Mr. Lowsley in Los Angeles and later in the Stanford gymnasium and president of the university gym club.

SAIL FOR SAN CLEMENTE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

AVALON, July 7.—Gifford Pinchot, Senator Flint, Assistant Atty.-Gen. Woodruff, Charles F. Holder and Dr. Houghton steamed out of Avalon Bay this morning at 4:30 o'clock on the U. S. S. Madrone bound for San Clemente. The Madrone immediately returned to Avalon and is waiting for the arrival of Secretary Garfield, when she will at once convey him to the scene of the great fishing fray.

According to telegraphic dispatches received, Secretary Garfield reached San Francisco last evening and remained on board the St. Louis until this morning. He is expected to arrive here not later than tomorrow night.

TUNA CLUB MEETING.

The Tuna Club, at its annual meeting yesterday, elected the following officers: President, Charles F. Holder, founder of the club; vice-president, Col. Dan M. Burns; directors, Charles F. Holder, Col. Dan M. Burns, T. McD. Potter, E. H. Brewster, Col. C. P. Morehouse, L. P. Streeter and T. S. Manning; House Committee, Messrs. Manning, Brewster, Potter, Streeter and Burns. The clubhouse is now open and is pronounced by one and all to be the most complete of its kind on the Coast.

JUDGE ROSE SUCCESSFUL.

With W. H. Conger Takes Limit Catches of Trout on West Fork of San Gabriel.

Judge Rose and W. H. Conger of Pasadena experienced their usual run of good fortune with trout yesterday, exhibiting limit catches averaging ten inches in length. The party journeyed to the west fork of the San Gabriel last Friday, passing Sunday and the Fourth on the stream, and arrived home yesterday evening.

The excellent catches of the jurist and his companion bears witness that the San Gabriel is still an excellent camping ground for the trout fisherman, in spite of the rumors of inexperienced parties to the effect that the local stream was entirely flashed out. The judge had equal success with both worms and flies, using the artificial bait only to draw the fish from the deeper pools.

The schooner Shamrock has been declared the winner, with the Mamosa III second, the Tammany third and the Marchioness fourth. The Shamrock's corrected time is 51h., 4m., 25s.

M'CAREY'S NEW CARD.

Manager McCarey's next card is to be pulled off July 14 and the feature is to be a double task of beating two men to be undertaken by Mike Kutchos. The little Greek agrees to beat both Young McGovern and Jimmy Austin in twelve rounds, six rounds each.

Other bouts are: Frank Picato and Jack Kennedy, Frank Holbrook and Jim Cameron. Jim Konkel and Willie Fairbanks. Probably Al Vogt and Young Harlem Coffee Cooler will be given a return match.

The Konkel-Fairbanks bout probably will be the best of the evening. Both men have pretty fair reputations, and at 140 pounds should put up a great battle.

Al Kaufman slipped into town yesterday and went to Venice, where he expects to work out, according to reports from McCarey's headquarters. Johnson is in San Pedro working out for the battle July 24.

Scores Thirty-eight Out of Possible Forty-nine in Moving Rifle Target Shoot.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Walter Winans, the American horseman and revolver shot, beat the world's record by five points in rifle shooting at Bisley, July 4. The American scored 38 out of a possible 40 in shooting at the moving target.

In order that he might be credited with representing America in the contests at Bisley, Mr. Winans recently cleared up the matter of his nationality by swearing his allegiance before the Consulate-General and expressing his intention to return to the United States to resume the duties of citizenship.

Winans has held the revolver championship of England for twelve years. He has won forty-one championship medals in England and on the continent.

Oceanside Fishing.

Holiday anglers returning from Oceanside, bring glowing accounts of the unusual run of croaker and yellowfin encountered at the south coast resort. Roy F. B Shaver passed Sunday and the Fourth fishing off the pier, and caught over twenty pounds of croaker within four hours. Al Dunn, who has been making weekly trips to Oceanside, while not a fisherman himself, is enthusiastic over the number of small fry landed by the resort roadsters, and is planning to return next Sunday with a full equipment for a personal try with the fish.

La Spada's performances during the last year have been watched closely by university men, and although he was beaten by Thorpe, of Harvard School and Rubio of Los Angeles High, Berkeley critics believe he will develop into a point winner for California.

GOOD ROADS.

ALL INDORSE BOND ISSUE.

Citizens of Beach Cities in Favor of It.

Business Men Pleased With Highway Plans.

Overwhelming Vote Promised for Big Scheme.

Property owners of Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Venice are intensely enthusiastic over the good-roads movement and on the 30th inst., when the matter is put to a vote, the cities will present an almost unbroken phalanx at the polls in favor of the bonds.

Nowhere in the county has the road question received more careful study than at Ocean Park, and though a Times reporter spent the entire afternoon yesterday interviewing the men of affairs of that city, he was unable to find one single person who was not unqualifiedly in favor of voting the bonds and having a system of highways constructed which shall place the county in the forefront as far as roads are concerned.

Among the most enthusiastic advocates of the bond issue are some of the largest property owners of Ocean Park and Santa Monica, men upon whom much of the burden of building the roads will fall. One and all they emphasize the fact that the cost of constructing a chain of satisfactory highways, connecting the principal cities and towns of the county, will be but trifling compared with the benefits which will accrue therefrom.

For a time it looked as though the bonds might fare badly at the hands of Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Venice voters, but the opposition was, almost entirely, the result of misapprehension of the object of the bonds, and among those who now raise their voices most strongly in favor of the issue are those who a few weeks ago were its avowed opponents.

BEST PLANS INDORSED.

That the plans for road improvement adopted by the Los Angeles County Highway Commission is the best that could be drawn up under the circumstances is the universal feeling. There is a general sentiment in favor of more work, however, and several prominent men yesterday expressed their regret that it would not be possible to vote for $6,000,000 worth of bonds instead of $2,500,000.

G. M. Jones, one of the founders of Ocean Park and a large realty owner of the city, is enthusiastic over the outlook. He believes that the bonds will carry by an overwhelming majority. Said he yesterday:

"There can be but one sentiment regarding the advisability of voting those bonds. We must have those roads; we need them and we cannot build them too soon. I believe that every one in Ocean Park entertains the same sentiment that I do and I feel certain that the city will make a strong showing when the matter comes to a vote.

"I have been a good-roads enthusiast for so many years that all of my acquaintances know how I stand. I shall vote for these bonds and I shall exert all of my influence to induce others to do so, though I cannot believe that much inducement will be needed.

"Why, it is impossible to overestimate what the construction of that great system of highways will mean to this city as well as to all Southern California. We must build those roads, which means that we must vote those bonds at the coming election."

Other men of affairs spoke in a like strain, one and all indorsing the plans adopted by the Highway Commission. Following are some of their opinions:

NO LONGER DOUBTFUL.

Hon. T. H. Dudley, Mayor of Santa Monica and president of the Ocean Park Bank: "I am certainly in favor of the Good Roads bonds, for I believe that the roads will be of immense value to Santa Monica and Ocean Park. Good roads are of primary importance to any community and none but the most short-sighted would oppose their construction.

"At first I was somewhat doubtful about the coming bond election, as I was not certain that we would get full value for what it would cost us. Today I went over the maps showing the routes of the proposed improvements and I certainly consider the plans and specifications adopted by the Highway Commission to be the best that could have been selected.

"I believe that the people of the district will all agree with me. There was considerable opposition in certain quarters at first, but it was largely caused by misunderstanding, and as people came to understand the plans they are indorsing it heartily. I shall vote for those bonds."

S. J. Vawter, first vice-president of the First National Bank of Ocean Park: "I am most certainly in favor of improving the roads of this county and I have been working along that line for years. I shall vote for the bonds at the coming election, as I believe that the benefits which will accrue to us will be many times greater than the financial outlay necessary in order to accomplish the work.

"Good roads are of vital importance to any community and Los Angeles county should have the best system of highways possible. I do not believe that any one will contradict that statement and I certainly expect to see the bonds strongly supported in this section at any rate."

MOST IMPORTANT.

R. C. Burmister of Ocean Park, wholesale and retail grocer: "Good roads are the most important thing in the world. The construction of the proposed system of highways will do more for Ocean Park than any other improvement possibly could accomplish. I believe that the building of a good road into a city means as much as the construction of a good railway.

"I shall exert my influence in favor of the bonds and I feel certain that every other man who has the interests of Ocean Park at heart will do likewise. The construction of good roads is absolutely essential to this beach and I will certainly boost the movement to the full extent of my ability.

"I have talked the matter over with a good many people and, as far as I have been able to judge, I should say that a heavy vote in favor of the bonds will be polled here."

F. G. Smith, of the Smith Realty Company of Ocean Park: "I have been waiting for better roads for years. We cannot have too many miles of good highways. They mean just so much money to us and we must have them. It is the duty of every one to get out and work for those bonds. We want to attract people to this county. There is nothing which will do more to accomplish that end than a fine system of roads. Money spent on roads is money well spent and I believe that the Highway Commission's plans will provide us with a system of which we may well be proud, as far as it goes."

F. E. Reeves, of the Devore & Pettis Hardware Company: "We are in favor of good roads, first, last and all the time. There is no room for a difference of opinion in regard to the matter. We are all Good Roads enthusiasts in this section of the county."

GREATEST ATTRACTION.

Louis C. Bradt, automobile dealer of Ocean Park: "I should not have been working for good roads for the past three years if I had not thought that they were needed. Good roads are essential to any section and particularly so to Los Angeles county.

"There may be some other county in Southern California that has worse roads than this, but if so I have not found it. We should have the best system of roads in America in this county. It would be the greatest attraction that we could offer Easterners.

"I think that the plans which the Highway Commission has prepared are good and I do not see how we, here at Ocean Park, could very well ask for more. We shall have a good thoroughfare into Los Angeles and another fine one to Soldiers' Home. I shall work for the bonds."

W. H. Kiger, physician and surgeon of Santa Monica: "I have not given this matter as close study as I should, and cannot pass much of an opinion. I believe in good roads, however, and I think that we should all work for them."

R. Gill, Ocean Park garage: "I am emphatically in favor of the Good Roads movement. I have read the report of the Highway Commission and I consider it all right.

SHOULD HAVE BEST.

"This county should have the best roads in the country, those that we now have fall far short of that stage of perfection. We want to get Easterners of prominence to come out here and settle. We must offer them some inducements. Our country and our climate are all right. We must make it possible for visitors to see the one and experience the other under the most favorable conditions.

"If the wealthy tourist knows that he will find a fine system of highways here he will be tempted to bring his automobile with him. If he does he and travel about the country and will probably invest here in some consequence.

"As an advertisement alone the improvement of our highways will be worth many times what it will cost. From the standpoint of utility it will be a blessing to all classes. The motorist will be able to travel about with a greater degree of comfort; the agriculturalist will find it much easier to get his products to market.

"Every one will profit and the cost will be but trifling when compared with the benefits which will result. I am heartily in favor of those bonds and I shall work for them."

The little blue and gold buttons are everywhere in evidence at Santa Monica and Ocean Park and "Good Roads" is the general topic of conversation on the streets. Business and professional men, with no axes to grind, are constituting themselves special committees to create sentiment in favor of the bonds and are only awaiting the arrival of maps to start an active campaign.

POLITICAL.

CONVENTION TO BE A BIG ONE.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS GATHER HERE NEXT MONTH.

Nearly Nine Hundred Delegates Will Assemble at Shrine Auditorium on August 18th, Primaries Being Set for One Week Earlier. Manner of Naming the Men.

There will be 883 delegates in the Republican county convention, which will assemble at Shrine Auditorium, No. 655 West Jefferson street, Los Angeles, on August 18, in pursuance to the call issued yesterday by the Republican County Central Committee, which met at the rooms of the Republican League on South Spring street. Chairman Bradner W. Lee presided and there was an unusually large attendance of members of the committee. The apportionment of delegates is on the basis of one for each twenty-five votes or major fraction thereof cast for J. N. Gillett for Governor at the last general election.

The convention will consider it the candidates for various county, judicial, district and township officers to be voted for at the general election to be held on November 3. Among these are included four Superior Court judges, two State Senators, nine Assemblymen and three Supervisors.

For the purpose of nominating candidates for delegates to the county convention, to be voted on at the primary election, caucuses will be held in each precinct in the county at 8 o'clock p.m., July 31, at such place in each precinct as may be designated by the Republican County Central Committeeman, a written or printed notice to be posted in at least three public places in each precinct.

In the cities of Los Angeles and Pasadena, the primary election will be held, according to law, on August 11, the polls being open from 6 o'clock a.m. to 6 o'clock p.m. In all precincts outside these two cities, primaries will be held on the same date, but the hours will be from 1 o'clock p.m., to 8 o'clock p.m.

It was proposed at the meeting of the Central Committee that the polls at the primaries in precincts outside Los Angeles and Pasadena be opened and closed at the same hours as those within the cities named, but it was pointed out that, as the officials at such polling places would be obliged to serve without pay, there would be difficulty in filling the places; hence the change in hours was made.

Caucus delegates from Pasadena and Los Angeles to the county convention are declared by the Central Committee to be delegates to the Assembly district caucuses for their respective districts, these district caucuses being called to meet on August 8, at 1 o'clock p.m., to nominate candidates to be voted for at the primaries on August 11, as delegates to the State convention at Oakland on August 27. These various Assembly district caucuses will be held at the time named at the various places indicated as follows, the number of delegates to be elected to the State convention also being shown:

AEROPLANE EXPERT INVITED.

Farnham, the expert aëroplane aëronaut of the St. Louis Aëro Club, who has recently made many comparatively successful exhibitions with aëroplanes, has been invited by the Aëro Club of California to visit Los Angeles and give a series of aëroplane ascents under the auspices of the local air navigators. Definite plans were proposed at the meeting of the club, held last night, and every hope is entertained that the eastern demonstrator will make his exhibitions early in August.

Prof. Harry LeVerne Twining of Polytechnic High School led an interesting discussion during the open session on bird flying and the merits of bird flight in application to aëroflight.

D. J. Johnson, the local machinist who is constructing an aëroplane on original lines, expects to have his invention about completed by Sunday, and will be ready to attempt his first flight early in the week.

Classified Liners.

Times Classified Rates: The rate for inserting "Want" ads in The Daily Times is 1c per word for each insertion in the Sunday issue 1½c per word, each insertion; minimum charge 25c; except under following classifications the rate for which is 10c per line, minimum charge 50 cents: "Society Meetings," "Personals," "Special Notices," and "Baths and Massage."

"Liner" (classified) advertisements for Sunday insertion received over the counter or by telephone after 11:30 o'clock Saturday nights will be inserted under heading "Too Late to Classify."

Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, must be in The Times office before 10:30 o'clock Saturday nights. Rate 1¼ cents per word.

The Sunday circulation of The Times exceeds 77,000 copies, and more "liners" are regularly printed in its columns than in the five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times" any time of day or night and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

THE TIMES will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times in payment for "Liners," as no mistakes can be rectified without them.

SPECIAL NOTICES—

SUNDAY REAL ESTATE LINERS—Classified real estate advertisements for insertion in THE SUNDAY TIMES must be in this office before 10:30 o'clock Saturday nights. Other "want" advertisements for Sunday insertion will be taken over the counter until 12 o'clock.

The great volume of liners printed in The Sunday Times, numbering regularly over 2000 separate advertisements, makes this regulation absolutely necessary in order to get the Sunday issue out on time.

...Witness the beneficent operation of ...the national irrigation law, which had its ...origin in the new lands bill and which ...has its space upon the statute books ...in the opposition of Newlands ...Democratic Congress, but to Francis G. New... ...lands and his Democratic colleagues, ...who labored in and out of season for ...the reclamation of our arid lands under ...liberal aid and supervision.

...The preservation of our forests and ...conservation of all our natural resources ...were taken up by a Republican Presi... ...dent only after years of agitation by ...the Democratic party. Is it not the ...Democratic party today that is leading ...the fight for the improvement of our ...waterways along comprehensive and ...scientific lines? The last Republican ...Congress turned a deaf ear to the ...pleas of the President and refused ...to organize an Inland Waterways Com... ...mission to investigate and report upon ...the subject. The resolution of the ...Democracy to the policy of preserving and ...developing our natural wealth to the ...greatest of the whole people has its ...origin in that unholy alliance between ...the Republican party and the land ...and transportation monopolies of the ...country.

TARIFF REVISION.

...The triumph of the people can come ...only through the Democratic party, for ...the life of its chief political opponent ...is absorbed into the artificial life ...of the monopolies and trusts that it ...has given the hope that the Republicans ...will ever be able, or willing, to regain ...a separate existence where it can ...honestly discharge its duty to the ...people.

...With the power and opportunity to ...carry out Democratic principles we ...shall be called upon to revise the tar... ...iff not in interest of the whole peo... ...ple. This issue cannot be disposed of ...by the assertion that the Republican ...party also stands for tariff reform. ...There is a Republican revision and Democratic ...revision and there are two different things. ...The Democratic idea is that where ...the tariff enables the trusts to main... ...tain a system of extortion, the duty ...should be removed from all trust-made ...goods, so that competition from abroad ...may compel reasonable prices to our ...people. There is a vast difference ...between the protection of American ...industries and the protection of crim... ...inal monopolies.

...The expenses of our government, ...when most economically administered, ...will always require substan... ...tial tariff rates, for the customs du... ...ties will always be our chief source ...of revenue.

...The distribution of tariff rates must ...also be established with special ref... ...erence to the expenditures of govern... ...ment, keeping in view the greatest ...good to the greatest number and par... ...ticularly prohibiting the conversion of ...the tariff into an accomplice of mo... ...nopoly in the robbery of the American ...consumer. The Democratic idea is that ...the collection of sufficient revenues to ...meet the necessities of government ...should be the basis for tariff regulations ...and that the philosophy of excluding ...competition by a tax on the American ...producer which requires him to pay ...higher prices at home than are de... ...manded abroad is a pernicious abuse ...of the taxing power and a manifest ...injustice to our own people.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

...The correct use of large sums of ...money in political campaigns is large... ...ly responsible for the subversion of ...the people's will at the polls. The ...people are awakening to the realiza... ...tion of the great power of gold in con... ...trolling that ought to be determined ac... ...cording to the character of nominees ...and the soundness and morality of po... ...litical issues, and there is a general ...demand for publicity in the collection ...and use of campaign funds so our cit... ...izens may know whether a political ...party has purchased its way into of... ...fice or has won its victories by honest ...methods.

...The Chicago convention a minority ...report of the Committee on Resolu... ...tions, containing a declaration in fa... ...vor of campaign publicity, was over... ...whelmingly defeated upon a roll call ...in the convention, and the Republican ...party placed itself squarely upon rec... ...ord in favor of concealing the names ...of contributors and the amounts ...of their subscription, by a vote of 50 to ...1 in the committee, and by a vote of ...more than 10 to 1 in the convention, ...which confessed their guilt. They thus ...answered the charge so frequently ...made by our party that Republican ...success in the past has largely depend... ...ed upon the vast sums of money col... ...lected from the great monopolies of the country and corruptly used in the conduct of its campaigns. Let the voters of this country seriously consider whether the refusal of the Republican party to disclose the sources and amounts of its election finances is not a confession of the debasing and corrupt use of money in its campaign.

...An election is a party affair and the people have a right to know before casting their votes whether a campaign is being financed by the trusts and monopolies and just exactly what influences are being exerted to gain control, for it is not to be presumed that large appropriations for election purposes are being made from the treasuries of the corporations without an express or implied promise that the contributors shall receive special benefits in consideration of their subscriptions. Upon no other subject has the Republican party shown such utter contempt for the wishes of the people, and its refusal to use a cash register in its political affairs clearly exhibits a crookedness and dishonesty that will not bear the light of day.

COMMON CARRIERS.

...It is eminently proper that this convention should define the Democratic attitude toward the regulation of transportation companies, and call the attention of the country to the indisputable fact that it was only after years of Democratic effort that an amendment was made to the interstate-commerce law authorizing the commission to establish reasonable rates whenever it appeared that an existing schedule was unjust or unreasonable. The national platforms of the Republican party remained silent upon this great question for years, and the fact that the necessary change was advocated by a Republican President, who succeeded only through the aid of the Democrats in both branches of Congress in placing the amendment upon our statute books, does not affect the credit to which our party is entitled for having worked persistently for such an enactment. Further amendment to our laws giving the Federal government supervision over the issuance of railroad stocks and bonds is demanded.

...The fixing of transportation charges and the control of issuances of railroad securities are inseparably connected with the actual valuation of railroads. The Democratic party believes the first thing to do is to secure a physical valuation of the roads, that is, a valuation of the solid, rather than the liquid assets of railroad companies. On the other hand, the Republican party, on a roll call in the convention, by an overwhelming vote, took an unequivocal stand in favor of a system of water rates without giving the people the benefit of a meter.

...We search in vain for one syllable in the Chicago platform pledging the Republican party to retrenchment and reform; and it is no mere coincidence that has given us a billion-dollar session of Congress on the eve of a national election, and the possible revision of the tariff.

DIRECT VOTE FOR SENATORS.

...So long as we maintain the present method of selecting United States Senators we cannot hope that the upper chamber of Congress will reflect the popular will. On five different occasions, the House of Representatives has passed a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people, but these measures have been sandbagged in the Senate by those who are determined that the Senate shall not become an integral part of our free, representative institutions.

...The Democratic party will continue to labor for the direct election of United States Senators, and it appeals to the voters of America to elect members of the different State legislatures who will pledge themselves to vote for no candidate for the United States Senate that is not in favor of this reform.

...The affirmative position of the Democratic party upon these great questions will be made clear during the impending campaign, and disdaining all subterfuges, it will speak in a language that cannot be misunderstood. Its voice will ring with a genuine love for humanity, and the charge of insincerity will never be brought to its doors. Let our party brought to its doors. Let our party present the strong contrast, that which we here propose and that which was declared at Chicago. Let any man take the temperature of the Chicago platform and discover, if he can, any sign of human warmth. Not a single sentiment is there to redeem it from the materialism penetrating it through and through.

...On the bosom of the Pacific will be enacted the mighty commercial struggles of the future, and the interests of American commerce will demand that an adequate naval strength be maintained in the waters of the Pacific to protect our expanding commerce.

ORIENTAL IMMIGRATION.

...This magnificent western country of ours has not only proved attractive to our own people, and the other white nations of the earth, but it has likewise proved alluring to the brown and yellow races of the East. Some protection has been afforded by the exclusion of Chinese labor, but the evil is but half met if the immigration of Japanese, Koreans, Hindus and other Asiatic people be not also excluded from our shores. Not only the white toilers in America, but all our people, without respect to class or residence, are vitally interested in this menace to our social and industrial life from Oriental quarters, and if this is to remain a white man's country immediate steps should be taken to prevent Asiatic immigration of whatsoever character.

...This convention is meeting at a time when the angel of peace is hovering over the entire world, and the nations of the earth each day are strengthening those ties of friendship and common interest that will render war less frequent and permit mankind to turn their hands to the peaceable pursuits of life, rather than to the destruction of one another.

...The Democratic party realizes the weight that America must inevitably exert in the affairs of the world and will demand that her influence ever be cast on the side of peace, on the side of justice, on the side of the oppressed, and, if the will of the people shall commit to Democratic hands the sceptre of power it will be used for the realization of those higher American ideals to lift our own people to loftier and better things, and through our precepts contribute to the well being and happiness of all mankind.

...As the first order of business Mr. Bell recognized John E. Lamb of Indiana, who offered a motion for a call of the States for membership on the various standing committees of the convention. The motion was adopted. There was much confusion as the roll of States was begun, many delegates leaving their seats.

...The reading clerk when he came to Arkansas, pronounced the name of the State like Kansas, and there immediately came a shout of protest from the delegates who shouted "Ar-kansaw." Amid laughter the clerk corrected his pronounciation.

..."Indian Territory," called the clerk.

..."Indian Territory!" There was no response, and the clerk called the name a third time.

..."She's married!" yelled a delegate.

..."I mean Oklahoma," said the clerk, and the list went up to the chairman's stand amid much laughter. The call of the States ceased, and the list of committees was sent up by the pages while other business was in progress.

...The chair recognized I. J. Dunn of Omaha, to present the resolution of respect to the memory of the late Grover Cleveland, prepared at a conference of the friends of Mr. Bryan this morning.

...More than a score of the convention Committee on Resolutions approved the Cleveland tribute as offered. Charles Bryan, a brother of the candidate, was a member of the conference. The recognition of Dunn shut off the Parker resolution.

DUNN RESOLUTION.

...The following is the resolution offered by Dunn, who will place W. J. Bryan in nomination:

..."As it has pleased the ruler of the universe to remove from our midst Grover Cleveland, late President of the United States, who was three times the candidate of the Democratic party, be it

..."Resolved, that we, the delegates of the party in national convention assembled, recognize in him one of the strongest and ablest characters known to the world's statesmanship, who possessed to an extraordinary degree the elements of leadership; and by his able, conscientious and forceful administration of public affairs, reflected honor upon his country and upon his party; and,

..."Resolved, that we hereby express our deep sorrow at his death and extend our warmest sympathy and condolence to his family, and that this resolution be spread upon the records of the convention, and a copy be forwarded to Mrs. Cleveland; and,

..."Resolved, as a further mark of respect to his memory, the convention do now adjourn until 12 o'clock (noon) tomorrow."

...Mr. Dunn, mounting a chair, moved the adoption of his resolution, and for the purpose of seconding the resolution the chair recognized ex-Gov. David R. Francis of Missouri, who spoke briefly in eulogy of Mr. Cleveland in the following words:

SECONDED BY FRANCIS.

..."Mr. Chairman, Gentlemen of the Convention: I rise to speak to the resolutions presented, to do honor to the memory and credit to the life and services of Grover Cleveland. He was my friend, and if I failed to give utterance to my feelings upon this occasion I should be derelict to my duty and recreant to the impulses of my heart.

..."A man who for eight years administered the laws of this great country with honor to the country and to himself, as these resolutions state, is worthy of being honored by any assemblage of American citizens. A man who has been honored by the Democratic party more than any other man has been by that organization, and having been named in three consecutive contests as its standard bearer, is worthy of recognition by any assemblage of Democrats.

..."A man who held for two terms the highest honor within the gift of the greatest people of the world is worthy of all honor. I am not here to pronounce a eulogy upon Grover Cleveland. No resolutions, in my judgment, commending his life and services could be too strong. [Applause.] He defended the faith of the fathers. He preserved inviolate the prerogative of the executive and never encroached upon the rights of the judiciary or the legislative branches of the government.

FIRST FIGHT ON TRUSTS.

..."He made the first courageous fight against the trusts and monopolies of this country by his celebrated tariff message of 1887. He was not deterred from sending that message to the Congress of the United States by being told that it would jeopardize his election and the success of the party. Defeat ensued, but after four years rolled around, the Democratic party and the people of the country approved of that message and ratified his action by re-electing him President of the United States.

..."He was always able to steer the ship of state safely between the rocks of the communism of wealth and socialism or anarchy. He was the first President of the United States who gave expression for equality and established beyond all doubt the Monroe doctrine.

..."Now, my friends, this great Democratic party, which we here represent, which honored him by making him our standard bearer, as I have said, for three consecutive elections, has always been successful when united. Let us now bury all of the dissensions of the past. [Great applause.]

..."Let us, therefore, my friends, in paying this tribute to our departed leader, bury in his newly-made grave all the dissensions that have hitherto divided us. Peace to the ashes of this great defender of the faith, honor to the memory of this happy warrior. I thank you." [Great applause.]

...The address of ex-Gov. Francis was punctuated with frequent applause, and a terrific shout greeted the words "let us now bury all dissensions of the past," many of the delegates rising to their feet and cheering lustily.

...At the conclusion of ex-Gov. Francis's address, the chair recognized Col. W. A. Haldeman of Kentucky.

..."Speaking for Kentucky and for Kentuckians," said Col. Haldeman, "and as the personal and political friend of Mr. Cleveland, I wish to second the motion of the gentleman from Nebraska, and to indorse every word Gov. Francis has said."

..."It is moved and second——" began Chairman Bell, but he was at once interrupted by cries of "Parker, Parker," which came from all parts of the hall. Judge Parker paid no attention at first, but the cheering and cries continued to grow. The galleries joined the delegates in the cheering and applause, and finally Judge Parker arose and made his way to the platform. Iowa seemed to start the cries for Parker, but when the judge yielded to the shouts for his recognition, the New York delegation led the cheers.

PARKER RESOLUTION.

...Judge Parker said:

..."Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention: It was my purpose, had I been fortunate enough to have first secured the attention of the chairman, to have offered the following:

..."'Be it resolved, that before undertaking the important work confronting us, we, the representatives of the Democratic party, in national convention assembled, record our profound grief at the great loss sustained by the country and civilization in the death of Grover Cleveland. We honor him as a true statesman, who kept inviolate the faith bequeathed by Thomas Jefferson to this time-honored organization of the people.

..."'We recall with grateful appreciation the signal services he rendered in maintaining jealously the just distribution of powers guaranteed by the Constitution to the executive, legislative and judicial departments of our government; in insisting that no greater burdens be imposed upon the people by taxation than is necessary to administer the government economically; in striking at the root of the growing evils of special privilege and trust monopoly by demanding tariff reduction; in making practical application of the principle of civil-service reform under the motto: "Public Office Is a Public Trust."

..."'We revere him as a patriot who never failed to denounce wrong and uphold right wherever found, whose courage was unmistakable, whose integrity was unquestioned, whose adherence to his high ideals could not be shaken.

..."'We deplore his death as that of the first citizen of the United States—the preeminent embodiment of the political and social truths that from unselfish service comes the noblest power, and that power of influence is vastly greater than the might of authority.

..."'Finally, we commend to American youths the study of this most striking example of universal honor and reverence, won by true character, through sturdy adherence to undying principles, and we hereby direct the officers of this convention to transmit by telegraph to Mrs. Cleveland, in Princeton, N. J., this expression of our sorrow and our pride.

..."'We further request the Democratic members of the Senate and House of Representatives to take steps to insure the erection in Washington, at the earliest day possible, of an adequate national monument to commemorate the services of Grover Cleveland.

..."'It is still further resolved that in respect for the memory of this great Democratic statesman and patriot this convention shall immediately stand adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday, July 8, 1908.'"

FREQUENT APPLAUSE.

...The former standard-bearer of the party read his resolution in a ringing voice and he was accorded the most careful attention throughout the reading of his resolution, frequent bursts of applause compelling him to halt in his delivery.

...At the end of his reading, Judge Parker joined the Dunn resolution by saying:

..."And, therefore, I beg leave to second the motion of the gentleman from Nebraska."

...Repeated cheers followed the distinguished speaker as he returned to his seat in the New York delegation.

...The question of adopting the Nebraska resolution was put and concurred in by a rising vote.

...Judge Parker completed today his redraft of the Cleveland memorial resolutions which he offered in the convention. Judge Parker was not languine that his resolution would go before the convention. It was in compliance with the terms of the statement he made on arrival in Denver, that he would make any changes that seemed desirable in the resolution, but Judge Parker prepared the new draft.

...Ollie James of Kentucky was recognized to move that all matters in dispute as to contests, etc., be referred to the Committee on Credentials.

...Gov. Haskell seconded the motion, but John M. Garman of Pennsylvania, was on his feet clamoring for recognition, which he finally received. Mr. Garman moved as a substitute to the motion of Mr. James that the list sent to the desk by the majority of the delegates from Pennsylvania be accepted as the only proper list of committeemen. The chairman, however, refused to entertain the amendment and declared the motion of Mr. James the only matter before the convention.

GUFFEY WHITE WITH RAGE.

...Col. J. M. Guffey sought recognition, but when the chairman called for the ayes and noes, he turned and with a face white with wrath, shouted: "We demand a roll call." The cry was taken up by other members of the Pennsylvania delegation and seconded from a dozen parts of the hall. The chairman called for the vote amid great confusion and cries of "roll call" from the Guffey people and shouts of "sit down" which were hurled at them from all sides of the hall.

...The viva voce vote seemed overwhelmingly in favor of the motion of Mr. James, and the chairman so declared, while Col. Guffey, Mr. Garman and others of his friends shouted derisively.

...After the announcement by the chairman of the meeting places of the various committees, all of which was ordered to assemble at 5 o'clock p.m., the convention adjourned until tomorrow at 12 o'clock out of respect to the memory of Mr. Cleveland.

HICKS STIRS THEM UP.

DELEGATES GET EXCITED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

...DENVER, July 7.—The Committee on Rules and Order of Business adopted without change the rules of the convention at St. Louis.

...The session for a time was made lively by the presentation by John T. Hicks of Arkansas of the following resolution:

..."Resolved, that in all cases where the action of the Congressional convention is in conflict with the action of the State convention, the action of the State convention shall be construed to control."

...State Senator Grady of New York, who was in the chair, temporarily yielded the gavel in order to denounce the resolution as wholly un-Democratic. Its mere publication as having been offered, he asserted, would be a taint on the Democratic party.

...He was followed by L. Irving Handy of Delaware, who also hotly opposed the resolution, the first effect of which, he said, would be to require the national convention to enforce instructions as to candidates. The second result, he maintained, would be that where delegates were instructed or sent without instructions by district conventions, and subsequently a State convention sent delegations-at-large instructed for a particular candidate, those instructions would be applied, also, to all the district delegates.

...The national convention, he said, enforced the unit rule, but left the matter of instruction as to candidates to the conscience and honor of delegates so instructed.

ARRESTED FOR SNOWBALLING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

...DENVER, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Snowballing as a midsummer pastime brought woe to many tonight, when more than fifty arrests were made.

...The snow was brought to the city from the mountains and distributed to the crowds free. A large amount was left over and this was dumped in the street in front of the Auditorium.

...As long as the snowballers confined themselves to innocent fun the police made no objection, but late tonight many men and boys began to get rough, and women and old persons were made targets. Police were called for and many of the delinquents were jailed.

...The snow was picked up by many passing autos, who in their drives through town pelted the crowds. Hats, women's automobile veils and anything that would hold snow were used as receptacles.

Connecticut to Aid Johnson.

...DENVER, July 7.—At a conference held early today the Connecticut delegation voted, 11 to 3, to give place to Minnesota on the call of States for Presidential nominations. Under this arrangement Gov. Johnson's name will be presented early in the roll c[all].

FESTIVE EXCITEMENT.

...vention, the whole California delegation rose as one man and cheered the roof loose at the hinges for T'dore.

...Everybody there knew that T'dore don't speak to them and won't remain at the same hotel and got off the train because he was so sore at them. But pshaw, we've got to holler for something!

...T'dore coldly ignored them at first, but they kept cheering and whooping and waving their canes until at last he bestowed upon them a wan little smile and a nod of about two-sixteenths of an inch on the arc measurement.

...While Bell spoke the piece that Bryan is supposed to have written, the boxes and the galleries were filling up. One of the most interesting episodes of the day took place in one of the foyers.

GAY PARTY.

...Along came a gay party—the Longworths, and Medill McCormick of the Chicago Tribune and Norman Hapgood of Collier's. Just as they were about to enter their box, they encountered a lone young woman. It was Bryan's daughter.

...Mrs. Ruth Bryan-Leavitt lacks the distinction of the President's daughter, but she is in many ways a very pretty girl. She has a complexion like country cream, a fine, tall figure and a rather debonair air in dressing.

...She came frankly and prettily to Mrs. Longworth and introduced herself. Mrs. Longworth was delighted and introduced the daughter of the Peerless One to the others of the party. Then they parted and went to their respective boxes. Later in the day, there was some sort of tea fest at which they again met.

...By the time Mrs. Longworth was seated, half hidden behind the drapery of the box, T'dore was in full swing. He was describing how Roosevelt has prospered by stealing Bryan's brilliant ideas. Huh!

...It interested me to see how the Longworth party enjoyed it. They didn't enjoy it to any perceptible extent. Nicholas looked over with one elbow on his knee and looked very sober and grave.

...Princess Alice sat half turned away and very much subdued. Every time T'dore gave a particularly hard dig, she would give him one deadly sidewise look. As he was about a hundred yards away across the hall, he wasn't aware of his annihilation.

...T'dore was having troubles of his own anyhow. The photographers were after him.

THOSE CAMERA-MANIACS.

...Honestly these camera boys are the limit. The Bishop of Idaho somewhere was in the midst of a very beautiful prayer when all of a sudden, without the slightest warning—

..."Whang, bang!" A charge of flashlight powder shook the building. Everybody in the hall jumped two yards straight in the air, except the Bishop. He never hesitated or quickened a syllable.

...All the time T'dore was speaking he was bothered to death by cameras. He would look down the main aisle and there would be a man with a tripod sneaking up after him. Let him turn for relief to the galleries and two or three charges of powder would go off with a simultaneous flash and report. At times poor T'dore looked as though he would climb up out of the skylight to get away.

...To do T'dore justice, it was a pretty good speech. The part that made a hit with me was where he deplored our becoming a military nation and yet wanted a strict Japanese exclusion act. In other words, let's throw away our guns and have a war with Japan.

...The way he waded into the injunction business indicated that the Peerless One is going the whole limit.

...After he got through, the clerk with the usual megaphone voice was instructed to call the roll of the States to find out who had been selected as committeemen.

...Every one waited expectantly to hear what would happen when T'dore called for the appointments from California because these appointments were the cause of the row. But they didn't hear. The point was, lost in a little joke.

..."Arkansas!" called the clerk. He pronounced it "R-kansas."

...A howl of rage answered him.

..."Arkansaw! Arkansaw!" they yelled angrily. And in the tumult no one heard California's name called.

..."Indian Territory!" called the badly-post clerk a little further on.

..."Oh, hell!" yelled back somebody in deep disgust. It must have been Alfalfa Bill. You see, there is no longer any Indian Territory since the admission of Oklahoma, and the politicians of the new State are unduly sensitive.

ROUGHNESS RISES.

...Then the rough-house suddenly began.

...The Bryan steam roller proceeded to have a bolt kicked clear out of the "middle innerds."

...Every one knew what was coming. The fought-over Cleveland resolutions were to be offered. Every one knew that Judge Alton B. Parker intended to offer them, and that Bryan did not intend to let him.

...With the suddenness of two jacks in the box, two men bobbed to their feet and cried: "Mister Chairman."

...One was Judge Parker of New York and the other was Ignacius J. Dunn, who is to nominate Bryan.

...Judge Parker was really on his feet first, but T'dore seemed a little near-sighted on that side. Dunn was fairly boosted up to the front, but handed his resolution to a clerk to read. It was commonplace and tame.

...Then T'dore gave himself away. He took up a bit of paper and studied it to see whom Bryan had programmed to make the seconding speech that would shut out Parker's resolutions. It was Gov. Francis of Missouri who used to be in Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet. He made a short and not very eloquent talk.

...T'dore had another look at his orders, and recognized Alterman of Kentucky.

...The Kentuckian said about twenty words, and T'dore then tried dutifully to boost the question to a vote, but, oh those Democrats! With the perversity of the Sullivans and the Murphys and the Guffeys, they all began shrieking for Judge Parker at the tops of their voices. T'dore looked rattled and helpless.

...Two or three men in the New York delegation began climbing over the chairs to where Judge Parker sat; evidently they were urging him to speak. He was flushed and grim, but shook his head.

...At last, however, the cries for "Parker, Parker!" rose to a pandemonium, and he slowly got to his feet and walked to the rostrum.

...A tire of the steam roller had been punctured.

...It was funny to see T'dore extend him the usual greeting as he took the platform to speak.

A FROST BITE.

...T'dore smiled a beatific smile and held out one timid hand. Judge Parker coldly touched the very tip of T'dore's fingers, but looked coolly, frostily, out over his head. T'dore sank back into his official chair, quite discouraged.

...Parker's resolutions were vastly different from the firebrand variety he at first gave out for publication. They contained, however, one sting. They referred to the deceased as the "first citizen in the land," whereas the Peerless One insists that he holds down all such positions.

..."It was my purpose," said Judge Parker crushingly, "to have presented these resolutions had I been fortunate enough to have been first recognized by the chairman. As it is, I now move the adoption of the resolutions offered by the gentleman from Nebraska."

...Judge Parker was still red, and looked savage enough to eat T'dore alive.

...The resolutions provided that an adjournment be taken by the convention out of respect for the memory of Grover Cleveland.

...But T'dore said they must stay awhile.

..."It appears," he said hesitatingly, "that two sets of names have been passed in from the State of Pennsylvania."

...There was an awful pause. Every one knew it was the Guffey row wherein Bryan is trying to have Guffey thrown out of his delegation.

..."Move it be referred to the Credentials Committee," said Olde James, the big man from Kentucky. T'dore gave him a grateful look.

...Just then a belligerent individual hopped up in the Pennsylvania division.

..."M'name's Gorman," he growled. He started in on a long, hot tirade about Guffey and the affairs of the delegation.

THE FAT DISTURBER.

..."Point of order," shrieked a fat man from West Virginia.

...T'dore tried to make him keep still, but the man kept up such a clamor that he had to be recognised.

..."State your point of order," snapped T'dore.

..."That he is out of order," said the West Virginia man with an air of finality.

..."Point not well taken," said T'dore shortly.

..."Aw, well, you can decide that way because you're the chairman, but you ain't deciding it right," bellowed the man from West Virginia belligerently.

...In the meantime half a dozen men from down in Pennsy were on their feet fighting mad, all yelling at once and trying to be heard. Gradually, still howling, they started down toward the speaker's stand until it became a jostling mob rocking down the main aisle.

...Suddenly through the midst of them plunged Guffey himself, roaring like a steam calliope. He stood scattering the crowd of excited orators right and left as he flung his arms around. Nobody heard a word he said, but he finally stopped and walked back to his seat with a grim air as though he had just pulverized everything and everybody.

...Bell then said that the matter ought to be referred to the committee and not argued before the convention.

..."Huh, huh!" said the fat man from West Virginia with a yell of victory. "I thought you'd better change your ruling on my motion. Now d'y' see? I was right."

...At this point a husky policeman marched over and stood so uncomfortably near the fat man from West Virginia that he relapsed.

...The rough-house gradually faded away and the delegates with one inspiration beat for the door.

...To them, it was an extraordinarily peaceful convention; but as they marched out and the crowd dispersed, the President's daughter stood up and watched them with a sort of stunned wonderment.

UPRISING.

INDIANS DRIVE SHERIFF AWAY.

SNAKE TRIBE DEFIES UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Chief Makes Speech to Officers of Law After Which They Are Driven Out of the Camp—Troops May Be Sent to Disperse Them—Cheated by Land Allotment.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

...MUSKOGEE (Okla.) July 7.—The Sheriffs of McIntosh and Okmulgee counties went to the Old Hickory grounds, near Henrietta today, to investigate the uprising of Snake Indians, and were driven away from the camp by thirty armed Indians and negroes.

...Before sending them away, Crazy Snake delivered a message, defying the laws of the State and the United States government, who, he declares, have no authority over the Indians.

...The officers will get into communication with Guthrie, and it is probable that State troops will be sent to disperse the malcontents.

...Crazy Snake is the leader of several uncivilized Creek Indians, many of whom do not speak English. They find the laws of the new State objectionable, and they are enraged by Crazy Snake's assertion that they are being cheated in the land allotments.

LIFE'S SEAMY SIDE.

LITTLE DONE IN ADAMS'S TRIAL.

ATTORNEYS TAKE UP DAY WITH ARGUMENTS.

Objection Is Made to Admission of Defendant's Alleged Written Confession, Upon Which Prosecution Relies, and Time Is Taken Up in Arguing It.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

...GRAND JUNCTION (Colo.) July 7.—With the jury completed, nine of which are farmers, and only the opening statement of the defense and prosecution made, taking of testimony began today in the trial of Steve Adams, accused of assassinating Arthur Collins, the mine manager, during the strike troubles in Telluride several years ago.

...District Judge Shackleford, sitting in the case, granted the application of attorneys for the defense to have the State summon Adams's witnesses by allowing $100 for the purpose.

...In his opening statement for the prosecution, Congressman H. M. Hogg of Colorado said: "The shot that killed Collins was fired from a shotgun loaded with buckshot. We will account for twelve of these buckshot. Nobody was seen that night. From that time until February, 1908, the people were unable to discover who had fired the shot. After the shooting, an empty shell was picked up in front of the Collins home. We will have a witness to prove this, but we cannot produce the shell. The man who had it, a former sheriff, is dead, and the shell has disappeared.

..."The next spring a man by the name of Webb, whom we will produce, found a shotgun hidden behind a clump of bushes in a gulch near Pandora. This gun contained cartridges of the same gauge as the empty shell, loaded with buckshot. This was the last known until additional evidence was produced by this defendant himself. I will say——"

..."We object, Your Honor," interrupted Attorney Hilton, chief counsel for the defense. Hilton then began an argument as to the admissibility of the alleged confession, upon which document the prosecution bases its entire case. The court overruled the objection in so far as it pertained to the opening address. The defense filed objections as to why the confession should not be admitted, principal among which was that it was involuntary, and had been secured with a promise of favor and immunity. The court withheld decision on this point.

...The question of the admissibility of Adams's alleged confession came up again at the afternoon session, and the matter was argued for several hours by the attorneys for both sides. The court announced that decision would be rendered on the admissibility tomorrow.

GIES PRACTICALLY CLEARED.

...PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—Frederick Gies, Jr., who was arrested Sunday night on suspicion of knowing something regarding the murder of Dr. William H. Wilson, who died after drinking poisoned ale, was given a hearing before a magistrate today, and held in $600 bail pending another hearing.

...The police have practically cleared Gies of any connection with the death of Wilson. The case against him having collapsed, the police are completely at sea.

FOR NORTH POLE.

WISHES CREW GOOD LUCK.

PRESIDENT SAYS GOOD-BY TO PEARY'S MEN.

Inspects Roosevelt Before Her Departure, and Pronounces Her to Be Fine Ship—Tells Crew He Thinks They Will Reach Pole This Time If It Is Possible.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

...OYSTER BAY (N. Y.) July 7.—"My, my, what a fine ship," remarked President Roosevelt, as he approached the Arctic steamer Roosevelt, lying at anchor near the President's yacht Sylph in Oyster Bay Harbor, this afternoon.

...Commander Robert E. Peary, U.S.N., the Arctic explorer, who was at his side, agreed with the President, and thanked him for the compliment.

...Capt. Bartlett, of the Roosevelt, made apologies to the President for her appearance, saying she did not come up to the standard of the United States navy.

..."Don't care what she looks like, captain," replied the President. "It's what she does."

...The President insisted upon going down the ladder into the engine-room and seeing everything there was to be seen. When he came up he was wiping perspiration from his brow, but seemed to be enjoying himself nevertheless.

...Climbing upon the forecastle deck, the President found the crew of the Roosevelt lined up. He was introduced to each individually. As he grasped successively the hands of the sailors, he had something different to say to each.

...Commander Peary said his last good-by to the President as Mr. Roosevelt was about to go over the side into the Sylph's launch. He shook hands with the explorer, saying that hunting the pole is good sport.

..."Inasmuch as I cannot go along with you myself," said the President, "all I can do is to wish that good luck may go with you. I feel confident that you will get there this time, if it is possible to do so. If you do not, do the best you can. Good-by."

...Capt. Bartlett, shaking hands with the President and bidding him good-by, said:

..."It's 90 or nothing, the North Pole or bust this time, Mr. President."

...The President laughed, and cried out to Capt. Bartlett and his men, "good-by, captain; good-by, boys, good luck to you all. I believe you'll get there this time."

...The Roosevelt weighed anchor at 5:30 p.m. and steamed out of the harbor. At Sydney, B. C., Commander Peary will rejoin the ship.

TROUBLE GETTING WORSE.

...VIENNA, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Confidential reports from Austrian consuls in Macedonia are to the effect that the situation there is rapidly growing worse.

...Greek bands well armed and with plenty of money are openly attacking the Bulgarian population, raiding villages and killing the men working in the fields. In Salonica and the surrounding country a reign of terror exists, as neither life nor property is secure.

...The Bulgarians are suffering all around as Servian bands are also attacking and murdering them with the secret aid of the Turkish soldiers.

...Reports from Sofia indicate that the government has much difficulty in restraining the popular anger against Servia. The relations between the two countries are seriously strained and diplomats are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the present Anglo-Russian negotiations over the Balkans.

NEW DOCTOR FOR PATTON.

Managers Accept Resignation of Williamson and Appoint His Successor.

...SAN BERNARDINO, July 7. The board of managers of the Southern California State Hospital at Patton met tonight, formally accepted the resignation of Medical Superintendent A. P. Williamson, to take effect September 1, and elected Dr. E. Scott Blair to the position for a term of four years. Dr. Blair is the local expert who was called in by Dr. Williamson at the time the diphtheria epidemic first broke out at the institution.

...The board also awarded to J. C. Beer of Long Beach the contract for the erection of a concrete dairy barn, to cost $10,800.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Talk on India.

Bishop Warne will tell what he knows about India at a meeting at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Euclid Heights Methodist Church.

Will Install Officers.

A public installation of the officers of Lodge No. 1, T.F.B., will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Alhambra Hall, Lincoln and Figueroa streets.

New Citizens.

New Action by Edison.

The Edison Electric Company yesterday filed, in the United States Circuit Court, a new action against Delbert D. Hill, Robert Marshall and E. O. Miller. The suit concerns water lands, and one piece of the original action, recently ruled upon by Judge Wellborn, made the filing of a new complaint necessary if the plaintiff wished to continue.

Santa Fe Makes the Rate.

The Santa Fé Railroad yesterday received notice from the Chicago headquarters that although the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, and San Pedro railroads had declined to join in the granting of colonist rates east of the Missouri River, during September and October, the Santa Fé has decided to make the usual annual reduction to that class of travel. This will of course have the effect of forcing other transcontinental lines into granting the same rates.

For Inspection.

The Engineers and Architects Association of Southern California will conduct an excursion of members and guests to Ocean Park and Santa Monica on Saturday to inspect the contractor's plant for the construction of reinforced concrete piles for the new Santa Monica Pier, also the electrolytic treatment of sewage at Santa Monica. Chartered cars will leave the Hill-street station of the Los Angeles Pacific Railway at 1:30 o'clock. There will be a dinner at Café Bristol, Ocean Park, at which addresses will be made by Edwin H. Warner and Henry Hawgood.

More Trains, Perhaps.

Los Angeles will have another train to and from Fresno if the recommendations of District Passenger Agent Burkhalter at the Raisin City are heeded in San Francisco. He says, in an interview, that he has asked to have the train from Los Angeles to Bakersfield, formerly leaving here at 6:30 p.m., reaching Bakersfield in the morning, and returning in the evening, restored and run all the way to Fresno. This service was well patronized, but it was taken off with the financial flurry. The travel, however, Mr. Burkhalter thinks, will justify resumption. There appears to be some likelihood, also, of another train being put on in the near future on the Coast Line.

PATHETIC MYSTERY.

FRIEND TAKES BODY FROM UNDER KNIVES.

LIVING in mystery, dying with her secret unrevealed, and her body rescued at the last moment from under the knives of the dissecting table yesterday—these are the three strange chapters in the story of Miss Marion Jones, if that be her real name. An Englishwoman of aristocratic parentage, humbled by reduced conditions and too proud to let those who might have cared know, the woman passed away in the Clara Barton Hospital. She did not leave enough funds to provide for burial and the body was about to be cut up at the College of Medicine of the University of Southern California, when a former employer found it and had it fittingly laid away in Grand View Cemetery, Glendale.

Dan Campbell, banker and owner of the handsome foothill home known as "Ard Eevin," was responsible for saving the unidentified woman from the ignominy of the pauper's end. After making every possible effort to discover her relatives or friends, he had her buried at his own expense in the cemetery near his home.

The story of the circumstances that had brought the proud and highly-educated woman to the position of housekeeper, unwilling to reveal her family name or connections, may never be told. On her deathbed she refused to say anything about herself, and she had carefully destroyed any trace that might have been hidden away in her trunks.

Her passing was pathetic. She died on Sunday at the Clara Barton Hospital, unaware, say those who last visited her, that she had not even enough money for a decent burial. When she went to the hospital she gave Dr. H. P. Barton, the manager, all her money, amounting to $230. She did not know at the end that it had been used up in hospital expenses.

Mr. Campbell had been a former employer, and it was when she became too sick to work that she left his home. She went to the hospital on May 27, and members of his family had visited her there since that time. Her refinement and culture had made her almost one of them.

When notified of her death, Mr. Campbell supposed she would have enough money left to provide for her burial. When he found that her bill at the hospital exceeded all the money she had, he hurried to an undertaker. The corpse had been removed from the hospital and had been turned over to the county. The undertaker followed, and found that it had already been taken to the medical college. He arrived there just in time to save it from the knives of the students.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS HER.

"There is a mystery surrounding the death of Miss Jones," said Mr. Campbell last night, after her remains had been laid to rest at his behest. "She came to us through an employment agency, and we soon found that she was a woman of unusual education and refinement. She was pleasant and talked on many subjects and of many interests, but never in all the time she was with us let a word slip as to her past.

"We discovered circumstantially that she belonged to an English family, and she acknowledged that she did not wish to disclose their names because of the disgrace of her humble position. We do not know what her real name may have been, or whether or not she had ever been married.

"At the end of May she left on account of sickness and went to Los Angeles. She was picked up in a fainting condition on Olive street and taken to the Clara Barton Hospital.

"When one of the members of my family visited her a few days ago she expressed the hope of getting well. She said she had been at the hospital four weeks, and that it had used up $50 of her money. I think the hospital authorities should have explained to her that they were charging four times that amount for medical attendance and additional services. I supposed that all her expenses were provided for until I was notified that there was a balance due the hospital on her account of $29.45.

"I do not suppose we shall ever find out who she was. When told that she would probably die, and asked to give some clew that might lead to the discovery of friends or family, she still refused to say a word.

THE HOSPITAL BILL.

"The misunderstanding about the hospital bill which came so near placing the body on the dissecting table was unfortunate. When Miss Jones went to the hospital she was placed in a ward at a charge of $12.50 a week. She remained there two days, and was then removed to a private room, where the charges are $20 a week. Then there is a charge of $30 for a consultation, which, in view of the patient's condition, seems to have been quite unnecessary.

"Had this condition of affairs resulted in giving up the body of this gentlewoman to the dissecting knife, and her family have later discovered it, I am sure there would have been unpleasant feelings on their part. It was one of the comforts of the old lady that she had saved enough money for a decent burial."

In explanation of the fact that Miss Jones's money had all been used up, Dr. H. B. Barton, manager of the Clara Barton Hospital, submitted the following bill to Mr. Campbell yesterday:

May 27, to hospital case in ward two days, at $1.85	$3.70
May 29 to July 5, in private room, five weeks, two days, at $20	105.80
Medicines and laundry	14.95
Professional services Dr. Barton forty days	105.00
Consultation Dr. Smalley	15.00
Consultation Dr. Sherrard	15.00
Total	259.45
May 27, by cash	230.00
Balance due	$29.45

SAYS NOT FULL FEE.

"Miss Jones turned over what money she had when she came into the hospital," said Dr. Barton yesterday afternoon, "and it was supposed to be used in paying her expenses. She could not remain in the ward where we first placed her because she was in too serious a condition. When we fear that patients may die we take them out of the wards.

"I called on Miss Jones every day and have not charged the full fee for medical attendance that would be allowed by the courts if there were an estate. Further than that, I assumed an expense of $10 in having the body removed rather than have the county ambulance come for it. As far as the consultation is concerned, I thought it best to protect myself, and have put down the minimum fee for Drs. Smalley and Sherrard without asking their consent.

NO FRIENDS FOUND.

"We made every effort to find the friends of the woman. I had a nurse search all her baggage and belongings, but there was not a trace of a letter or anything that would identify her. I offered to contribute $10 towards the expense of buying a grave for her if any one would furnish the rest. I finally gave that $10 to the undertaker who turned her over to the county."

Miss Jones was a large woman, about 60 years old. She had heavy gray hair and a face too full to show many wrinkles of age. She was considered altogether a fine looking woman. There were no special characteristics or marks by which she might be identified. She came to Los Angeles from Arizona, but with nothing more than letters of recommendation from families in which she had worked.

BOYS ARRESTED.

Harry Schwartz, aged 12 years; Louis Abonisis, aged 14 years, and Tymer Balboshou, aged 15 years, were arrested last night on the charge of petty larceny. They are accused of stealing six nickle-plated watches. Three of the watches were recovered in a barn in the rear of the homes of the boys on Solano avenue.

ANOTHER PLAYGROUND.

Residents of Northeast Corner of City Will Meet to Boost Recreation Park Plans.

Preparations have been made for an open-air mass-meeting to be held tomorrow night on the site of the Hazard reservoir, at Covina junction. Three thousand persons are expected. A platform has been erected and Judges Wilbur and Houser will address the gathering.

The people will ask that a playground be laid out for the children. The city owns about twenty-nine acres of ground in the vicinity of the reservoir site, and the location is declared to be ideal for playground purposes.

That the children may be taught to breathe right, to play in a sane manner, and to enjoy themselves in the right way, the residents near the northeastern limits of the city hope to have a well equipped playground laid out, with swings, a baseball diamond, athletic apparatus, tennis and basketball courts.

To make the gathering as attractive as possible the meeting will be held in the center of the proposed playground site. The ladies will prepare refreshments and a choir of 150 children, chosen from among the large number, who expect to benefit by the playground plans, will sing.

A district surrounding the playground site, for a mile in either direction within the city limits, would be served by the proposed new play grounds. Hundreds of children would be benefited, it is declared. Thousands of residents of the large district are boosting for the recreation park.

BOY SWALLOWS WHOLE EAGLE.

Ten Dollars Slips Down Throat of Lad of Ten and Does Him No Harm.

Lawrence Kapp, 10 years old, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. P. Kapp, of No. 1309 East Forty-ninth street, swallowed a $10 gold piece several days ago. His frightened parents feared the coin would become lodged in the intestines and cause his death. The money went down his throat in a gulp, and before anything could be done was well on its way toward the stomach.

Anxious hours were spent by the mother, who watched her boy every minute. Lawrence did not suffer any inconvenience but his parents kept him at home on a diet of milk or mush. No dangerous symptoms appeared.

There was a consultation, and it was decided to await developments. As days passed the healthy boy longed for a square meal. He was dosed with mush and milk. Three times a day he was fed soft foods until the sight of it became distasteful to him.

Yesterday the anxiety of the Kapp family was turned to rejoicing for the gold eagle reappeared.

Third Ward Taft Club Arranges Great Gathering of Republicans for Next Saturday Night.

Active work in the Republican Presidential campaign in Los Angeles county will be inaugurated next Sunday evening at the Republican League rooms, No. 122½ South Spring street, at a meeting called by the Third Ward Taft Club—the first in the field since the big Taft ratification gathering of a few weeks ago. Senator Flint and Congressman McLachlan have been invited to speak, and there will be a number of other orators.

James A. Gibson will be chairman of the evening. There will be music, including that by the Veterans' Fife and Drum Corps, and a number of other attractive features, yet to be arranged. Red lights will burn along the street in the vicinity of the place of meeting, and in every way it will be a grand whoop-up for the national ticket. Gavin W. Craig, president, and Frank H. Mouser, secretary of the Third Ward Taft Club, are the moving spirits in arranging the meeting. More than one thousand invitations have been sent out.

PINK LEMONADE NEXT?

Contractor Declines to Put Sunshades Over Trench for Sewer Diggers, and They Strike.

Because Contractor McDowell refused to place sunshades over the heads of a number of Slavonian sewer diggers at work in an excavation near North Broadway and Temple street, yesterday afternoon, the men struck and precipitated a small riot when others were put to work.

A riot call was sent to the Central Station, and officers were hurried to the scene of battle. When they reached the base of hostilities the Slavonians were throwing clods of mud at the new diggers, who could not get out of the trench to defend themselves.

The officers drove the discontented unionites away, and the sewer work continued.

For some time McDowell has had trouble with the men, because of their demands for more pay and less hours. He humored them until they demanded that awnings be put up to protect them from the sun. Then, the contractor having visions of serving pink lemonade and matinée tickets to the sewer diggers, in accordance with future demands they might make, told them to get out of the trench and go home. The trouble followed.

LIMIT FOR NEXT.

Socialist Lawbreaker Convicted and Sentenced to Chain Gang—Justice Gives Warning.

J. P. McNally, a red, who has repeatedly annoyed pedestrianans by attempting to shout socialistic doctrines from the street corners, will spend the next twenty days on the chain gang, with a ball and chain on his leg and a pick in his hand.

McNally pleaded not guilty to a charge of speaking on the public streets without a permit. He fought the case before a jury in Justice Rose's Police Court yesterday afternoon, and the jurors were not long in convicting him.

He then demanded his sentence. Justice Rose fined him $20, with the alternative of spending twenty days in the City Jail. McNally saw his chance to be a martyr to the cause. He refused to pay the $20, and said that he would serve out his sentence on the chain gang. He was taken at his word and sent to the tanks, and this morning will start work on the roads.

"There has been about enough of this sort of thing," said Justice Rose to the crowd of reds assembled to witness the martyrdom of McNally. "This law has been tested and proven good. The next man or woman convicted in this court of this offense will be given the limit, six months. I want you all to understand that the police have had about enough of this nonsense."

PROPHETIC.

BREAKING WAY TO RIVERSIDE?

Trolley to La Habra Looks Like First Link.

Cars Running to That Valley Early Next Month.

New Road on Direct Line to Neighboring County.

By August 1, or a week or ten days later, at the present progress, electric cars should be running to La Habra over what is generally believed to be the first section of a future line to Riverside. Five hundred men are at work.

The distance from Los Nietos, where the Pacific Electric's Whittier line crosses the Santa Fé steam line and where the new route starts, is about nine miles. Seven miles of track are laid and nearly a mile more is graded. Engineers are working ahead setting the stakes. The graders are just behind and the steel gang is almost up with them.

Construction has been very rapid. W. R. Crandall obtained the contract about the end of May, the understanding being that five miles must be finished by July 1. All material had to be assembled, and the work was certain to be hard enough, though the territory is level and comparatively easy. By July 1 more than the specified distance was covered and a construction train was making daily trips.

Much remains to be done before the line will be ready for service. It is unballasted and many ties are yet to be placed, work that is going on at several points. Culverts will be needed in several places, but none is in, crib work being used to carry the track.

No poles or wires are up yet. The company's steam locomotive runs the construction train. The placing of poles may be expected to start soon. The heaviest grading is ahead, as the country is more broken.

Three good-sized camps, one at Los Nietos, one at the end of work and one about midway, are in use, besides the advance guard of engineers. One hundred mules are used by the big gang of graders. James McCabe, superintendent of construction for the Pacific Electric, is in direct charge for the company.

HEAVY STEEL LAID.

The line is laid with heavy steel. Ties are from the Pacific Electric's northern timber tracts—redwood and Oregon pine. The latter is treated with creosote to increase its lasting qualities. For ballasting, it will be necessary to bring rock from points on the northern division, as there is none on the ground.

The territory served by the new route is without rail service at present. The Santa Fé line to Fullerton and Orange and the Southern Pacific branch to Santa Ana pass to the south several miles; the Salt Lake runs on the north, but all miss the La Habra Valley. The line goes through an almost continual succession of walnut groves, varied with a few orange and other fruit orchards. About five miles from Los Nietos is the Leffingwell ranch, a large property which packs and ships much fruit by hauling to the Santa Fé. A spur will be built to the ranch packing-house. The electric railroad looks for a good passenger, freight and express business.

Just to the south of where the line is now finished are the famous Coyote wells of the Murphy Oil Company, which have attracted wide attention. Near them is the drilling rig of the Whittier-Des Moines company. The Amalgamated has a large tract near by, and several other properties within less than a year have been bought for their probable deposits of petroleum. Since the Murphy's find many believe that much, if not all, the La Habra Valley is underlaid with oil. The three rigs mentioned are all the present development, but it is quite likely that the railroad's completion will be the signal for more prospecting and that it will get a good business hauling in material.

If this oil field develops as expected, the La Habra line will become a great oil road, and will be without competition, except in pipe lines, and without any in getting in supplies.

OIL TRAFFIC IN SIGHT.

Now there is quite a little wagon trade in crude oil from the Whittier field, and in distillates from Los Angeles refineries with ranchers for irrigating plants. In all probability the railroad will in time handle this traffic. In other districts, oil companies have put up small tanks for storage, using the electric cars to move their supplies. The Standard, for instance, does this at Moneta on the Redondo line, and from there furnishes the ranchers. The Puente company does the same from Compton, on the Pacific Electric.

There is, however, scarcely enough immediate business to justify a purely local line, such as this will be if it stops permanently at La Habra, hence no one believes that it will be long before it goes on East.

Only a single set of rails is being laid, and this will probably be all for the present, but the right of way is eighty feet wide, suitable for four tracks, wider than that on the Whittier line, over which cars will run to Los Nietos. No possible demand could ever arise or this unless the route is to be a through line to some very important town, like Riverside.

The distance to La Habra from Sixth and Main street is about twenty miles, which means fifty minutes or an hour's run. The route is remarkably straight, with very few curves, and is suitable for high speed.

Building the Trolley Line to La Habra.

Busy scenes yesterday on the Pacific Electric's extension from Los Nietos, over which cars are expected to be running within a few weeks.

PUBLIC SERVICE—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Council engaged in some lively "jockeying" with its bond buyers yesterday; this morning's session will decide whether the Council will accept the offer of the New York bankers to take $2,000,000 of the bonds now in return for an option of the remaining $20,000,000.

Judge Wilbur heard evidence yesterday in C. B. Chittenden's contest with the Humane Society for the custody of his children, Gano, 10 years, and Henrietta, 15 years of age.

Evidence was presented to Judge Rives yesterday on Will Forbes's petition for the custody of his insane brother, George W. Forbes, for whom Mrs. Lena Forbes asks the court to appoint A. G. Reineman guardian.

John La Pique was placed on trial in Judge Jamison's court yesterday on a charge of obtaining money by false pretences from Baptiste Gamgros on a real estate deal in 1907.

AT THE CITY HALL.

BOND SALE IS HANGING FIRE.

COUNCIL TO TAKE FINAL VOTE THIS MORNING.

Bullard Takes Back His Twenty-Thousand-Dollar Check and Says He Is Going Home—Other Bidders Fail to Make Definite Offer—Advisory Board Explains.

The Council engaged in some lively "jockeying" with its bond buyers yesterday over the disposal of the remaining aqueduct securities. It has a prospective purchaser who has signed a contract to take $2,040,000 of the securities on condition that he receive an option on the remaining $20,000,000. The bargaining is over the terms of this deferred option.

For a few minutes yesterday afternoon it looked as though the trade were off, that was when A. W. Bullard insisted on taking back the $20,000 check which he had deposited as security for the offer of Kountze Bros. and A. B. Leach & Co., to furnish the two million cash in return for an option on twenty. Bullard announced somewhat grandiloquently that his principals have retired from the field; but W. B. Mathews, counsel for the aqueduct, is of the opinion that if the Council should accept the offer of the New York syndicate this morning, the syndicate will not back down.

The Council will meet this morning to discuss further the question of financing the aqueduct; at this meeting Gen. Chaffee and Mr. Mathews will make a final effort to secure an acceptance of the offer from the New York bond men.

Yesterday the situation was complicated by the appearance in the field of other possible bidders. The chief of these were J. C. Drake and J. H. Adams & Co. It appears that these two pooled their issues at an executive conference with Mayor and Council. They are quoted as saying that they have $500,000 in sight and in forty-eight hours they may have three or four times this much.

Councilman Blanchard voted yesterday to adjourn after receiving notice that it was the last call to accept the New York bid; but this dean of the Council said last night that, unless a better offer is received today, he will vote for the acceptance of the Kountze-Leach offer with the strings attached.

ONLY TWO WILLING.

Despite the efforts of the Mayor, the Board of Public Works and water board to secure an acceptance of the proposal from Kountze Bros. and Leach & Co. only two Councilmen were willing to vote yesterday for selling the bonds. These were Dromgold, the only Democrat in the Council, and President Pease.

For three hours yesterday afternoon there was an executive conference in the Mayor's office to discuss the proposed bond sale. At this conference J. C. Drake said that banking companies with which he has business connections are ready to take $500,000 of the bonds, so others attending the conference report. He is said to have asked that additional time be given him, about forty-eight hours, to determine whether his clients and associates can handle a couple of millions of dollars of the bonds.

This proposal from J. C. Drake and J. H. Adams & Co. was advanced by several of the Councilmen as their reason for refusing to accept the offer of the New York bankers. Before the Council adjourned Dromgold gave notice that he will move at this morning's session that the city advertise for bids for $2,040,000 of 4½ per cent. bonds, offers to be opened ten days from the first advertisement for bids.

W. B. Mathews, counsel for the aqueduct, said at the close of the session that he will recommend that the advertisement be inserted on the Dromgold plan, in case the New York offer is finally rejected.

SENSATIONAL CLOSE.

The Council session started tamely enough, with the customary squabble among the legislators over the method of procedure; but it soon came to a climax and closed with a sensation.

Councilman Blanchard made the motion to adjourn until 10:30 o'clock this morning. Before this motion could be put A. W. Ballard, the representative of the New York syndicate, stepped to the side of President Pease and whispered to him.

Pease called Dromgold to the chair and addressed the Council: "I have just been informed," he said, "that this offer from Kountze Bros. and Leach & Co. will be withdrawn at 6 o'clock if it is not accepted by us before that time. We have no definite proposal that warrants our rejecting this offer, and to adjourn now is tantamount to a rejection.

"I believe that the offer which we have is the best that we shall receive at this time. I feel that it disposes effectually of the question of financing the aqueduct. All the officials and commissioners interested in the construction of the aqueduct recommend its acceptance. You are assuming a grave responsibility if you take it upon yourselves to reject that offer now with nothing better to offer."

Mr. Bullard made a brief statement to the Council in which he said that the houses he represents signed their contract to take the bonds on June 13. He said that the time for which this contract was to run expired last night but that, at the request of Councilman Blanchard who had been out of the city, he consented on his own responsibility to keep the offer open twenty-four hours longer.

Wallace tried to keep Bullard from speaking, saying that he had made his explanations fully before the Council in executive session; but President Pease insisted that his statement should be made in public.

WORDY ALTERCATION.

Taking no notice of this withdrawal of the offer from the New York syndicate seven members of the Council voted to adjourn. Two minutes after adjournment Minute Clerk Carroll of the Council and Bullard were engaged in a wordy altercation.

Bullard insisted that Carroll should return to him the check for $50,000 which he had deposited with the clerk at the opening of the session. Carroll refused. He said that it is a part of the records and could not be returned until such return was ordered by a resolution of the Council.

Attorney Mathews turned to Carroll and said:

"What is it Mr. Bullard wants?"

"He wants his check back," said Carroll.

"Let me see the check," commanded Mathews.

Carroll handed him the check and Mr. Mathews turned back and gave it to Bullard. Carroll protested but Bullard held on to the check for the $20,000.

"In all bond propositions the first principle is to get your money back," he remarked as he pocketed the coveted document.

"It was a mistake to give that check back," exclaimed Commissioner Edwards of the Board of Public Works as soon as he heard what had occurred; "time was not the essence of that contract which the New York companies signed and they had no authority to withdraw their proposition this afternoon. We should have held that $20,000 guarantee until the Council decided finally whether to give the option which the companies asked for."

This opinion was echoed by other officials present, but Mr. Bullard quietly walked away with his check for $20,000.

Mr. Mathews explained his willingness to return the check at once by saying that by doing so Mr. Bullard is practically put out of the bargaining.

"This contract to take the bonds was not secured from Mr. Bullard," said the aqueduct secretary; "I received those signatures in New York myself and I have received no telegraphic instructions to withdraw the contract.

"I hold that it is still binding, notwithstanding the action of Mr. Bullard, and I believe that the Council will accept the offer this morning."

This explanation from Mr. Mathews proved highly satisfactory to all concerned, the more so because it opens the way for further negotiations today. The $20,000 check was not a part of the original contract, but an afterthought of Mr. Bullard.

SITUATION IN DETAIL.

The following communication from the advisory commission of the aqueduct to the Board of Public Works sets forth in detail the aqueduct situation as viewed from the aqueduct offices in the Central building:

"The Advisory Committee for the construction of the Los Angeles aqueduct has the honor to submit to the Board of Public Works a written proposal obtained by Mr. Mathews, attorney for the aqueduct, from Messrs. Kountze Bros. and Leach & Co. of New York, for the sale of the aqueduct bonds. The terms of the sale include all the bonds remaining undisposed of, the $23,000,000 issue, and the terms of the purchase and the delivery of the bonds are minutely set forth in the instrument mentioned.

"The Advisory Committee has very carefully discussed this important matter, and arrives at the conclusion that the proposed contract should be approved by the Council. We are aware that this subject is so important that our reasons for this conclusion should be set forth briefly:

"In the outset it was the desire and the purpose of the city to dispose of the bonds on a 4 per cent. interest basis, and $1,030,000 was taken by the State and city; nearly the whole of this amount being expended in operations on the aqueduct. It was necessary for Mr. Mathews, who has charge of our financial operations, to proceed to New York and endeavor to dispose of another block of $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 bonds. On arriving there he found it impossible to dispose of the bonds at 4 per cent., and telegraphed the president of the Board of Public Works of this fact, and recommended that operations on the aqueduct be reduced to practically a stoppage of work. On receipt of this telegram of Mr. Mathews the matter was taken up and discussed, and it was unanimously concluded that the operations should proceed, even if necessary to increase the rate of interest to 4½ per cent. and Mr. Mathews was duly informed by telegraph of this conclusion of the Advisory Committee and the Board of Public Works. Thereupon he made efforts to dispose of $2,040,000 for us at 4½ per cent., but was met with a demand for an option upon the whole issue. Unable to do better, he returned to the city, bringing with him the proposal mentioned, which is herewith presented to the Council.

"After due deliberation of this instrument, the Advisory Committee and the Board of Public Works decided that it must be modified in the respect that the clause for acceleration of deliveries should be so limited that the city should not be required to receive in any one calendar year in excess of $4,000,000 the last installment excepted, which will be between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. This decision being communicated to Messrs. Kountze Bros. and Leach & Co., it is understood by the committee that they have duly authorized their agent on the ground to make the modification as stated.

"Taking up the instrument as modified, the Advisory Committee has discussed it in that form very thoroughly, and has tried to arrive at some good reason for rejecting the proposition; but it seems to the committee advisable to accept, on the general grounds that it practically finances the aqueduct work to its completion, which, in the opinion of the Advisory Committee, is an important matter to be considered. The committee believes from investigations made that these gentlemen, Messrs. Kountze Bros. and Leach & Co., will fulfill their proposition and take all the bonds as specified in the instrument. This will secure the city not what was expected in the matter of premium on bonds, but a premium all the same of about $110,000 on the issue, which is of considerable value.

"The committee also discussed the matter of acceleration of deliveries remaining in the instrument as modified, under its worst form there could be imposed on the city at one time in each of the years 1909 to 1912 about $5,000,000 instead of in installments periodically during the year as money may actually be needed. Placed in our banks this would yield the city interest at the rate of 2 per cent., whereas it would be paying 4½ per cent. We do not consider this as exceptionally burdensome when we take into consideration the advantage of being able to make contracts with the money in our hands. About the first question presented to us by gentlemen sent to us from eastern cities to look over the ground with a view to making contracts is the matter of payment, whether the city had disposed of its bonds or had arranged for the necessary funds, and whether the city will be able to pay according to the terms of its contracts. Unless we can assure contractors of prompt payment we are certainly liable to be taxed heavily by contractors in fixing their prices for the apprehended damages and risk which they may have to meet in borrowing money to carry on their operations for us. With the funds necessary to carry on our part of the contract we are satisfied that the chief engineer of the aqueduct will be able to make more advantageous contracts, and the saving in cash may be considered in the long run to take the form of an additional premium on our bonds.

"The present financial condition of the aqueduct amounts to practically this: We are out of funds and we owe nearly $400,000 to creditors, some of whom are on this date pressing us for payments, and the Board of Public Works is holding up several important awards of contracts for the completion of the cement plant and other projects.

"Members of the Advisory Committee and the Board of Public Works have individually discussed the subject with various business men and citizens of Los Angeles as to what is the best course to pursue, and almost without exception the consensus of opinion has been that you should recommend to the Council a confirmation of the instrument which is herewith presented.

"We may add further that in the session of the Advisory Committee this morning Mr. Mulholland, chief engineer of the city water department, and Mr. Fay, president of the Board of Water Commissioners, informed the Advisory Committee that at their meeting yesterday, the full board being present, it was the unanimous opinion that in the absence of a better proposition this one presented by Messrs. Kountze Bros. and Leach & Co. should be accepted.

"One of the conditions that the committee has felt bound to consider as affecting the proposition for marketing these securities, and as requiring favorable action upon the proposal mentioned, is the fact that the eastern bond market is being asked to absorb vast quantities of securities from all over the country, including many millions of bonds issued or about to be issued by California cities and counties, of which we need only mention the case of San Francisco, which has recently authorized the issue of $18,000,000 of 5 per cent. bonds, and $8,000,000 of these bonds are to be sold just as soon as the necessary plates can be prepared.

"We, therefore recommend that the board act favorably upon this proposal and communicate its action to the Council."

This was transmitted by the board to the Council with the following explanatory communication:

"I have the honor to transmit herewith a communication just received by the Board of Public Works from the Advisory Committee of the bureau of the Los Angeles aqueduct, and beg to say that the recommendations of the Advisory Committee as set forth in said communication are warmly concurred in by the Board of Public Works."

[Signed] "A. A. HUBBARD,
"President of the Board."

FATHER FIGHTS FOR CHILDREN

RELATIVES OPPOSE HIS SUIT FOR THEIR CUSTODY.

Boy and Girl Brought from Arizona by Humane Society and Chittenden Wants Them Back—Charges Made That Parent Is Brutal and Unfit to Care for Offspring.

Opposed by his own brothers and sisters, as well as his dead wife's family, in his efforts to regain the custody of his children, Gano Chittenden, 10 years and Henrietta Chittenden, 15 years, Charles B. Chittenden of Gold Flat, Ariz., appeared before Judge Wilbur yesterday to contest the application of the Humane Society that the children be declared wards of the court on the ground that their father is an unfit person to have their custody.

Miss Kester, their aunt, testified that she was a member of Chittenden's family for fifteen years until the death of second wife, her sister, in Los Angeles, in September, 1906. She said that Chittenden was brutal in his treatment of his children, that he would often lift his son from the floor by the ears, and shake him unmercifully, and that he brought to his home friends, who sang obscene songs before his wife and children.

She swore that Mrs. Chittenden was mentally affected for years before her death, and that a short time before she died Chittenden took his children from their home, to Long Beach with his woman companion, neglecting to make any provision for his wife's needs. According to Miss Kester, Chittenden habitually used vile language in the presence of his family, drank to excess, and led a roving life, at times disappearing without providing for their support.

She said that on Christmas day, 1906, she saw him drunk on Broadway with his children vainly trying to persuade him to go home, and that last September the children were brought to Los Angeles by the Humane Society from Ibex, Ariz., as their relatives learned that Chittenden was not caring for the children properly there. Part of Miss Kester's testimony about Chittenden's treatment of his daughter was given behind closed doors. D. E. Meis, an uncle, testified that Chittenden is a man of improper habits, while other relatives were present to support the Humane Society's petition that the children be made wards of the court.

It is asserted by Chittenden that he owns valuable mining properties in Arizona and is able to give his children proper care and education. Friends testified that he is a man of good standing among his business associates and that his children's affection has been alienated from him by relatives who are hostile to him. Chittenden has led an unsettled life since his second marriage. His first wife secured a divorce from him and her grown children are now living in New York. His brothers and sisters in New Jersey are now defraying his children's expenses.

CHALLENGES PANEL.

PRISONER SPRINGS SURPRISE.

John La Pique surprised court and counsel yesterday in Judge Jamison's court, during his trial on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, for the accused man, who acted as his own attorney, availed himself of the technicalities of the law so expertly that it was not until the close of the afternoon session that the jury to try him was completed.

La Pique opened proceedings by moving for a continuance on the ground that he was ill. When this motion was denied, he asked the court for permission to withdraw his plea of not guilty. Then he moved that the complaint be quashed on the ground of technical irregularity, and when this motion was denied, he interposed a demurrer, which was overruled after argument.

Then La Pique challenged the whole jury panel of Department One, and Sheriff Hammel, Court Clerk Butterworth and several deputy sheriffs were called to testify regarding the service on talesmen. La Pique charged bias and prejudice against him by the court officers, and asserted that if a single talesman had not been served the whole panel was incompetent to try him.

He sharply questioned the talesmen as to all possible grounds of bias against him, and sprung a final surprise by accepting the jury without any challenges. This morning the presentation of evidence will begin.

La Pique is charged with having received $100 from Baptiste Camgros in the spring of 1907, by falsely representing to Camgros that he was the authorized agent of Mr. and Mrs. R. Corcoran for the sale of lots in the Corcoran tract.

The accused man has twice been tried in San Francisco for felonies. In 1898 the Supreme Court reversed the lower court's decision in finding him guilty of the embezzlement of $300 from a woman, whose lodging-house he sold on commission. Again in 1902, when he was tried on a charge of forging a note, the case was taken to the Supreme Court, which set La Pique free on technicalities.

HAS AN ESTATE.

DISPUTE OVER GUARDIANSHIP.

Opposition to the appointment of Will Forbes of Pasadena, as guardian for his brother, George W. Forbes, an insane person, by Mrs. Lena Forbes, was explained to Judge Rives at length yesterday during the hearing on the petition of Will Forbes for the care of his brother and his $18,000 estate.

Mrs. Lena Forbes, who is a sister-in-law of the brothers, testified that their father, James Forbes, who died at Pasadena last February, bequeathed $15,000 of his $35,000 estate to his deranged son, who is now in a private sanatorium in Los Angeles. She said that James Forbes frequently expressed a desire that Will Forbes should not be made his brother's guardian, and that George Forbes, while he was enjoying a rational period, also said that he wished Will Forbes would never be made custodian of his person and estate.

Mrs. Forbes asserted that Will Forbes is desirous of having his brother committed to Patton, where the expense of his maintenance will be reduced, even at the expense of the man's health. She said that she has not been on good terms with Will Forbes, but is acting in this matter solely according to a promise given his father before the old man's death.

She asked that A. G. Reineman, Pasadena, be appointed guardian. Other witnesses testified that George Forbes last year stated to them that he did not wish as his guardian Will Forbes, who is executor of his father's estate.

Will Forbes testified that he wishes to be his brother's guardian that he may give him the best of care. Several persons testified to Will Forbes's good character and standing in Pasadena.

Friends of the family say that friction developed in the Forbes's family before James Forbes's death, because some of the relatives felt that Will Forbes exerted a strong influence over him. Mrs. Lena Forbes's son was not mentioned in his will, which was made a few months before his death. The hearing will be continued Thursday.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

HABEAS CORPUS. Theodore Thompson, arrested June 27 at Long Beach, on the complaint of J. R. Gallemore that he sold liquor in the Hotel Virginia, contrary to a Long Beach city ordinance, was brought before Judge James yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus. His attorneys claim that the Long Beach ordinance under which Thompson was arrested is invalid and set aside by the city charter. They also contend that it is unreasonable, inequitable and unconstitutional. Judge James will hear argument on the matter this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

GRAND LARCENY. N. Tassara was sentenced to eighteen months in San Quentin by Judge James yesterday.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 8.

MINES AND MINING.

JOHNNIE IN LAST THROES.

Mine Will Be Closed Down Next Week.

Plan of Reorganization Is Being Discussed.

Social Club for Mining Men Is Proposed.

The Johnnie Consolidated Mining Company, which has been hanging on the edge of disaster for the past few months, is apparently in the last throes of its death struggle and within the next few days it is practically certain that the mine will be closed down and an effort made to put it on its feet again by a plan of reorganization, which is now being discussed.

For the past month the miners have been working under a guarantee voluntarily given by A. D. Myers and yesterday a representative of all hands deposited a brick with the guarantor. This was taken to a local bank yesterday and found to be worth a little over $1100. Myers gave his checks for the pay roll arrears in return and still has a balance of $700 to apply on the June pay roll.

It is expected that the next cleanup will be productive of between $4000 and $5000, and this will be insufficient to meet all demands for labor. As at present now Myers stands to lose from $4500 to $5000 through his guarantee, and there will be nothing for the outstanding accounts for supplies, which will amount to close to $20,000. Creditors have been insistent of late and it is understood that steps have already been taken to levy attachments on the plant to secure the accounts of Fairbanks, Morse & Co., and other local dealers. Under these conditions such action became imperative and, a meeting of directors held yesterday afternoon, Myers was authorized to take matters in his own hands and in the manner which he deemed best.

Consequently he will leave for the east on Thursday night, prepared to settle all claims for wages, and will offer the property down until ways and means of placing it in better shape for the future. It is probable that Mr. Anderson, the expert who was employed to make a thorough report and who is now at the mine, will be asked to remain there to complete his investigations and also to advise as to future developments with the view of taking complete charge when operations are resumed.

Plans for reorganization are already under discussion, but are, of necessity, of a purely tentative nature. The plan which finds favor with those who probably will be in control is to organize a new company with a capital of $2,000,000 in dollar shares. Of this amount $500,000 shares will go to stockholders of the old $3,000,000 organization in the proportion of ten for one and the 2,700,000 shares will remain in the treasury.

Stockholders will have the privilege of subscribing for treasury stock to the amount equal to their holdings at the rate of 10 cents per share, thus netting for another 300,000 shares, raising $30,000, and every stockholder will take advantage of the offer. Myers will ask for an option on 200,000 shares at the same price and the balance of the issue will be held for future emergencies. With the amount it is thus expected to raise all debts of the concern will be paid off and the property will be conducted under entirely new management. Myers will join other creditors in the plan that they decide upon so far as his claim for money advanced is concerned.

The troubles of the management have been multiplying very rapidly during the past two weeks and it is now generally conceded that it would be impossible to keep the mine running under existing conditions. At the present time the reports received from the property contain much to warrant the belief that the mine can be run at a profit when relieved of the pressing indebtedness which now prohibits the use of supplies to the best advantage and militates against the employment of a thoroughly efficient force. Since the company's pay rolls have been in arrears the miners have been practically in sole charge of the mine, and the superintendent has been unable to discharge inefficient men owing to the fact that there were no funds on hand with which to pay them.

No conceivable plan has been suggested to obtain temporary aid from the stockholders, but, with the exception of Myers, they have all shown a disposition to avoid practical efforts that have been playing a waiting game in the hope that the latter would advance money out of his own pocket to the general benefit. His holdings amount to about 150,000 shares, and have signified his intention of withdrawing all guarantees after he has paid off the men and made the last pay-up. He will, however, lend his valuable services to some plan of reorganization and will probably be placed at the head of the new company.

Mining Man's Club.

The latest suggestion for the further cementing of close relationships between this city and the surrounding mining territory comes in the form of a handsome, up-to-date social club, furnished completely and affording an attractive meeting place for mining men and operators who already reside here and a temporary home for visiting members from the surrounding districts.

The matter has been discussed in a desultory way for several months but is just beginning to assume concrete form. It is now suggested that it be made to enlist an active membership of $50 and that quarters in the top story of one of the central business buildings be secured. Those who are foremost in the movement have prepared partial lists of desirable membership material and a canvass of them will convince the most skeptical that Los Angeles contains a large permanent resident operators of divergent interests than any other city on the continent. The list includes such men as W. A. Clark, Jr., L. W. Powell, managing director of the Calumet & Arizona; M. Goldwyn, A. D. Myers, the "Father of Jerome," Tom Lindsay, a pioneer of Arizona; Seeley W. Mudd, for many years connected with the Guggenheims; Dr. W. K. Robinson, of the Florence lease; Montgomery and Ryan, of the Skidoo Mines; Harry Payne, former owner of the big Kendall mine, in Montana; L. C. Dillman, of the Fairbanks Mines, Alaska, operator; Jim Doyle, who made a fortune by the discovery of the Mammoth mine in the Iron Mountain district, Arizona; Col. L. N. Peyton, who has been a millionaire through the Le Roi and other mines from all parts of the world, and equally as prominent in the mining field.

Many of the oil operators are such men as Jesse D. Whittier, Burton E. Green,

A. Canfield, J. W. Jamieson and many others. With such material to work on it is expected that one of the strongest clubs in the West can be built up. It is believed that the preliminary outline will be completed before fall and that a general meeting of mining and oil operators will then be called.

Movements of Mining Men.

A. D Myers has returned from an automobile trip to Coronado, where he spent the Fourth with his family. He will leave for the Johnnie mine on Thursday.

S. H. Porter, formerly manager of the Gold Roads mine, will leave for Arizona today to examine a property on behalf of a local syndicate with which he is connected.

J. F. Douglas, manager of the new Goldfield Hotel, is a visitor in the city and left for a short trip to Catalina yesterday. He says that business is somewhat dull just now owing to the general hot weather exodus, but that he looks for active times this fall. He was formerly an attorney of Goldfield and has the distinction of being the only criminal practitioner who has ever sent a presidential candidate to the penitentiary. He succeeded in convicting Preston of the murder of Silva several months ago. Preston is now serving a term of twenty-five years and was nominated for President of the United States by the New York Socialists a few days ago.

BUYS ADDITIONAL ROOM.

Paving Firm Purchases Third of an acre Adjoining Date Street Refinery at Good Price.

E. P. Vernon & Co., reports the sale of the triangular lot adjoining the Barber Asphalt Paving Company's refinery on Date street from Henry S. Woolner and the Pacific Light and Power Company to the Barber Company for a consideration slightly under $10,000.

The property consists of a third of an acre. It fronts on Alhambra avenue and is traversed by the main line of the Southern Pacific. It has a frontage of 119 feet on Date street. C. Sumner and Frank W. Creswell represented the buyer.

The Company also reports the sale of the property at No. 2222 Sunset boulevard to George Russell from Dr. A. J. L. Peter for $2000. The property consists of a lot 56x102 feet, improved with a five-room cottage.

PIONEER PASSES.

Death Comes to William C. B. Richardson, Forty Years a Resident of Los Angeles County.

There has just passed away at the old Santa Eulalia Ranch in Tropico, William C. B. Richardson, aged 92, who came to Southern California in August, 1865. Born at Swansea, Keen county, N. H., in 1816, Mr. Richardson, when 4 years of age, left the town of his birth in company with his parents who took up their residence at Cuyahoga Falls. When Mr. Richardson attained his majority he became one of the first civil engineers to lay out the city of Cleveland. Coming to Los Angeles forty years ago, he purchased the Santa Eulalia ranch and lived there until the day of his death.

This pioneer was a member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce from the time of its organization, and was also a member of the Los Angeles County Pioneer Society. He leaves three sons: E. W. and B. W. Richardson of Tropico, and O. S. Richardson of Chicago.

ASKS FOR BOND.

Board of Education Wants to Be Indemnified Against Possible Loss.

The Board of Education at its last meeting awarded contracts for the supplies for the ensuing year, and transacted other routine business. The contract for the eight-room annex to the Fourteenth-street school was not awarded, owing to changes in the plans, ordered by the City Building Superintendent, and it was ordered readvertised.

On recommendation of the City Attorney, it was determined to exact an indemnifying bond of $25,000 from the Los Angeles-Pacific Railway Company against possible damage to the High School buildings as a result of the construction of the Hill-street tunnel. The railway pays the city $1600 for the privilege of passing under the northwest corner of the grounds.

A Century Old Paper.

The Dayton (O.) Journal celebrated its one hundredth anniversary on June 21 by publishing a mammoth edition that completely covered the local history of the city. It was copiously illustrated with photographs of its manufacturing establishments, churches, public places, bridges, and points of interest, with numerous portraits of men who have assisted in making the history of the city. Of the city itself the Journal says: "Dayton has grown, from her first beginnings in the end of the eighteenth century until now, steadily, healthfully, sanely, safely. Dayton has written her own history of progress, through political storm and stress; once confronted with war's bitter partisanship; later almost submerged under a sudden wave of municipal improvements; threatened with burdensome taxation; menaced with selfishness and extravagance. Yet, and always, the honest patriotism and loyal citizenship of the people of Dayton have not only kept the city's head above water and preserved her against disaster in times of peril, but have established her in the very front rank of the cities of the United States." The Journal has our congratulations, and the wish that it may live and prosper and a century hence again celebrate its birthday in a manner fully as befitting the occasion.

SENTIMENT.

QUEER VERDICT IS RENDERED.

CORNER'S JURY LEANS TOWARD UNWRITTEN LAW.

Members Say They Are Unable to Determine Whether Mrs. Finn Was Justified in Killing Her Lover. Charge of Murder Will Be Filed Against Woman Today.

Mrs. Margaret Finn, who shot and killed J. Edward Mahaffey, Sunday night, because he refused to marry her will be charged with murder in a complaint to be filed by Detectives Ritch and Roberds in Justice Chambers's Police Court today.

Yesterday the Coroner's jury, in an inquest over the remains of Mahaffey, returned a peculiar verdict in which they stated that they were unable to say whether Mrs. Finn was justified in killing her man or not. The right of a woman to avenge her honor even to the extent of murder was a question which the jurors felt unwilling to take up.

"We, the jury, find that J. Edward Mahaffey came to his death by paralysis of the heart together with a pulmonary hemorrhage, caused by a gunshot wound inflicted by Mrs. Margaret Finn. The jurors are unable to determine whether said shooting was justifiable or not," was the verdict.

The sentiment of that last sentence in the verdict seems to be the sentiment of the officers at the Police Sation. Detective Ritch, one of the officers on the case, merely smiled when questioned, yesterday.

"A rather odd verdict, but one that seemed to meet the requirements of the case," he said with a shrug of the shoulders.

All of which goes to show that the officers have little heart in the prosecution of Mrs. Finn, and small hope, if any, that a conviction of the woman will be secured.

Mrs. Finn's brother was one of the strongest witnesses in her defense. He told the jury that Mahaffey had been paying attention to his sister for some time past and explained her physical condition caused by their relations. He announced that he considered his sister justified in shooting down the man who had wronged her under the guise of friendship and promises of an early marriage, and who had then jilted her.

At which members of the jury, who were for the most part old residents of California, were seen to nod their heads gravely as though recognizing the justice of such a pleading.

More than a score of pedestrians who had seen the shooting were called as witnesses. Their testimony was much the same and proved nothing further than what was admitted by Mrs. Finn.

The woman considered her honor, her very life, and the good name of her three living children to be at stake in Mahaffey's refusal to fulfill his promise of marriage. Breach of promise suits are generally sufficient consolation for the woman in such cases, but to Mrs. Finn, nothing could right the wrong and she spoiled the man who had ruined her life.

Attorney Fred Thompson appeared for Mrs. Finn. He announced that his client stands upon the unwritten law and that he does not think her case will get beyond the lower courts.

TAFT AND SHERMAN.

For President. For Vice-President.

Editorial Pen Points

Say what you like about Gen. Castro, he is still the only real trust-buster on earth.

"Politics is not war," says Henry Watterson. It is more like what Gen. Sherman said war is.

Unfortunately for Bryan, the people have less to complain about now than they ever had.

"Gold has been discovered in Texas," says a dispatch. Was it found in some Texan's teeth?

Marriage is always in less danger of being a failure after the bride has learned how to cook.

If Prince Helie de Sagan continues to delay his marriage, his creditors are likely to grow impatient.

The fact that the Cubans really hate Americans is proof that there is at least one ungrateful republic.

We have never yet heard of a girl who objected to her hair being mussed by a young man she really liked.

We fear that the Mexican "revolutionists" have been misinformed as to the state of health Gen. Diaz is enjoying.

Another fact worth mentioning is that the Democratic National Committee is crowded with Bryan's political enemies.

Who ever heard of Mr. Bryan being sick? But we frequently hear of the country complaining of "that tired feeling."

We are not surprised that people are crazed with the heat in the East. They are crazy to live there in the first place.

We do not anticipate that Mr. Bryan's picture will ever appear on a postage stamp, although he has been frequently licked.

It will cost $14,000,000 to take the next United States census, and even then lots of cities will not accept the result of the count.

The bathing season is on, but unless the other noises let up a little the man who swims out too far need not expect much attention.

Speaking of the moving picture shows, there are so many that we wouldn't wonder to soon see a picture of some of them moving out.

Oklahoma wants more delegates in the Democratic convention. By a strange oversight she forgot to put it in her constitution.

Think of the color scheme at Brown Palace Hotel in Denver, with the pink whiskers of J. Ham Lewis banked against the outer walls.

Bryan has never had the courage to say a good word for the negro. If he dared to do it he wouldn't then carry even the solid South.

Does William J. Bryan ever stop to think of the ominous fact that nobody ever asked him to again become a candidate for the Presidency?

We are free to admit that it adds to the excitement of camping out to wake up in the morning and find a rattlesnake sharing the blankets.

Mr. Taft is now out of office, and has no advantage over Mr. Bryan except that he is the candidate of the party that casts the most votes.

We shall next expect to hear the iconoclasts assert that Martha Washington was a myth evolved from the dreams of poets and the United States mint.

Thousands of people will buy the story of John D. Rockefeller's life, with the hope that they can find out from it how to corner the coin as John has done.

The government has just ordered thirty miles of crash toweling for use on the Indian reservations of the West. They will be fine for summer blankets.

There is in Massachusetts a woman who speaks forty languages. But possibly she is not a married woman, and the case may not be as bad as it might be.

If Grover Cleveland were to come back to life he would be the most surprised man in the world to hear the nice things Mr. Bryan is now saying about him.

Eastern editors are engaged in a heated discussion over the correct pronunciation of Mr. Taft's name. If any man shall pronounce it "Tawft," shoot him on the spot.

"What are years?" asks Arthur Symms. Years are the vague uncertainties of time that a woman lightly brushes away with a powder puff and a massage roller.

Religion exercises its own certain influence on politics. No leading party has yet dared to nominate for the Presidency a man who was what Artemus Ward called an "infiddle."

SELL THE AQUEDUCT BONDS.

There should be no further unnecessary delay in the sale of the bonds for carrying forward the aqueduct work so well begun. Of course, the city should make as favorable terms as possible; but the main thing is to get the money, to get it now, and to push the aqueduct on a gigantic scale—not on a large scale, but on a "gigantic" scale. It is the time of times, right now, to make contracts, to set armies of men at work all along the line, in addition to the 900 now employed, and to make such a commotion on the desert as the denizens of the sands never saw before. Men need the work. Contractors need the jobs. Machinery-makers need the orders. The city needs the activity. The work can be done more advantageously during the year at hand than in the years to come. And the great fact that the city is driving the aqueduct campaign with enormous energy, backed by ample resources, will be the greatest asset that Los Angeles can possibly present to the world in these days of comparative dullness.

As The Times understands it, there is but one proposition for the purchase of the bonds actually before the City Council—the offer of Kountze Bros. and Leach & Co. The city has been fishing for better offers, but none have come. If there were a more desirable bid in the hands of the City Fathers, it would be well to give it careful consideration. The offer of the houses above named to take an option on the whole $23,000,000 issue, or that part of it now unsold, has been well scanned by the Finance Committee and members of the Council, and they have had an abundance of time to discover any holes in it, if there be any. Objections that have been raised are not very serious. The Times confesses that it cannot quite understand why the sale has been held up. There are reports of sinister influences exerted by the power companies, who have bonds of their own to float, but The Times chooses to discredit these rumors. The Times believes that the Councilmen are seeking to protect the interests of the city. It will be a mistake, however, to dilly-dally. Market the bonds! Market them today if it can be consistently done. With $1,000,000 in cash within fifteen days and another million by October 1, in our aqueduct coffers, what a great bulletin of progress Los Angeles will be able to give out to the world.

THE SHAME OF CALIFORNIA.

Slippery Abe Ruef, the worst enemy that California ever had till Francis Jawbone Heney crossed the Arizona border, has been released from jail; and everybody who knows anything about conditions in San Francisco knows very well that the monstrous rogue will never be locked behind the bars again.

Yes, slippery Abe, the boss blackmailer, to whom the aforesaid Heney granted a sweeping immunity contract, is virtually free for the rest of his life to ride around in his automobile and add, by devious devices, to the millions that he took from the pockets of the victims whom he held up.

It is the shame of California that the much-vaunted "graft prosecution" in San Francisco should come to this deplorable ending—this:

Every one of the dangerous conspirators against the civic life of San Francisco free and fat—every one.

Not a dollar of boodle taken away from the rascals who preyed upon that unfortunate city and its business men—not a dollar.

Every sack of the plunder which these pirates robbed from the citizens of California still held and enjoyed by them—every sack by every pirate.

You may search the whole history of modern criminology, and you will not discover an instance of scandalous delivery of jail-birds to equal this—not one.

Here we have the sum total of the results of the Spreckels-Heney campaign in San Francisco. Nobody in prison; every rascal at large; the enriched looters, Supervisors, Mayor, petty officials, the bribers, and all, still living in luxury and freedom on their ill-gotten gains—with not the slightest prospect that any of them will ever get his just dues.

So much for the pettifogging trickery, political chicanery, the blunders, frauds, immunity contracts, falsehoods, and noise, upon which the San Francisco public has been asked to rely, instead of upon an intelligent and orderly prosecution under the law and rules of evidence.

While all this miscarriage of justice has been going on, a number of public grafters and offenders of like character have been brought to book in Los Angeles county. Without any brass bands or political meetings, without any immunity contracts or crooked deals with criminals, the District Attorney's office has prosecuted the accused, fairly, sincerely, in the manner befitting an honest and conscientious public officer—and in no case has a guilty man escaped. If the tactics of Heney and Spreckels had been followed, probably every one of them would have gone free. And yet Spreckels modestly proposes to come down here and take charge of things for us!

Sixteen months of prosecution by the Spreckels-Heney method, at a cost of a million dollars to San Francisco taxpayers in one way and another. Result:

All the criminals out of jail, even those who have confessed themselves guilty; every one jingling their boodle in their pockets and laughing at the law; San Francisco worse disgraced by this miscarriage than by the Reign of Ruef and Loot; a practical certainty that every man-jack of the scoundrelly gang, boodler or briber though he be, will escape the meshes of the law—every one!

Public grafters prosecuted in Los Angeles county under the rules of law—not by clamor and bulldozing, bluff and illegal compacts with lawbreakers—but by honest, keen, clean and decent prosecuting attorneys, relying upon evidence, not the "big stick." Result:

Every guilty man convicted and made to pay the penalty for his misdeeds—every one!

It is the shame of California that Ruef, Schmitz, the sixteen San Francisco Supervisors and all the other grafters or bribers, higher up or lower down, go unpunished, through the adoption in San Francisco of the dishonest and devilishly meretricious devices of would-be political bosses and unscrupulous adventurers, instead of the method of Los Angeles—the plain, straightforward administration of the law by honest and capable officers with no private axes to grind.

MAGIC OF A SMILE.

Leaving Mr. Taft entirely out of the discussion, the value of a smile cannot be overestimated in this plodding, grinding, dollar-chasing world of today. The man who is equipped with a good, broad, industrious smile, and who uses it in his business, will make money where the man with a scowl will starve to death.

A smile is really a money-maker, and yet no capital is required to put whoever desires one in possession of it. All that's required is a sunny heart and a soul attuned to the great music of the world that bursts from the tree tops and from the green grass spangled with daisies and buttercups.

But the smile must be real. No imitation will work. A forced smile or a hypocritical smile is far worse than none. The counterfeit article is easily and instantly detected. It is like the hollow laugh or the falsetto tone of voice—unbearable. You must feel your own smile and revel in it if you want to get any good out of it.

Another species of smile that must be avoided as you would avoid the pestilence, is the idiotic smile. Heaven save us from that, above all things. When you feel that kind of a smile creeping across your ligaments, head it off as you value your life and reputation. It will queer you as sure as you are a foot high.

This simple homily of the smile is not intended for "men only." In fact, when we began, we had the girls of our community and our common country most in mind. For, if there is anything that helps more than another to make life worth living, it is the girl with a smile. The good she does in this world can never be fully estimated. She chases the gloom from sad hearts, she pours courage into despairing souls, and the dull highways of care brighten as with the sun wherever she appears.

Here's to the smile and whoever bears it, with its message of good cheer, around the swinging world! Let every one of us invest in smiles to the limit. Let us marry only the girls who smile, and let us walk a mile to dodge the man who never has one to hand out to his fellow-man.

OUR ARMIES OF PROSPERITY.

LOOKING WELL HERE.

Bank clearings in Los Angeles for Monday were $2,296,210.84. This is an increase of nearly $85,000 over a year ago, and is also more than two years ago. Very few cities in the country can boast of bank exchanges running higher than in the busy times before the flurry.

July 2, the shipments of oranges and lemons from Southern California amounted to fifty-nine carloads. This was more than 20,000 boxes. The oranges are mostly Valencias, and sell in eastern markets at $3 to $3.50 a box. In some markets lemons are not doing so well because of sharp competition with Sicily fruit. At other points they sell for as much as $3 a box.

If the 20,000 boxes averaged $3, the sum distributed for the fruit at wholesale would be $60,000 a day, about half of which would come to California.

Summer tourists are coming in freely, and will increase in numbers as July gets to fever heat in the interior States.

The weather here is ideal, running along between 70 and 80 degrees, equal to 65 to 70 degrees in New York or Chicago.

The Assessor finds $8,000,000 to add to his figures of last year for improvements.

The searchers of records for real estate titles are unusually busy, exacting two weeks' time to furnish a certificate. This is almost as long as in the boom days two years ago.

All we need now is to forget that anything ever happened to us, and go right along in full confidence in the future. Let us push the Owens River aqueduct work. Let us "get in and root" for the good roads bonds, and then for the good roads. If any person is contemplating building, let him get at it. If he thinks of buying a home, let him "do it now."

Politics should not have much influence in retarding operations. The country is Republican at heart. The nomination of Mr. Taft is most acceptable to the people. His opponents in politics concede his strength before the people and his fitness for the office. The platform made at Chicago is accepted as good doctrine, and with this satisfaction with the ticket and the declaration of principles, the result of the voting in November cannot be greatly in doubt.

It is our own opinion that the Taft administration will be wise, conservative and just, and that the coming four years will be a period of great prosperity for the country.

Let us all take courage, pull off our coats, forget the past and go to work.

THE INTERNATIONAL GRAFTER.

The isolation of Venezuela among the nations is complete. President Castro has pursued a course of spoliation on all interests in which foreign capital was invested in the country, with the result that no more capital will seek investment there. Nearly all the countries of Europe have a grievance against Castro and his republic, and now the United States has completely severed diplomatic relations with Venezuela.

That country will learn that honesty is the best policy in the dealings of nations with nations, as well as of individuals with individuals. The dishonest man has no credit, and credit is worth more than cash, in business. Few have ready money enough to carry on their enterprises. The Venezuelans are a poor people, and the resources of the country must remain dormant unless foreign capital is available to develop them.

In her present isolation, Venezuela will stagnate just so long as her credit is so much impaired.

Germany, Holland, France, Italy and England would fain chastise the little republic for its grafting. The late Mr. Cleveland came within an inch of getting us into a war with Great Britain because he asserted the Monroe doctrine was a bar to the interference of the government of Great Britain to compel Venezuela to practice common honesty in dealing with English interests.

The question is often asked why the United States does not take the matter in hand and force Castro, the little tyrant, to behave. No doubt it is mostly because we are so powerful and Venezuela so weak. It is a matter of forbearance. Castro is to blame, rather than the people of Venezuela. As a mass, they know little about the merits of the dispute. The President is so called merely in a euphemistic sense. He is really a despot. Only by a revolution would he be dislodged from power.

If we are forced to assert our rights and to maintain our dignity by an appeal to arms, there is no doubt we can do it. But in the mountain fastnesses of Venezuela an army of invasion would have no summer picnic against the guerrilla warfare the little army of Castro would carry on. The cost could be more than all the American interests at stake.

Besides, we are not swashbucklers, and will not resort to force until all other means have failed, until the insolence of the little half-caste tyrant becomes too gross to endure longer.

However just our ground might be, a war with Venezuela would create a great deal of friction between us and many of the South American nations. We gain much and lose nothing by long forbearance. We can thump Castro when we please. Let it be as late as possible.

RANTING, DEMAGOGIC OXPRESS.

The preposterous, hopeless, incorrigible, impossible Oxpress! The tricky, insincere, dishonest, Populistic, unfair, untruthful, shallow, demagogic, semi-socialistic, hypocritical Oxpress!

The Times was far from saying anything discreditable about Senator Lodge or his Chicago address. It was the Oxpress which The Times charged with ranting demagogy. The Oxpress has a half-conscious impression that it was itself which was shown up as an ally of the discontented and vicious. Mark—only semi-conscious. Its torpid mind is never more than half alive. When it tried to claim Senator Lodge as of its way of thinking it had a subconscious feeling that it was insincere, unfair and dishonest. When it charged The Times with attacking Senator Lodge it was half conscious that it was lying.

Oh, the flood of divine grace it takes to convert an ex-rebater from his evil ways, and lift him to a higher plane than that of rank hypocrisy, and make him half-way walk in the paths of common honesty and entertain a half-decent respect for the truth!

NOT A MATTER OF BRAINS.

In a broken box half filled with hay,
Corn and beans and barley,
A china egg and a door knob lay;
Corn and beans and barley.
A small brown hen came jiggling by
And looked them o'er with kindling eye—
Cried she: "I'll hatch them by and by,"
Corn and beans and barley!

So on the nest she straight did get,
Alfalfa hay and pumpkins,
And drew in her legs for a long, long set,
Alfalfa hay and pumpkins.
The days dragged on in tireless flight,
Yet still the little hen sat tight,
With visions of downy chicks in sight,
Alfalfa hay and pumpkins!

There was once a man with a goodly "stake,"
Stocks and bonds and water,
Who said: "A fortune I will make."
Stocks and bonds and water.
"I'll speculate and be a bull,"
Yet he was but a lamb with a fleecy wool
And he soon was shorn to the hide, poor fool.
Stocks and bonds and water!

He had a friend with loads of "mon,"
Whips and spurs and bridles,
Who liked to watch the ponies run,
Whips and spurs and bridles.
He laid a bet for the fun one day—
'Twas winning money just like play—
He's now in a boat with the other jay,
Whips and spurs and bridles!

The hen was silly, you will own,
With a cut-cut-cut—cadacut,
To think of hatching chicks from stone,
With a cut-cut-cut—cadacut.
Yet she was bright, as bright hens ge,
Ho! ho! But brains in a hen don't grow.
We expect such things from them, you know,
With a cut-cut-cut—cadacut.

But look you, now, at those noble men,
A fool's cap and a bawble,
Had they more sense than the little hen?
A fool's cap and a bawble,
If she were a fool to incubate
A china egg, then, prithee! state
How would those other fellows rate?
A fool's cap and a bawble!

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

John Cort now holds a majority of units in the local theatrical aggregation.

Mr. Cort has just completed arrangements whereby he will have in active operation during the coming year a theater on each of the principal downtown thoroughfares—Main, Spring and Broadway. In order, these theaters are the People's, which he will reopen, the Los Angeles, and the new Hamburger Majestic, which is leased by Oliver Morosco, and for which Mr. Cort will supply the attractions.

Announcements are to be made shortly outlining Mr. Cort's policy here for the coming year.

There has been much speculation, silent or expressed, as to what this manager really intended doing with the Los Angeles Theater.

It was announced, some time ago, that he would play the Stair and Havlin shows there this year, but arrangements have just been completed for transforming it into a vaudeville theater, and the vaudeville season will open there September 1, with the Sullivan-Considine circuit furnishing the bookings, according to present arrangements.

The thorough utility of the Los Angeles for the typical Stair and Havlin material was always a matter of some doubt, and apparently the keen judgment of Mr. Cort did not lead him astray in this particular.

It is for this particular section of his large amusement department store that he has just finished his arrangements at the People's Theater, and the Stair and Havlin attractions will be devoted exclusively to that house.

On Broadway, Mr. Cort will offer various syndicate productions of the better class.

Hobart Bosworth will become leading actor of the Belasco again next Monday night, appearing in principal parts until a man has been engaged to succeed Lewis Stone. Mr. Bosworth will take Mr. Stone's role in "The Rose of the Rancho" next week.

The future of the Auditorium, for the summer at least, remains quite uncertain.

Bruce Gordon Kingsley, however, is to blossom out there presently as the leader of a concert orchestra, an organization of about thirty instruments, which will give its first recital late next week.

Maestro Kingsley proposes to give concerts of classical and popular music through the summer, featuring operatic selections and presenting local soloists.

It is reported, though the report is not confirmed, that the Daly musical company is negotiating arrangements for the making of a number of its Eastern productions on the Auditorium stage, in the early fall.

Percival Aylmer retired from the leading role of "The Swastika" last night, being succeeded by the author, Mr. Stoermer.

The Orpheum bill is well below the average this week, offering only one act of novelty and distinction. This is Paul West's tramp life satire, "Seven Hoboes," in which a Hebrew tramp, an Irish tramp, an Italian tramp, an English tramp, a sissy tramp and a tramp—commingle after their meal at the corner of a country road. I think there were six tramps visible yesterday, and though the admixture was about as far from real hoboedom as they could get, it is nevertheless entertaining and pictorially pleasant—for real trampery is certainly not. Vaudeville humor of various sorts is seriously distributed by Gus Pixley, Charles Nelson, Tommy Van, William Gordon, Sam Dody, Brooke Van Horne and H. Rose.

Romano, Jordan and Zeno have a very ordinary acrobatic act. John and Mae Burke are entertaining to portions of the audience, but have a skit containing absolutely nothing new. Sadie Sherman has a false-alarm sketch called "At the Photographer's." Felix Adler and Barry have a specialty that is stale and flat in a second week's presentation. Millie Pantser continues her acrobatics and Irving Jones works in desperation to get out a few poor, topical songs. DeWitt, Burns & Torrance alone, with their little skit, "The Awakening of the Toys," is an offering whose daintiness and charm endures for a second presentation.

HE'S TRYING TO SETTLE.

Through the influence of his friends in Milwaukee, E. B. Lossmitzer, who is now here as a fugitive on the charge of embezzlement, is making an effort to settle his affairs and save himself from being taken back. He is accused of misappropriating $500 while he was treasurer of the German Society of Milwaukee. He denies this, saying that the society was financially embarrassed when he resigned and came to Los Angeles several months ago. As soon as Lossmitzer was arrested requisition papers were secured and an officer is now on the way here to extradite him.

BUILDING AT GARLOCK.

Latest advices are that construction work on the Mojave-Keeler Southern Pacific line are at work near Garlock, about forty miles out. Forces are working on both grading and track-laying.

A good range of sizes, too.

We furnish estimates on window shades; best oil opaque sorts. A card or telephone order will bring a man to your house.

You cannot keep a basketball girl down. Yesterday Hazel Franklin rebounded from her temporary defeat and went flying back to first position. Her score struck the high-water mark of 26,000, with an increase of 4000 in a single day. Marguerite Jones did not score at all yesterday, and the small girl is probably saving her thunder.

The heroine of today is Margaret Chung, whose work in Pomona and Ontario has resulted in the stunning leap of 12,000 points, paralleling the spectacular rise of Thomas McKinley of Pomona. Pomona racers evidently think in large numbers. Margaret did not take time to come in with her golden gains, but sent in the points by Mrs. Firey, at whose home she has been staying in Pomona, and who is greatly interested in the advance of this ambitious young girl.

Margaret is exceptionally bright in her studies, but unless she wins her way for the next year, her hope of an education will have to be laid aside. Her friends are determined that she shall have the chance she covets so earnestly and are helping her all they can. Margaret intends to go to China some day as a medical missionary to the women and children of that country.

Enthusiastic work on the part of Alice Capron has given her back the third line. She turned in more than 4000 points yesterday as the result of her rides through the streets of Pasadena, khaki clad, with the saffron-winged cloud of dust in the wake of her wheel.

Yesterday some one in Kern county sent in a few coupons to the credit of Pasadena Alice, and several days ago a subscription was given in for her with the card of Human Officer Reynolds of Los Angeles accompanying it. A pleasant tale hangs thereby, for the subscription was a birthday present to Mr. Reynolds (who does so much for the boys and girls) from his sister in San Francisco who is the first extension secretary ever employed by the San Francisco Young Women's Christian Association.

Florence Jarman is another rising star in the scholarship constellation. She sent in over 2000 points yesterday, and finds luck in odd numbers on the seventh line. Lizzie Shapiro, the girl with the smile, is finding out how much a smile can accomplish, for she is one of the best workers of all, and goes up one line today in that difficult neighborhood at the top by the grace of 2000 points—and a smile.

The Redlands Rustler is on his native heath this week, and is working to win from Redlands. His name is Murray Royer, and his father is a prominent Odd Fellow in Los Angeles, though he has been in ill health for a long time, and Murray must work for his educational advancement. The Odd Fellows of Redlands gave a year's subscription for Murray, and he gained 1500 points yesterday. A number of contestants made gains of 1000 yesterday. Herbert Nickel, the Shriner boy who is putting in some good work of late, was among the 1000 club. Mae Simmons and Ruth von Kirbach and Myrtle Hall also joined that hustling little group. The Soldiers' Home girl, bright-faced Laura Easton, was another member, and Teresa Camp was a "near member" by a gain of 900. Anna May Elliston of Gardena made a call at headquarters, and reported a number of favorable prospects for the future. The little violinist, Charles Yglesias, has gone out of town to work for a season, and he has a future worth working for, according to the high praise of his teacher, Earl B. Valentine, head master of violin at the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music and Art. Mr. Valentine has written a letter, in which he says:

I take the greatest pleasure and pride in recommending Charles Yglesias to all music-loving people who are in a way interested in this great and good contest, where advantages are offered to young people of energy and ambition. Charles entered our conservatory the last of July, 1907, and has completed a two years' course in less than one, passing with the highest marks of any one of his age. I consider Charles Yglesias the most talented pupil for his age that I have taught in my thirteen years' connection as teacher in the school, and certainly hope he will get the scholarship in the violin department for the coming year, as he greatly desires it."

Margaret Chung,
who scored over twelve thousand points yesterday.

THE PRIZES.

Besides the valuable scholarships for which the young people entered in the contest are working, The Times offers fifteen cash prizes for those making the highest scores next to the top liner, who will receive the $400 piano. The cash prizes, totaling $1200, are arranged as follows:

CONCERNING POINTS.

A number of subscriptions are coming in to headquarters without having "old" or "new" marked on them. When such is the case the subscription is marked old, and only half the number of points are credited to the contestant. Be sure to say whether a subscription is new, or simply a renewal.

THE PIANO.

The first prize to be awarded to the winner of the contest in addition to a choice of scholarships is a splendid Fairbanks piano from the Southern California Music Company, valued at $400. It is a beautiful instrument of superior construction, handled by an old and reliable company as a special feature, and is doubly guaranteed. It is known among musicians for its exquisite tonal qualities and responsive action. The case may be of rich mahogany or dark oak.

FOR TENDER SKINS

A Home Preparation That Protects Against the Broiling Sun.

The perfect enjoyment of summer outings and vacations is marred for many because the hot sun causes their faces to burn, peel and swell. A simple preparation that can be made at home affords protection for tender skins and will also prevent or remove freckles or tan. Any druggist will sell you the ingredients for this excellent face wash, for all that you need is 2 ounces of Rose Water, 1 ounce of Cologne Spirits and 4 ounces of Eppotone (skin food.) Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling) and after dissolved strain and let cool, then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits. Another good result of the daily use of the preparation is that it takes off the embarrassing "shine" of perspiration. This simple wash is far better than rouges and cosmetics, for it is absolutely harmless. It will not rub off or show, and it should be remembered that there is nothing more cooling or grateful in application to the skin than Eppotone. If you want to use this recipe on your vacation, cut it out now so that you will have it with you.

NO POLITICS IN IT.

Trustee Desmond of Whittier State School Declares Investigation Is Not to Be Hampered.

In regard to the statement made in a local weekly publication that the Whittier State School investigation is to be hampered by interference from the Southern Pacific political "machine," Trustee C. C. Desmond has given out the following:

"I have seen no evidence of such interference, nor do I expect to see it. I have not been approached, either directly or indirectly, by anybody connected with the Southern Pacific Railroad on this subject, and I have failed to observe any such persons attempting to take a hand in the matter one way or the other.

"The investigation is one in which every good citizen is concerned, and I am too well acquainted with the officials of the Southern Pacific here resident to suspect them of being anything but good citizens.

"There is no politics in this matter. Politics cannot, by any possibility, be made to figure in it. It is a question of cleaning up a dirty mess and this I propose to do if it be in my power.

FALL FROM SCAFFOLD.

Three Men Injured in Accident Caused by Breaking of a Timber Support.

Three men were severely injured yesterday afternoon, when a scaffold upon which they were working collapsed, precipitating them to the cellar, thirty feet below.

The men were in the employ of Contractor Engstrom. Six were sent to work at finishing on a building between Seventh and Eighth streets on Grand avenue. The cracking of a small timber support caused the entire structure to give way. Three workmen escaped by grasping the timbers. The others were hurled into space. The injured were taken to the Receiving Hospital in the patrol and the University ambulance.

John Byfield, 60 years of age, of No. 108 East Twenty-ninth street, sustained a dislocated right shoulder, numerous abrasions and cuts about his body and limbs, and probable internal injuries.

Ivan Frevisch, 20 years of age, of No. 504 North Bunker Hill street, sustained a lacerated scalp, concussion of the brain and numerous bruises and cuts. His condition is critical.

Large Delegation to Boost Los Angeles for Next Year's Meet Going to Dallas.

The Southern California delegation to the Elks' Grand Lodge at Dallas, Tex., will leave tonight at 11 o'clock by a special train de luxe on the Southern Pacific via El Paso. The list comprises between eighty and one hundred members, and their cry is "Los Angeles in Nineteen Nine." They will bring the Elks here next year if it can be done. They come from all over this region, mostly from south of the Tehachepi, but some are from Bakersfield, Sacramento, San Luis Obispo and even from Eureka and Nevada City.

The train will carry eight coaches, viz.: baggage car, gentlemen's buffet and library car, standard Pullman sleepers—Calabria, Apache, Ashmore and Hacheta, a dining car and an observation car with a ladies' parlor and piano. N. R. Martin, district passenger agent, himself an Elk, will go in charge for the Southern Pacific.

The train will pass the Salton Sea between 6 and 7 o'clock tomorrow morning, and arrive at El Paso at 7 a.m. Friday. A five-hour stop will be made and a trip taken to Mexico. Leaving here the route will be via the Texas and Pacific to Dallas, arriving there at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

DROUTH THREATENS RANCHES.

Rio Grande River Dry in El Paso Valley and Irrigation Is Had Only by Wells.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For the first time in two years the Rio Grande is dry as a bone and no water is available for the irrigation canals on which hundreds of ranchers in the El Paso Valley depend for water.

The condition is serious as many are not supplied with wells, although the larger ranchers who have orchards and alfalfa fields have started the gasoline pumps pumping from deep wells and by this means can secure enough water for their own lands.

The smaller ranchers, who have but a few acres, but who are numerous in the valley will be unable to obtain water from any source unless hauled by wagons from railroad tanks, and even by this method they will not be able to secure enough to do much good to the land.

Unless heavy rains fall soon to fill the river the loss of crops on all the smaller places in the Rio Grande Valley and the Mesilla Valley of New Mexico will be enormous.

UNDELIVERED TELEGRAMS.

There are undelivered messages at the Postal Telegraph Cable office, No. 421 South Spring street for: Will Warren, H. Wakasa, Refugia Mendosa, The Lennett Key Company, Charles L. Kinsley, Mrs. M. M. Jayness, R. B. Jordan, Thomas Johnson, Vere Goldthwaite, S. W. Ford, J. C. Craig and Maro Bronser, C. W. Averill.

Most of Washington, D. C., was left in peril while the fire department worked on three fires that broke out from suspicious origin in different parts of the city Monday night, resulting in many injuries to firemen, the death of twenty horses and property damage of upward of $90,000.

You Often Hear

"I can't eat candies of any sort." Sometimes it is the teeth, sometimes the digestive tract, more often a general impression that the system won't stand for sweets. I once entertained that notion myself. I was converted from my folly by no less a personage than Mrs. Minister. She told me that good candy, eaten in moderation, would disagree with no one unless the stomach was completely worn out. A stomach will rebel against a little poor candy, or even too much good candy, but the right sort of candy is an aid to digestion. I find that chocolate-coated caramels are a most wholesome and satisfying confection for me. Also the toasted marshmallows. I get mine at Christopher's, of course.

MALTED BARLEY is digested food. Hops are a tonic—also an aid to sleep. That's what you get in beer. That's why the doctor says "drink beer" when one lacks vitality.

Beer quiets the nerves, not because of the alcohol. There is only 3½ per cent. of that. But because of the hops, for hops are soporific.

In every way the drinking of beer is good for you, providing the beer is pure. It is only the wrong beer that leads to bad after effects and to biliousness.

Schlitz beer is pure. We spend more on purity than on all other costs of our brewing. Even the air that cools it is filtered. And every bottle is sterilized.

There is all the good of beer, and none of the harm, in Schlitz.

REACHING FOR YOUNG MEN.

Local Association Starts Membership Boost.

Must Have Family to Fill New Building.

Rescue Mission Gets Its New Superintendent.

The Los Angeles Young Men's Christian Association, which is noted for doing things enthusiastically, started on a new "booster" campaign last night.

Having now the largest building in America devoted entirely to association activities, and acknowledged by experts to be by far the best suited and equipped of all, the stakes were set last night to make the association the strongest in membership in America. This can be done by making the numser reach 5000, and if the result tallies with the building record, it will not stop there. When new superintendent of Union Rescue Mission, who came yesterday.

the building was first talked of, it was to cost $300,000, but it has actually doubled that figure, and has cost $600,000.

General Secretary Luther last night gave some figures to back up the claim of the city to having the greatest association building in America. He stated that it has 180,000 square feet of floor space, which is 15,000 square feet more than the great Central Association of New York has. There is one larger building in Chicago but only half of it is used for the association.

"If it were merely to be filled with members," said Secretary Luther, "it will not mean much, unless back of it is the purpose of young men to help other young men. Let us not measure it, men, merely by the size of the entrance fees, but let us measure it by what we can do for the young men of Los Angeles."

Mr. Luther outlined some things that will surely result from making the membership as great as 5000. He predicted a modern building for the colored department; another for the foreign-speaking members, and a third for East Los Angeles, and his announcement was received with the greatest enthusiasm. It is a fact that the movement for the colored men is already on foot.

Brief talks were made by R. M. Allen, Byron Hanna, Dr. Sweet, Assistant Secretaries Quillian, Graham, Willis, Austin and Martin, and other men.

Mr. Quillian, who has just returned from two years spent in the East, spoke on the topic "It's Up to Us." He stated that people in the East had said to him: "You've got the best building in America, but how are you going to fill it in a city of 200,000 people?"

He answered them: "If you knew the association spirit of Los Angeles your question would have been answered before it was put."

Membership Secretary Martin outlined his plan for the campaign to increase the membership to 5000. The first step is to canvass the city and secure the names and addresses of all men eligible to membership, then later on apportion them systematically to these men best calculated to win them.

To make this preliminary canvass, ten captains will be appointed and each of these will select ten others. The following seven were named last night:

E. M. Allen, R. F. Bostwick, John Torrey, H. M. Mathieson, J. E. Haines, F. B. Fletcher, Byron C. Hanna. Today the list will be completed and the canvass will go forward without delay.

The official opening of the new building has been set for September 1, and the design is to secure the increased membership during August and September.

Splendid music was rendered last night by a quartette from the colored department of the association.

TROTTER IN CHARGE.

UNION RESCUE MISSION.

After waiting many months to get the right man, the board of directors of the Union Rescue Mission are at last gratified to see the long-vacant superintendency filled.

George W. Trotter arrived from Minneapolis yesterday, and is now in full charge of the work. "It is important to have the right man for the work's sake, for if the mission means anything, it means the lifting of men into the better life through the unadulterated gospel of a divine Savior, and consequently the directors will not temporize with anybody who is tainted with anything unorthodox in his teachings.

It is also important to have the right kind of a man, because of the property interests of the mission. The directors, a couple of years ago, paid $20,000 for the property at No. 145 North Main street, since which time it has greatly enhanced in value, and in order to justify such an investment for mission work, it must accomplish something worth while.

Mr. Trotter has been here several times, and was once an assistant to his brother, who was superintendent of the mission, and his work and character so impressed the directors at that time, that they made every effort to secure him.

The Good Samaritan Club, composed of men from the two branches of the mission, will tender a reception to the new superintendent, at the Federation Cafe, Third and Main streets, on Saturday evening. The after-dinner speakers will be "Uncle Ben" Pearson, president of the club, T. C. Horton, F. A. Hadden, O. D. Conrey and others.

PUBLIC SERVICE.

FRAUD ALLEGED. George Biggs yesterday filed in the Superior Court a suit against A. L. Foster & Co. and others, to set aside his deed of December, 1907, to a lot in Plummer Place, valued at $1000. He alleged that he deeded it without consideration to Addie M. Davidson, a mythical person, through the representation of the defendants that they would, as agents for the Title Insurance and Trust Company, give him a contract of sale to a tract of land in the North Moneta Garden Lands tract. He asserts that they fraudulently represented that they were agents for the property, and that they had obtained his lot by fraud.

ANNULMENT. Joseph Lummis yesterday filed in the Superior Court a suit for the annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Lizzie D. Lummis, whom he married in Los Angeles May 17, 1908.

INJURIES. Fidel Rowland yesterday filed in the Superior Court a suit for $10,656 damages against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. He says he sustained a fractured skull and other injuries December 15 last, when he was run down by a locomotive near Puente station.

CONDEMNATION. Judge James yesterday aproved the report of the referees in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Western avenue, Hollywood. The court modified the report to allow $1650 damage to the Lippincott property, and $2075 damage to the Hayden property.

GRAND LARCENY. Charles B. Hummer was held to the Superior Court by Justice Selph yesterday, under $1500 bail, on the charge of stealing $105 worth of copper wire from the Los Angeles and Redondo Railroad Company.

TRIAL SET. Judge Wilbur yesterday set for September 22 the trial of Virgil Snyder and R. R. Sutherland, on a charge of sending forged telegrams.

EMBEZZLEMENT. On the District Attorney's motion, Justice Summerfield yesterday dismissed a charge against Burton V. Moore of embezzling a stock subscription list belonging to the Merchants' Trust Company.

CRUELTY. P. C. Holmes yesterday paid $10 fine in Justice Pierce's court on a plea of guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals for working a sick horse.

INJURIES. Benjamin E. Knotts's suit against the Pacific Electric Railroad Company for $15,000 damages began yesterday in Judge Monroe's court. Knotts asserts that through the negligent starting of a trolley car from which he was alighting at Whittier January 26 last, two of his ribs were broken and his head was injured.

DIVORCE. On grounds of desertion, Mrs. Jennie I. Preston was granted by Judge Conrey yesterday a divorce from William H. Preston, a wholesale grocer of Seattle, Wash. Mrs. Preston stated that she last saw her husband over a year ago, while they were on their way to Los Angeles from Dakota. Preston suddenly left the train at Granger, Wyo., going to Seattle, and afterward notified his wife to get a divorce, as he would live with her no longer.

INCORPORATION. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday with the County Clerk by the Enameled Steel and Sign Company, capital stock $75,000.

SHE CARRIES THE RECORD.

And the Captain of the Battleship Virginia Helped Coal to Get It, 'Tis Said.

When the battleship Virginia sailed through the Golden Gate yesterday in her voyage with the fleet around the world she carried the world's coaling record tucked away in her books, a trophy won by the sailor boys while on this Coast.

The coaling record is as highly prized as the target record. To be able to coal quickly means to run into a harbor and get out again with the greatest speed, either for attack or escape, as the case may be.

A story is told by a man of the Virginia regarding the manner in which she broke her former records—broke the records made by the New Jersey, the Georgia and the Rhode Island, and landed on the list ahead of all world's records.

Two men were responsible for the victory, Capt. Alexander Sharp, in command of the Virginia, and "Big Jim" Farmer, master-at-arms of the main deck.

The sight of the captain of a great warship stripped to his shirt, his arms and throat bared to the grime and soot, and his muscles heaving and straining at the trucks, proved more than the men could stand without going mad with enthusiasm. They went wild—and they beat the record. Capt. Alexander Sharp did that very thing.

"Big Jim" Farmer was the second hero of the affair. Farmer is well known in Los Angeles, and intends to make this his home when he leaves the navy. He is a large, gray-eyed, laughing boy with the body of a giant and disposition of a dove. His duty is to keep the men of his deck straight, and the officers have never had to complain of his work.

When the ship started to coal, the crews were lined off and put to work. Farmer, in charge of his deck, watched them as they labored with the heavy sacks and handled the cranes and trucks. He didn't watch them long. He turned and saw a number of men who were off duty lounging about the deck.

"We've got to get that record, and we won't get it by occupying reserved seats," he shouted, as he pulled his blue jacket over his head and stripped for action. The men caught his meaning. One glance at the toiling, sweating mass of men below was enough. Like a flash, all were stripped ready for work. The rush of fresh arms and toughened muscles did the rest. The great hands of the master-at-arms swung sack after sack, the trucks rattled and plunged, and the work was done.

Now they are saying nice things about Farmer, and the men on his deck do not trouble him. They are saying nicer things about the captain.

The Virginia now carries a record of an average of 416.75 tons per hour for four hours, the time required to coal the vessel in the Puget Sound Navy Yard.

BISHOP M'INTYRE.

Bishop McIntyre was compelled to change his arrangements on account of many pressing engagements from all parts of the Coast. He was advertised to deliver a lecture at Huntington Beach later in the week, but filled the date there last night, and today he goes north to remain until August 1, when he will return here and depart for the East with his family. After spending the month of August in Denver they will go on to St. Paul. The Bishop has had no vacation yet this year, but he never was known to go on a loaf, so it is probable that the work of his new office is more or less of a recreation.

POPE IS IN SPLENDID HEALTH.

ROME, July 7.—There is no truth in the report emanating from Paris that the Pope is in ill-health. Since he was elected to his present office, the Pontiff has never enjoyed better health during the summer time than he has this year. Today, after celebrating mass, he walked in the Vatican gardens, inspecting a replica of the Church at Lourds, viewed the lions sent him by King Menelik of Abyssinia, and received visitors, including the rector and students of a Bohemian college. He made a short address to the students.

BRITISH TRADE FALLS OFF.

LONDON, July 7.—The June statement of the Board of Trade shows decreases of $8,346,000 in imports and $20,785,500 in exports. In imports the decrease is in food and raw materials, while in exports it is in manufactured goods.

Judge John C. Pollock, in the Federal Court at Kansas City, Monday night, ordered that the property of the Great Western Life Insurance Company be disposed of, and that the policies amounting to $2,000,000, be reinsured in some reliable company.

IDEAL SEASHORE RESORT

Many Town Lots Purchased on El Pizmo Beach.

The number of Los Angelenos, San Franciscans and other Californians who have purchased town site lots on El Pizmo Beach lately seems to indicate that this beautiful stretch of seashore is to become exceedingly popular as a summer resort.

More than that, now that the railroad from Bakersfield to San Luis Obispo has been practically assured, El Pizmo believes that it is destined to become a winter resort as well, as it is on the direct line of the Southern Pacific overland.

Already a fine new hotel and eighty cottages have been built, and the El Pizmo Beach, which has offices in Los Angeles and San Francisco, as well as at El Pizmo Beach, reports that it has sold about fifty other building lots during the last ten days.

The beach is said to be the finest and broadest on the Coast, being 400 feet wide and 17 miles long. It is adjacent to the new Tiber oil fields, where several large wells have been developed recently.

Pizmo is not a new town by any means. The valley folk have traveled overland to camp on this charming spot for the last dozen years or more. It is known to automobilists as "the Ormond Beach of the West," and every automobile owner who gets a chance goes there, as one poetical observer has said, "to touch his tires to the somnolescent waves that have washed their way from entrancing Honolulu and have kissed the tropical shores of the Philippines."

El Pizmo is one of the few resorts that can boast of a good supply of city water. It is pure in quality and is piped to every town lot. More than that, there are many other improvements—every convenience, in fact, that is to be found in a city. El Pizmo is, in fact, an ideal seashore resort in quiet surroundings, with plenty of sunshine and pure air to bring health and enjoyment to the glad sojourner. That is why so many people are flocking to the beach adjacent to San Luis Obispo looking for sites for summer and winter homes.

My Lost Self.

CHAPTER XIII.

"IF I COULD ONLY TRUST YOU!"

The moments while I stood, spellbound in fear, listening for some sound to tell me whether Masita was alive or that the desperate Greek had carried out her murderous purpose, were among the most terrible of my life. The suspense searched me through and through. I stood like a man turned to stone; powerless to move, unable to think, gripped by a vise-like paralysis of fear.

Slowly, rage began to take the place of fear. Rage against the fiend who had taken Masita's life. She should pay the price. That I vowed, if I had to take her life in return with my own hands. And then my blood turned to fire, and I clenched my hands and gritted my teeth in the fierce yearning for revenge.

Now I welcomed that laugh! For it told me that Masita lived.

It was from Agapa; and the next instant I was at the entrance of Masita's room. The door stood ajar; and as I reached it, Agapa spoke.

"Go, pray with all your soul and strength. It will not help you now. I told you you should die as I swore to the man you have bewitched. You die well. But your prayers touch me no more than your craven pleading did just now."

I understood then that, dangerous as the fact the Greek was yet too much of a woman to resist the chance of gloating over the woman she hated. Her words had saved Masita's life; for they had given me time to come to her rescue.

Agapa was standing with her dagger uplifted, and from her attitude I judged that Masita, whom I could not see, was on her knees in prayer close beside her; and for the moment I was at a loss how to act. If I rushed in the weapon might be thrust home; for Agapa was facing the door and would see me the instant I entered.

I held my breath a second in suspense and then the Greek moved back a pace and turned to pick up a necklace from a table close by.

It was my chance. I sprang across the room and before she had recovered from her surprise, I had wrested the dagger from her hand. Masita leaped to her feet at the same moment and after a swift glance at me, fled into a chair.

For a moment in her baffled fury I believe Agapa was inclined even to risk a struggle with me. She started at me, her eyes gleaming viciously, and her lips parted with her disfiguring snarl like a wild beast robbed of its prey.

"You had better go, Agapa," I said. "We will answer for this afterwards."

She kept her eyes on me and came forward a step, half-crouching as if ready to spring at me. "You had better go," I repeated.

She fell back a pace and then burst into a mirthless laugh. "Your new lover has saved you," she said to Masita.

"Hold your tongue," I answered furiously, "lest I forget that, devil as you are, you are still a woman."

She folded her hands across her heaving bosom and, throwing back her head, laughed again and stared at me. "Strike me for her sake. Show yourself a man to her that she may see what sort of hero it is she has believed. Oh, you love her. You love her, as do we all. Since she came to the island, what thought have you had for Malta? Why, but for her sake, have you quarreled with the woman you had sworn to wed? Have you not all seen the change in you? Her coldness, your neglect, your——"

She stopped there, shrinking from the look blazing in my eyes. My evil intention for violence stood me in good stead at that moment, for it silenced her.

Without a word I gripped her by the arm and thrust her toward the door, and without a word she obeyed my unspoken command. She backed out of the room and, a prey to dire fear, hurried down to the floor below. I followed, and as she reached the lower floor she crouched into a corner afraid of my violence.

I found the door unlocked and, flinging it open, pushed her out, shut home the bolts, and returned to tell Masita that the peril was passed.

Masita was still pale and trembling from the effects of the ordeal through which she had passed. She had lighted a lamp and her great eyes fastened strangely on my face as she turned from the entrance. "You are safe," I said to her. "I will see that you have no more trouble of this sort."

"But what have you done with her? You have not——"

"She threatened my life. Did she really try to kill me?"

"She is a Greek and mad with jealousy and was to have been Beltano's bride. She knows that he will be here the day after tomorrow and that a ship sails with him to make you his wife."

"Is that the truth?"

"And my brother? He sent her to you with a written message that would help me, and that she was not his wife, and that—that you had asked for her to come. He wished you to be friendly."

"I read it in friendship that she drew from it. I do not yet know all that it meant, but I do know that to gain advantage for her here, Breva was plotting and duggest. I found him and learnt what had been planned."

"And you were in the building," she said quickly and with suspicion.

"It would be simpler to say at once that you do not believe me. There is the ground by the cliff. I came that way."

"Julius, Agapa's brother, and another would have sought to stop me. I held it urgent that no time should be lost."

"And you risked your life. Pepita told me of that cliff path when I thought you had merely been spying." She had no right to speak of it. She chatters too freely. I ran no risk. I had to get here quickly and alone. That is all."

"She told me that only a month or two since a man had fallen to his death in attempting that path." She passed her hand across her troubled brow and then, with an effort as if she had to force herself to utter the words, she added: "It seems I wronged you. I thought you had spied upon me."

"You owe a broad back, and that is not the only wrong. You were placed in my care and I am answerable for you to my brother. That is why I came."

"Why do you seek to belittle what you have done?" she asked with a suggestion of irritation, accompanying the words with a shrug and a slight curl of her mobile lips. "You have saved my life and you risked your own to do it. Do you think I cannot understand that, or that the obligation is more to my liking because you pretend otherwise?"

"I can understand that it hurts you to own such a thing to a man whom you have vowed to accuse. If you wish it bluntly put, then it is true that I saved your life and ran some risk, small or great as you please to think it. I have known from the first that you were in danger on the island."

She started at this and glanced sharply at me. "I understand that, I believe. Is that why you insisted upon my being here under lock and key?"

I smiled. "Infer what you please. I had to answer for your safety."

"To Beltano?" she shot the question at me as if prompted by a fresh train of thought and bent forward eagerly to scan my face.

The answer perplexed her. She thought a second. "Do you mean because of my vow to accuse you of Signor Vicino's death?"

I made no reply to this, and she stood thinking. Then she shook her head. "Yet if that Greek had had her way, my death would have served you in that. What do you mean by my safety? You ventured to cross to the mainland, too. Why can't you be candid?" She waited for me to reply, and when I remained silent she made a gesture of irritation. "You seek to mystify me. Why? Is it true that in Levaccio you were found by the carabinieri and escaped by passing as an American with Capt. Murito?"

"Yes. Who told you?"

She waived the question aside. "But he has been in America. He would know."

"I have also been in America. I speak English well enough."

"I remember," she said with a shudder. "But I don't understand you. Who are you?"

"You know. You have heard my name often. Beppo Serrano."

"Why do you say my safety is so much to you?" she asked after a pause.

"You have sworn to accuse me of that crime, and I am resolved that you shall have the chance to keep your vow."

She stared intently into my eyes as I answered, and again I noticed the expression of half hope, half doubt in hers as she thought over the words. Then she rose and began to pace the room, stopping suddenly close to me. "Did you know of the plan that I should escape from here?"

"Yes."

"No."

"Do you mean you were going to help me."

"Yes."

"Although you knew that I should keep my vow? Do you think I believe that?"

"No. I do not expect you to trust me."

She went back to her chair and sat with her face buried in her hands. I guessed the struggle in her mind. Torn between her loathing of me as the murderer of Vicino, desire to use me to help her escape, inability to believe that I would try to save her in the face of her threat, and fear that I had some secret purpose against her, she was at her wits' end what to do.

"I must keep my vow," she said at length, her voice strained and agitated.

"Do you wish to become Beltano's wife?" I asked.

"Will you let me help you to escape?"

"If I could only trust you! I know not what to do." A deep sigh of despair broke from her lips.

"If you cannot, it is hopeless! But as you will," I said slowly.

She did not reply; and in the pause that followed we heard a knock at the door below. She started nervously.

"That may be Pepita," I said; "I will answer for your safety. You need feel no fear. Take time to think of what I have said. I will help you to escape, and will have all in readiness. You can then decide."

I did not wait for her to reply and went down to the door below. It was Pepita, as I had thought; and Breva was with her.

I sent the girl up to Masita and then questioned Breva as to what had passed before I had found him. He told me that Julius and Agapa had come to him together as he stood on watch with a message from me that Agapa was to be admitted to Masita, to settle with her the details of her escape. Julius had left; and while Agapa and he had been disputing about the matter, for he had refused to admit her, Giuseppe had stolen upon him and he had been drugged and bound. They had then lured Pepita out, and she declared that both had remained at Breva's post.

The thing was plain reading enough now, and with my blood on fire, I swung off to have a reckoning with Giuseppe."

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 7.—Last night marked the finish of the local typographical union. A lively meeting called at the demand of some of the members resulted in a vote to dissolve the local and leave Santa Barbara without any union trying to run the newspapers and print shops.

Time was when there was no union here. Some years ago a few printers got together and organized. Then they started to show proprietors how to conduct newspapers. Naturally proprietors objected to such dictation, and last fall the Independent, an evening paper, after troubles with its compositors, locked out the whole crowd and hired men untrammeled by "cards" and "scales." The union decreed the "busting" of the Independent and attempts were made, it is alleged, to put the linotypes out of kelter. After harassing the paper for weeks the locked-out union men felt the pinch of being on the outside and the union felt the burden of paying "strike allowances."

These allowances recently were withdrawn, and the members who held jobs did not like the burden imposed upon them. The result was tonight's session. It was a stormy one, but in the end those who sought individual freedom out-voted the radicals, and now the union, not the Independent, is "busted." The proprietors of the various print shops must now get accustomed to the sensation of being allowed to manage their own business in their own way, without the dictation of walking, riding or autoing delegates.

HAYFEST CALLED OFF.

Union Boss Has Abandoned His Plan for "Business Men's Meeting" at Simpson's Tomorrow Night.

Union labor as embodied in Arthur Hay will not hold its great session for the illumination of the public mind at Simpson Auditorium tomorrow night, where "noted speakers will be present, who will show the causes of the present business depression of this city, and the remedy."

This scheme was one of the latest and likewise fondest hopes of the failing grafters to obtain a hearing. They mailed letters to business men throughout the city, worded in discreet and veiled fashion, and announced this meeting as a meeting for business men.

The Times exposed it, and the attention of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association was called to it; a letter sent out to members immediately explained the affair—and evidently to the satisfaction of the business men in question, as interest seems to have waned, and Hay's proselytism for the enlightenment of the city seems to have been abandoned.

Among other things that went wrong with the scheme of this minister of discontent, his list of speakers couldn't be arranged satisfactorily. Sam Gompers is at the moment busy hornswoggling the Democratic convention, and Father Yorke does not care to twinkle as an individual star.

EL PIZMO BEACH

The Opportunity You Have Been Waiting For.

Prices Should Double Within 90 Days.

Pizmo is not only the finest Beach on the Pacific Coast, but will positively be the Atlantic City of the West. This alone should make the purchaser of a Pizmo lot a fine investment.

STILL BETTER—Just stop to think how property will advance with the starting of wheels of the largest refinery on the Coast, the $2,000,000 plant of the California Petroleum Company, limited, located only two miles from Pizmo, which will employ about five hundred men. And Pizmo the railroad shipping point.

THEN AGAIN—Stop a moment and think how lots at Pizmo will advance when the new road from Santa Maria reaches Pizmo. It is finished over half way to Pizmo now. And still another road heading for Pizmo from Bakersfield. The completion of these two roads in connection with the coast line of the Southern Pacific will put Pizmo in connection with 250,000 local people from the valleys, who will flock to Pizmo for the summer, it being less than one-half the fare to other beaches.

WHY YOU SHOULD HURRY—There are remaining less than 200 lots of the original 1200, so you will have to hurry.

OUR MOTTO—Not a dissatisfied Lot Buyer.

Remember, we want you to see Pizmo, as we know you will join us in saying it is the grandest Beach in the country and a live place to buy a lot. There is always a market for Pizmo lots.

El Pizmo Beach—Where It Is and What It Is

El Pizmo Beach is situated on the coast line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

It is par excellence the grandest beach on the coast. No other such stretch of smooth, level beach is to be found anywhere, its only rival being the world-famed Ormond Beach in Florida, and those familiar with both have no hesitancy in giving the palm to El Pizmo.

Fancy a beach seventeen miles long and so wide that twenty massive racing automobiles may run abreast.

It is an established resort. Foreordained to be a success from its natural advantages, it is a success because live, energetic men of affairs have taken in hand the development of its natural beauties.

Profits Are Certain to All Who Buy El Pizmo Property

Think what you would be worth now had you bought a few lots at Atlantic City ten or twenty years ago! A city of a thousand hotels—some of them twice as large as a city block.

El Pizmo Beach is to be the Atlantic City of the West.

The amount of available beach suitable for surf bathing in safety is limited, indeed. El Pizmo Beach is the best of them all.

On the Coast Line of the Southern Pacific with two more railroads humping toward it and the new Tiber oil fields are within two miles of town. Many new buildings have gone up, and the town is now a permanency beyond a doubt.

Think of this fact: Not one purchaser of a lot at El Pizmo Beach has ever allowed his payments to lapse. Doesn't that speak volumes for their complete satisfaction?

And You'll Be Satisfied

We would like you to buy a lot with the intention of building a summer home; but, whether you buy with that intention or as an investment, we are positive you will be satisfied and will reap a rich profit.

Why You Should Buy Lots at El Pizmo Beach

No. 1. When making an investment, the most important part to investigate is the people in back of the proposition.

No. 2. Pizmo Beach is owned by Thos. S. Wadsworth, 320 Douglas Bldg. He also owns and runs the hotel and resort. Is also the owner outright of the water, electric light plants and all franchises; so when Mr. Wadsworth makes a statement, you can depend upon it that it is so. Remember, it's the owner handling his own property, and there are no agents to make false statements.

No. 3. The Southern Pacific Company has spent more than ten thousand dollars in grading and fixing up around the depot, and is doing all in its power to boost Pizmo.

No. 4. There are two railroads already surveyed from the San Joaquin Valley and Bakersfield to Pizmo. When these are completed property at Pizmo will sell for ten times the prices now.

No. 5. Pizmo being the nearest point to the Great Tiber oil fields will be eventually a great shipping point.

No. 6. The two-million-dollar plant of the California Petroleum Co., limited, is located about two miles from Pizmo, and is expected to open up within the next sixty days. This will give employment to at least five hundred men, who will bring in their families. This means a large amount of money to be spent in Pizmo, as Pizmo is the nearest station to this big plant.

BRAKES FAIL.

NARROW ESCAPES IN PASADENA.

AN ELECTRIC COACH RUNS WILD THROUGH CITY STREETS.

Second Happening of Kind in Year. Pedestrians and Passengers on Another Car in Danger—Board of Education Reorganizes — Tournament Association's Proposition.

Office of The Times, No. 38 S. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, July 8.—For the second time within a year a car ran wild through the business district yesterday, and was wrecked at California street. This happened shortly before 8 o'clock in the morning and many pedestrians had narrow escapes. At Bellevue Drive and Raymond avenue, the California street car was about to turn into Raymond avenue when the runaway rushed by.

Superintendent James B. Rowray said last night that the hand breaks on the car were not set tight enough and the air breaks giving out, the car started down the street before employes of the company could reach it. He declares that the coach at no time went faster than twelve or fourteen miles an hour.

EDUCATION BOARD ELECTS.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Education, last night, Benjamin E. Page was reelected president; Clarence E. Chamberlain, vice-president and Prof. E. B. Felker, secretary, Mr. Felker succeeding M. W. Davis, who resigned the office after three years services but who still remains a member of the board. The teachers were elected as nominated.

After carefully going over the budget, it was decided to ask for an amount slightly in excess of that of last year, when approximately $95,000 was demanded.

The bids on the Grant School were opened and as all were too high they were placed on file.

The petition from the Altadena Improvement Association, referring to the temporary addition to the present school building, was received and approved.

AGAIN ASK BOND ELECTION.

Presenting a modified proposition at the Council meeting, yesterday morning, the directors of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Association again asked the city to take charge of and improve Tournament Park in time for the great rose fete in January. The plan presented is to deed the entire property of the association to the city with the agreement that Pasadena shall spend at least $50,000 in improvements within the next six months, and allow the association exclusive use of the grounds for six weeks annually for the next ten years.

The Council referred the proposition to the City Attorney for an opinion to legal phases.

MINORS BARRED.

The ordinance which will bar all minors from pool and billiard rooms was presented to the Council and passed on first reading, yesterday. Councilman C. J. Crandall was the only member of the body to vote against it. Representatives of both the poolrooms and the churches were present.

BOOKS ARE POPULAR.

Statistics gleaned from the annual report of the Pasadena public library, submitted at the meeting of the directors yesterday by Miss Nellie M. Ruiz, librarian, show a remarkable increase in the circulation of books during the past year. A gain of 14,186 volumes over last year is recorded. The total circulation for the past year was 158,409 volumes, 72,109 of which were fiction, 34,281 juvenile, 26,607 general literature. The income of the library for the year through fines was $758.74. The total receipts amount to $1211.80, and the expenditures to $11,768.32. Of the latter amount, $6121.80 was for salaries.

ASK FUNDS FOR FOUNTAINS.

Pasadena Humane Society has three fountains on hand and cannot find suitable properties whereon to install them. It plans to erect one at the corner of Mentana street and Raymond avenue, one in the business district of Caesar avenue on the east side and one in Lamanda park. Although the travel at the points is great, there are few business people in the neighborhoods who can afford to aid the society in installing the fountains. For this reason the organization appeals to the general public for funds.

NEW VETERINARIAN.

Dr. W. A. Boucher, veterinarian for the Pasadena Humane Society, was appointed City Veterinarian today to succeed Dr. C. W. Barrett, resigned. He is expected to hire out of his own pocket any assistance he may need.

MASS MEETING TONIGHT.

It is intimated that there will be a general discussion of possible changes in the city charter at the mass meeting, tonight, in the Board of Trade rooms. C. C. Brown advocates the election of Councilmen by wards instead of at large.

FIRE ENDANGERS PROPERTY.

Beautiful Devil's Gate and property on the west bank of the Arroyo Seco near Linda Vista was threatened with destruction yesterday morning by a fire which started near the city dump. Mayor Earley ordered Fire Chief H. H. Clifford and a detachment of men to go to the scene and render assistance. Between forty and fifty persons were required to extinguish the blaze.

HOTTEST DAY OF SEASON.

Yesterday was the warmest day so far this summer, according to the record kept by Edwin L. Sorver of South Madison avenue, who reports the maximum temperature for the day as 96 deg. This was at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. At 7:30 o'clock last night the thermometer registered 79 deg.

Sergt. Lillie had as full a record of service as was possible in the Civil War. Responding to the first call for three months troops, he enlisted on April 22, 1861 in Company E, Seventh Pennsylvania Cavalry, and was discharged on August 5, 1861. On August 17 of that year, he enlisted in Company G, Third Pennsylvania Cavalry; re-enlisting in Company I, One Hundred and Second Pennsylvania Infantry, and was finally discharged on June 28, 1865. PROMINENT MEN LECTURE.

Large Increase in Attendance at Second Day's Chautauqua Sessions at Venice—Coming Lectures.

VENICE, July 7.—There was an increased attendance at the second day's sessions of the Chautauqua. In the morning, John H. Francis lectured on "The Ideal Educator." In the afternoon, Eugene B. Lewis read an original poem that had been written for the occasion by Shelley Sutton, and Dr. John R. Straton lectured on "The South in Song."

After remarking that he had lectured to more than one hundred Chautauquas in America, but had never seen as fine, well-balanced and elaborate a programme as the Venice one, Dr. Straton proceeded with an address that was full of humor. He eloquently described southern life, its writers, its social and political characteristics and its notable men and women. Illustrative of its melodies, Mrs. Abbot Kinney sang the familiar songs, "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Dixie."

In the evening, Prof. Augustus T. Murray, professor of Greek in Stanford University, gave an illustrated lecture on Greece. He stated that its scenery and climate are not unlike that of California. The country was not, anciently known as Greece, but as Hellas, and its people were Hellenes. The whole civilized world was subject to Greek influences, and was at one time surrounded by a "fringe of Greek cities."

The subject of Prof. Murray's lecture this morning is "Homer and the Homeric Myths and Heroes."

In the afternoon, Capt. Amos A. Fries, U.S.A., will speak of the military and naval defenses of the Pacific Coast.

Director W. W. Campbell of the Lick Observatory, will give the result of his spectroscopic researches in determining "The Sun's Way Among the Stars."

POSSIBILITIES AT SAN DIMAS.

SAN DIMAS, July 7.—John W. Mason has sold a ten-acre orange grove on Bonita avenue to Charles Boulier of Pomona. The stated consideration is $12,000.

Mason bought this property, unimproved, six years ago for $1000. He built a home on it for less than $1000, and then leased the land to R. M. Teague, the proprietor of one of the largest citrus nurseries in the world, who furnished and planted orange trees and cared for them. Mason's only expenditure in four years was $386 for irrigation.

Teague raised on the space between the trees, 50,000 nursery trees, which he sold at an average of 50 cents apiece. Since 1906 the proceeds from the crops have more than paid for the care of the orchard and support of the family.

INSTITUTE ADDRESSES.

SANTA MONICA, July 7.—At the Catholic Institute for Teaching Sisters, in session at Columbia Hall, the morning lecture, today, was by Rev. R. J. Cotter of Hollywood, who spoke on "The History of Education and Its Lessons." The subject of a talk by Miss Elizabeth Sullivan was "School Gardening." Miss Osden of the Los Angeles Normal School spoke in the afternoon, on "Methods in Reading," and Homer B. Sprague lectured on "Hamlet."

Tomorrow morning Miss Osden will continue her discussion of "Reading Methods," and Rev. Mr. Cotter will lecture on the "Growth of the Child Mind." In the afternoon, Miss Sullivan will speak on "Civics" and Prof. Sprague will explain "Shakespeare's Greatest Character—A Woman."

HIGH HOPES.

GIFT OF FEDERAL BUILDING MAY BE MADE BY CONGRESS.

Citizens Told That Hundred and Twenty-five-Thousand-Dollar Item Will Be Included in Appropriation Bill in December—New Electric Line Probable.

LONG BEACH, July 7.—To several prominent citizens who were in Los Angeles today, Congressman McLachlan stated that the next appropriation bill to be presented at the December session of Congress would contain a provision for a Federal building at Long Beach, to cost $125,000. This city has made wonderful strides in the past five years, jumping from a fourth-class postoffice to Class A with receipts the past year of over $45,000. In sixty months, the receipts showed a constant increase except for one month, March of this year. The early opening to commerce of the inland harbor will necessitate the presence here of a deputy customs inspector.

NEW LINE PROBABLE.

The application of the Pacific Electric for a franchise at Wilmington indicates the early completion of the branch line from this city across the flats to Wilmington to form a direct connection with that city and San Pedro. The concession for this line from the Dominguez Investment Company expires on August 1 and this is an extension on the original grant which expired December 31, 1907. It consists of a private right of way, one and a third miles long and sixty feet wide, allowing plenty of room for a double track system. Under the terms of the grant the line must be completed by August 1 in order to secure deeds to the property.

Wesley Powell, a lineman in the employ of the Edison Electric Company, fell from a repair wagon, today, and striking on his head, was unconscious for an hour. He has a dislocated left shoulder, but is not thought to be dangerously injured.

Members of the Board of Education held a competitive examination of plans for a ten-room school building at Burnett, which must be built and furnished under guaranties for $25,000. The board finally rejected all plans except those of E. R. Creeth, Metcalf and Lochridge and N. E. Marsh of Los Angeles.

PAYS ALL CLAIMS.

Herbert E. Nixon, brought from Oakland to answer to a charge of embezzlement, was today released from custody, having made complete settlement of the shortage and also paid several other claims on which prosecution was threatened.

Fred Cutter and his wife, Helen McSorley Cutter, both well known theatrical people, this morning lost by death, their son, born yesterday. Mrs. Cutter is critically ill and the husband did not appear tonight in the programme at Byde-a-Wyle, where he is filling an engagement.

PICTURE ARGUMENT.

Arthur Kenniston, local delegate to the Elks' convention, will take to Dallas, a double picture of Long Beach, showing the beach panorama and the business part of the city. The photograph is 3x7 feet and will prove a strong argument in securing the 1909 convention to Los Angeles.

On July 18, an amateur swimming and diving tournament will be held at the bath-house under the direction of Manager Archer. The programme will include a 50-yard dash for men; 100-yard dash for boys, longest dive under water, 50-yard dash for girls and prize for carrying heaviest sack of sand across the plunge.

WHO STOLE CHICKENS?

Constable Cason is investigating the theft of white Leghorn chickens from M. Ramoth at Ninth and Alamitos. A clue that is being followed is the discovery under the coop of a bill of sale given to a local contractor under date of yesterday by a local hardware firm. The contractor in question lives about two miles from the looted hennery.

Thursday, the launch J. C. Elliott will begin daily trips to Catalina. A cut rate war and 50-cent trips are not unlikely.

NOVEL AUTO TRIP.

C. J. Daugherty, wife and son and E. A. Eastman and wife leave Thursday for an auto trip through the State. It will be a novel one, the tourists sleeping in their auto, and carrying gas stoves and tables. The front seat backs have been hinged so they can be lowered fitting the space between the front and rear seats, and upon these will be placed pneumatic mattresses for sleeping purposes.

SEWER SYSTEM PROJECTED.

Monrovia May Spend Fifty Thousand on It—Some Water Users Accused of Theft.

MONROVIA, July 7.—Upon recommendation of the joint Committee of the Council, Board of Trade and Board of Health, Olmstead and Gillenan of Los Angeles have been engaged by the city to prepare plans for a sewer system to cost $50,000. Last voters should prefer to meet the expense of construction by two or more bond issues, the plans will provide for sections of the system. Public sentiment apparently favors a single issue.

There is consternation in the ranks of water consumers who have been "beating the meter" and breaking the city and State statutes. In a voluminous and carefully-prepared report to the Council, Superintendent Dougherty pointed out abuses which have existed for years. Some consumers had been found to be using almost the entire flow of two-inch lateral mains without payment. Meters have been cut around and purposely blockaded, it is alleged.

Under the State law persons resorting to such measures can be prosecuted for theft. A long list of alleged offenders was given. After some debate, the Council decided to defer prosecution. It was pointed out that the city's inability to act authoritatively during the five years that private water rights were merging, through forfeiture, into municipal property, was largely accountable for prevailing conditions.

GRANITE CLUB PLANS.

The Granite Club, which recently incorporated, is having plans drawn for a home in one of the business blocks soon to be erected. A committee was appointed to confer with W. H. Evans, who is preparing to build a three-story structure. If a lease can be obtained the club is willing to sign for a period of years and invest a handsome sum in furnishings and fixtures. Among the 125 members of the club are included the major portion of the business men of the city.

SUICIDE, PERHAPS.

At 7 o'clock tonight, the body of a man was found at the old power house, a mile and a half north of the city, and officers think that he took his own life, although the method has not yet been ascertained. Every mark which could serve as a means of identification had been carefully removed. Two partly emptied bottles were in the coat pockets. The liquids will be analyzed. The man was in gray suit of nice material, a white vest with stripes, a blue and white shirt, low shoes and a straw hat. He was of middle age and smooth shaven and the back of his head was bald. All the teeth on the left side of the upper jaw were missing.

Pine Knots Macerated In Whiskey

The shavings of a pine knot macerated or soaked in whisky is the remedy of the old mountaineer and backwoodsman for rheumatism and pain in the joints and limbs. From time immemorial the medicinal properties of pine have been valued highly. Whenever possible, physicians recommend that consumptive patients camp out in the pine forests, where, awake or asleep, they must constantly inhale the pine-laden atmosphere, bathing the lungs with the healing, health-giving and invigorating air.

It is unfortunate that there are so few whose circumstances and surroundings in life permit them to leave home and work to live in the open. Those who must stay at home will find in Virgin Oil of Pine all the therapeutic virtues for which the pines are famous. This preparation is carefully compounded from the active principles of forest trees and retains all the healing properties of the tree itself.

A half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine mixed with two ounces of glycerine and a half pint of good whisky will break up a cold quickly and cure any cough that is curable. Take a teaspoonful every four hours. The genuine Virgin Oil of Pine is put up only in half-ounce vials for druggists to dispense. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case. Be sure to get the genuine—Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, guaranteed under Serial No. 451 prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O.

The Swine and the Flower

Oh me! I saw a huge and loathsome sty,
Wherein a drove of wallowing swine were barred,
Whose banquet shocked the nostril and the eye;
Then spoke a voice, "Behold the source of lard!"
I fled, and saw a field that seemed at first
One glistening mass of roses pure and white,
With dewy buds 'mid dark green foliage nursed;
And, as I lingered o'er the lovely sight,
The summer breeze, that cooled that Southern scene,
Whispered, "Behold the source of COTTOLENE!"

Carl Schurz
Major General U. S. A.

NO living man ever had a more extraordinary, eventful and romantic career than this bold and brilliant student of Bonn, who began life as a German Revolutionist and ended it as an American leader.

His famous and dashing exploit, the rescue of Kinkel (hero of Rastadt), has been immortalized by Spielhagen, in a thrilling drama of marvelous beauty and exquisite charm.*

No more ardent advocate of "Personal Liberty" ever breathed than this eloquent and valiant lieutenant of Abraham Lincoln, who fought to the very last (with tongue, sword and pen) and died; at three score years and seventeen, bearing with conscious dignity, the threefold honors of Prussian patriot, Independent statesman, and Union general.

From youth to old age the delicious and wholesome juices of the malt put iron into his blood, giving life and force and power to all his thoughts and doings.

CHURCH AND STOCK.

ACCUSED OF TELLING UNTRUTHS IN BUSINESS DEAL.

RIVERSIDE, July 7.—The trial of the somewhat sensational suit brought by Dr. F. K. Strasser of San Jacinto against Rev. E. J. Bulgin, the evangelist, for the recovery of a twenty-acre ranch, which the doctor deeded to the minister, through alleged misrepresentations on the part of the latter, has begun before Judge Densmore in the Superior Court. A year and a half ago, relying upon the statements of Rev. Mr. Bulgin, Dr. Strasser says he exchanged his San Jacinto ranch for 10,000 shares of stock owned by the minister in the Kelso Mining and Milling Company. It is now alleged that this stock is worthless, and suit is brought to have the deed set aside.

On the witness stand today, Dr. Strasser testified that Dr. Bulgin had misrepresented the assay value of ore, the amount of stock held by the directors of the company, the contract between the Kelso Mining and Milling Company and the allied organization, the West Coast Securities Company, and various other matters relating to the management of the company.

He also asserted that the minister had represented to him that the five directors of the company, of which he was one, held only 20,000 shares of its capital stock each; that the mining property was free from debt, with the exception of $600, which was to be paid in cash, and $7500 to be paid in stock; that the mines had been efficiently managed, and that there were hundreds of tons of ore in sight, averaging $18 a ton, all of which is declared untrue.

The witness said that each of the directors held 110,000 shares in the Kelso company and 20,000 shares in the West Coast Securities Company; that the actual indebtedness was about $23,000; that the affairs had not been efficiently managed, and that the ore was not as rich as represented.

He further said that the West Coast Securities Company promoted the Kelso company, and was given 50 per cent of the proceeds from the sale of stock. Dr. Bulgin had represented to him that the West Coast Securities Company was to receive nothing for promoting the Kelso company until the latter was on a paying basis.

Mrs. Strasser's testimony corroborated that of her husband. She told of the implicit confidence she had in the statements of Dr. Bulgin at the time the transfer was made, and said that the evangelist was conducting meetings in San Jacinto at the time the proposition was urged by him, and believed in his integrity. She added that Dr. Bulgin had assured her that every one of the directors of the company was a Christian man except one, and he was under deep conviction. Relying upon these statements she consented to the transfer of the ranch.

Collier & Carnahan of Riverside represent Dr. Strasser, and Lamar Harris of Los Angeles, and P. N. Myers of Pasadena, the evangelist. The case is being tried without a jury, and will probably consume two or three days.

LINK WITH LOS ANGELES.

The preliminary step in what will probably result in the beginning of the work of building the last link in a valley line from Riverside to Los Angeles was taken last night, when the City Council agreed upon the provisions of a franchise from Fairmount Park to the city limits, near Corona, for a single or double track street-car line. H. E. Huntington was represented at the meeting by Manager Frank A. Miller of the Riverside and Redlands Railway and by W. E. Dunn of Los Angeles, general counsel for the Pacific Electric system.

The Council ordered the publication of the franchise for thirty days. It is understood that this will be incorporated into an ordinance, if acceptable to Mr. Huntington, and that the construction of the road will be begun shortly after.

The new franchise gives the road the privilege of carrying express and freight under certain restrictions, the latter clause limiting business to be conducted to the hours between 10 o'clock in the evening and 6 o'clock in the morning. The 5-cent fare limit extends from the city limits on the north to Madison street, and the 10-cent limit includes the whole city of Riverside, a distance of fifteen miles. After a period of five years the street railway is required to pay 2 per cent of its gross receipts into the city treasury.

The new franchise is to supersede the present franchise, under which the Huntington interests already operate an electric line from Riverside to Arlington, a distance of seven miles.

JAPANESE WEDDING.

A conventional American fashion, Fuye Gato, the daughter of K. Gato, became the bride of Well Masa this morning, at twilight at the Japanese Methodist Mission on Fifth and Mulberry streets. The bride was dressed in white, and carried white flowers. The Rev. S. Fujii, pastor of the mission, performed the ceremony, in the presence of a number of Americans as well as Japanese friends of the young people. EVANGELIST IN QUEER POSITION.

ACCUSED OF TELLING UNTRUTHS IN BUSINESS DEAL.

RIVERSIDE, July 7.—The trial of the somewhat sensational suit brought by Dr. F. K. Strasser of San Jacinto against Rev. E. J. Bulgin, the evangelist, for the recovery of a twenty-acre ranch, which the doctor deeded to the minister, through alleged misrepresentations on the part of the latter, was begun before Judge Densmore in the Superior Court. A year and a half ago, relying upon the statements of Rev. Mr. Bulgin, Dr. Strasser says he exchanged his San Jacinto ranch for 1000 shares of stock owned by the minister in the Kelso Mining and Milling Company. It is now alleged that the stock is worthless, and suit is brought to have the deed set aside.

On the witness stand today, Dr. Strasser testified that Dr. Bulgin had represented the assay value of ore, in the matter of stock held by the directors of the company, the contract between the Kelso Mining and Milling Company and the allied organization, the West Coast Securities Company, and various other matters relating to the management of the company.

He also asserted that the minister had represented to him that the five directors of the company, of which he was one, held only 20,000 shares of its capital stock each; that the mining property was free from debt, with the exception of $4000, which was to be paid in cash, and $7500 to be paid in stock; that the mines had been efficiently managed, and that there were thousands of tons of ore in sight, averaging $8 a ton, all of which is described by Strasser.

The witness said that each of the directors held 150,000 shares in the Kelso company and 20,000 shares in the West Coast Securities Company; that the personal indebtedness was about $23,000; that the affairs had not been efficiently managed, and that the ore was not such as represented.

He further said that the West Coast Securities Company promoted the Kelso company, and was given 50 per cent. of the proceeds from the sale of stock. He says Dr. Bulgin had represented to him that the West Coast Securities company was to receive nothing for promoting the Kelso company until the latter was on a paying basis.

Dr. Strasser's testimony corroborated that of her husband. She told of her implicit confidence she had in the statements of Dr. Bulgin at the time the transfer was made, and said that the evangelist was conducting meetings in San Jacinto at the time the proposition was urged by him, and she believed in his integrity. She added that Dr. Bulgin had assured her that every one of the directors of the company was a Christian man except one, and he was under deep conviction. Relying upon these statements she consented to the transfer of the ranch.

Attorney A. Campsman of Riverside represents Dr. Strasser, and Lamar Harris of Los Angeles, and P. N. Myers of Ontario, the evangelist. The case is being tried without a jury, and will probably consume two or three days.

LINK WITH LOS ANGELES.

The preliminary step in what will probably result in the beginning of the work of building the last link in a railway line from Riverside to Los Angeles was taken last night, when the City Council agreed upon the provisions of a franchise from Fairmount Park to the city limits, near Corona, for a single or double track street-car line. H. E. Huntington was represented at the meeting by Manager Scott A. Miller of the Riverside and Redlands Railway and by W. E. Dunn of Los Angeles, general counsel for the Pacific Electric system.

The Council ordered the publication of the franchise for thirty days. It is understood that this will be incorporated into an ordinance, if acceptable to Mr. Huntington, and that the construction of the road will be begun shortly after.

The new franchise gives the road the privilege of carrying express and freight under certain restrictions, the freight-carrying business to be confined to the hours between 10 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock in the morning. The 5-cent fare limit extends from the city limits on the north to Madison street, and the 10-cent limit includes the whole city of Riverside, a distance of seven miles. After a period of five years the street railway is required to pay 1 per cent. of its gross receipts into the city treasury.

The franchise is to supersede the present franchise, under which the Pacific Electric interests already operate an electric line from Riverside to Arlington, a distance of seven miles.

JAPANESE WEDDING.

In conventional American fashion, Miss Gato, the daughter of K. Gato, was married to the bride of Well Masa this evening at twilight at the Japanese Methodist Mission on Fifth and Mulberry streets. The bride was dressed in white and carried white flowers. Rev. Fujii, pastor of the mission, performed the ceremony, in the presence of a number of Americans as well as Japanese friends of the young people. A reception at Fairmount Park and an elaborate supper followed.

SANTA BARBARA SUPERVISORS MAY BE SUED.

Trouble Arises Over Contract for County Supplies—Two Bids in on Time—Third, Which Is Lowest, Arrives Late, but Is Accepted Despite Protests.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] What some allege to be an error of judgment on the part of the Supervisors in the opening of bids for county supplies, yesterday, is raising a lively row today.

There were three bids for groceries. They were to have been received by 10 o'clock. At that hour two were in hand. When one of these had been read and the other half-read, the third bidder appeared, and entered his proposal. The Assistant District Attorney, counsel for the board, advised it to accept the bid as legal, in the face of protests from the other bidders.

The belated bid was the lowest and the firm got the contract. Now there are threats of injunctions.

Wealthy Venturan Further Shows Devotion to Catholic Church. Saloons Surrender.

VENTURA, July 7.—Juan Camarillo of Camarillo, the wealthy land owner who recently made the Catholic church a gift of a fine house and lot in this city, to be used for school purposes, will build a $25,000 chapel on his ranch, near Somis, for the use of those who reside in that section and who now worship in a hall at Somis. There will also be erected a mortuary chapel, in which will repose the remains of Mr. Camarillo's mother and father, now resting in the cemetery at this place.

SALOONS GIVE UP FIGHT.

At the meeting of the Trustees, last evening, one of the prominent liquor dealers appeared and withdrew his application for a license, which had been refused at a previous meeting of the board. This is taken to mean that the saloons will cease their fight to keep open. There has been no business done by any of them since the first of the month.

The Trustees have agreed to advertise for sale the franchise for a street railway asked for by F. M. Packard and other Los Angeles men.

TEACHERS APPOINTED.

DASTARDLY ACTS OF FIRE FIEND.

ATTEMPT TO DESTROY WHOLE TOWN OF BARSTOW.

Citizens Given Warning by Pistol Shots, Shrieking of Whistles and Clamor of Bells—Blazes Discovered at Many Points—Fight Over Arrowhead Hotel Property Ended.

SAN BERNARDINO, July 6.—The Sheriff's office has received a report from Barstow detailing a most sensational attempt last night to destroy the town by fire. Only the timely discovery of numerous fires set at various points throughout the business section prevented the success of the unusual plot.

To George Egan the community is indebted for its existence today. At 3 o'clock this morning he, becoming annoyed at the brilliance of a porch light in front of his rooming house, arose to put it out, and discovered smoke and flames curling from beneath his steps. A garden hose quickly extinguished this blaze, but fires at other parts of town were discovered by Egan and he began to discharge his pistol to arouse the people.

Within a few moments the entire town was awakened. The pistol shots were followed by the blowing of locomotive whistles and clanging of bells. No less than eight fires were discovered, the most dangerous being on a porch in the rear of the Shepherd & Wakefield saloon, where several sacks, wrapped about a tank of gasoline, had been ignited. The flames were curling up over the tank when discovered and several citizens placed themselves in great danger to tear away the sacks.

Another fire was in the rear of Sloan & Hart's saloon.

Suspicion pointed to a stranger, who, last night, while intoxicated, got into a "mix-up" with Justice of the Peace C. L. Currier, who also had been imbibing, it is alleged. Currier was taken home and the stranger ordered to leave.

It is said that the justice was arrested recently for drunkenness and thrown into jail and that Constable Stuchberry released him.

The indignation of the town is divided between the work of the fire fiend and the alleged conduct of the justice. An effort to have the latter removed from office is under way.

COUNCIL'S ACTS.

At the meeting of the Council last night the City Engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for the street improvements, bridges and crosswalks for which a bond issue was recently voted. The Council adopted a resolution to open F street from Base Line north; accepted a drinking fountain placed in Meadowbrook Park by Col. W. L. Vestal; referred to the Street Committee the protest made by Seventh-street property holders against curbing and sidewalking to official grade, because of the distinction which will be caused to the shade trees; favorably considered the proposition to build a sample block of oil macadam pavement on some street already macadamized, and received the annual report of the Board of Water Commissioners, which shows, among other things, a balance of $13,727.79 on hand in the water fund on June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

AWFUL SUFFERING.

A party searching for the remains of Oscar Wilcox, nearly perished from heat and thirst, Friday morning, after hours of awful suffering. Headed by Paul Harris they had gotten into a gorge and separated. Losing their way, none was able to find his way back to the tank wagon, which carried the supply of water. Harris was first found by a miner named Engelke, who was attracted by the man's wild shouting. Harris told the miner of his fellow sufferers, and tying Harris to a wagon, Engelke set out after the others, finding them all.

The county assessment of the year 1908 has taken a jump of $2,633,094. If the railroad assessment remains the same as last year, the total for the county will be $33,043,770.

SEARCH FOR SKELETONS.

A search for human skeletons is being made in the vicinity of the Dry Lake pumping plant of the Salt Lake Railroad, owing to the suspicion that Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Scott, former station keepers, who are now in jail at Las Vegas charged with murder, have been accustomed to shoot men who tried to get water at the station.

BITTER FIGHT OVER.

The bitter fight for control of the majority of the stock of the Arrowhead Hotel has been won by Seth Marshall, president of the board of directors, a heavy stockholder and a representative of eastern interests.

The opposition, the leaders of which are E. D. Roberts, A. C. Denman, Jr., W. B. Brookings and Victor C. Smith, secured enough proxies recently to control the election at the annual meeting next October and it was their avowed intention to oust Marshall.

But Marshall heard of the combination and blocked the game by buying outright the holdings of A. G. Hubbard of Redlands. What the price was has not been made public. As soon as this coup, which gives Marshall control of the stock, was completed a majority of it was pooled with the California Holding Company of San Bernardino for five years, which means the control by Marshall for at least that period.

The opposition had attempted to get H. E. Huntington interested in the effort to control the stock of the hotel company and it was in this way that the story became circulated that Mr. Huntington intended to become the purchaser of this well known hostelry.

SCHOOL BONDS SOLD.

The Supervisors, this morning, sold to M. V. Harris of Los Angeles, school bonds of the Ontario School district to the amount of $85,000, for a premium of $2150. Under the agreement Harris secures the contract to print the bonds, charging the sum of $50.

READY FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

San Diego Will Spend Fifteen Thousand—Silk Factory to Be Built. Boy Loses Leg.

SAN DIEGO, July 7.—The city will spend $15,353.04 in the improvement of the water system, the money now being available from the sale of the last block of bonds. The Board of Public Works is authorized to advertise for bids for the proposed improvements, which will include an entirely new pipe line in the University Heights section of the city. The largest item of the appropriation is $3708.96 for 5100 feet of 8-inch, 725 feet of 6-inch and 982 feet of 4-inch pipe, to be laid on Park boulevard from Adams to Robinson street.

On Mead avenue, from Park boulevard to Maryland street, there will be laid 1520 feet of 6-inch pipe and 110 feet of 4-inch pipe at a cost not to exceed $1820.45. On Madison avenue, from Garfield to Park boulevard, 3700 feet of 6-inch and 773 feet of 4-inch pipe will be laid at an estimated cost of $4823.61.

WILL MAKE SILK.

A factory, to be operated by the Southern California Silk Company, will be erected at once. Plans for the structure have been completed by Architect Henry Lord Gay, and call for a two-story building, 40x50 feet. The site, in Mission Cliff Park, has been donated. The latest improved reels are to be imported from Japan. These have been ordered and will be here by the time the building is ready for occupancy.

NEW QUARTERS.

At the annual meeting of the Cabrillo Club it was decided to lease the entire eighth floor of the new Timkin building at Sixth and E streets, when it is completed. The club elected these directors: J. R. Beardsley, A. G. Little, F. R. Hart, H. C. Gordon, C. C. Jewett, E. C. Thorp and R. A. Wood. The membership numbers 270.

AMPUTATE BOY'S LEG.

Physicians amputated the left leg of Charles Desmond, a fifteen-year-old boy who was accidentally shot in the knee while hunting Sunday afternoon. Robinson and a boy named Murphy were together when the latter dropped a shotgun which was discharged and the charge shattered Desmond's knee.

CONTINUES BURK'S TRIAL.

William Burk, who shot and killed his wife on Thursday last, was arraigned in the justice court this morning and, through his attorney, asked for further time in which to plead. A continuance was granted until Friday. Officers say they have discovered that Burk and Mrs. Morse were married in Los Angeles nearly four years ago and that the man has another wife and three children living in Canada.

FALL BREAKS NECK.

John J. McFee last night fell down the stairway of a rooming-house and his neck was broken. He was 71 years old and had been drinking, it is said. Upon trying to reach his apartments, he lost his hold on the bannister. McFee was one of the old-time Colorado miners and at one time was wealthy.

PREPARES FOR ACTION.

Good Roads Association Issues Folders Urging Land Owners to Pledge Voters for Bonds.

The Good Roads Association has issued an excellent little cardboard folder, with spaces for twenty-five names and a request that the recipient secure the names of twenty-five persons, who will agree to vote for good roads on the 30th inst.

These folders will be sent throughout the county, and each man who receives one is supposed to see that the men whose names he secures are on hand at the polls on voting day.

At the good roads boosting meeting at Conaty Hall in East Los Angeles tonight, Gesner Williams will make the principal address. The plans of the Highway Commission will be explained and the advantages accruing from a system of fine highways will be expounded.

Friday evening at 8 o'clock there will be a large meeting in Hoegee's Hall, East Hollywood. The meeting will be under the auspices of the East Hollywood Improvement Association, and the speakers will be provided by the Campaign Committee.

There is every prospect that Saturday morning's good roads convention, to be held at Blanchard Hall, will be a large affair. It is anticipated that more than 500 persons will be in attendance, and the goods roads campaign will be launched under conditions which the members of the Campaign Committee feel certain will insure success.

Five members of one family were drowned in the Nemaha River, near Unadilla, Neb., Monday. The dead are John Doyle, Mrs. John Doyle, and their three young children. A cloudburst swept their house into the river.

KIDNAPED BOY TELLS A TALE.

RUNS AWAY AND IS MAROONED IN AVALON HUT.

Young Fields Says He Did Not Know That He Was Stolen, But Was Lured Away by Ross to Be a Sailor—Police Investigating Story of Rescued Youngster.

After being held a prisoner in San Pedro for two weeks, Arthur Fields, aged 14 years, of No. 1409 South Hope street, was released yesterday by his captors, he declares, when they heard of the arrest of Charles E. Ross, who is accused of being the ringleader of the kidnapers. Young Fields gave the police a description of the two men who, he says, were in the alleged plot with Ross to hold him until ransom was paid. An effort is being made by the police at Long Beach and San Pedro to find the men.

The lad left home June 22 without his parents' knowledge, and intended to go to San Francisco to enlist in the navy. He did not have enough money to pay his fare, so he applied to the captains of several vessels to allow him to work his passage.

"I met Ross the third day I was in San Pedro," young Fields said last night. "He promised to take me to San Francisco when I told him what my intentions were. I worked in his launch for several days, and then I asked him when he intended to leave for San Francisco. He kept putting me off, and refused to allow me to go ashore. I made a trip to Santa Catalina with Ross.

"Then he rented his launch for a few days, and I was taken ashore and kept under the eyes of a guard night and day. I was placed in a hut in a lumber yard not far from the wharf, and my meals were carried to me by an old man. I was treated all right by the men, but I know nothing of the anonymous letter sent to my father making an offer to release me.

"The men who were guarding me said that they intended to take me to San Francisco as a stowaway. This, they said, was the reason why they were keeping me under guard so that nobody could see me.

"I thought there was something suspicious about the affair, and wanted to write to my parents. I intended to send my mother a letter as soon as I reached San Francisco, and tell her where I was."

A. J. Fields, the boy's father, believes that Ross and his alleged gang intended to hold his son until they secured their price. Ross, who was taken to the City Jail yesterday, declares that he knew nothing of the lad's whereabouts. He says that he saw Fields once or twice, and that he asked him for work. Ross denies that he made a proposition to Fields's father to tell him where the boy was or that he sent the anonymous letter.

Ross, who escaped from the City Jail last July before he completed his ninety days' sentence for beating his wife, will now be compelled to serve the remainder. Meantime the police will investigate the story told by young Fields before Ross is arraigned on the charge of kidnaping.

You Can Pay Me When I Have Cured You

My Cures Are Prompt and Permanent

There is no longer any reason for you to suffer another day. My services are at your disposal and at a nominal fee, and rest assured that if I undertake the treatment of your case I WILL CURE YOU. I have perfected a method of treatment that reaches THE VERY CENTER of the disease and that assists Nature to overcome all inflamed or congested conditions and DRIVES OUT of the system ALL THE POISONS OF DISEASE.

My methods are entirely of my own devising and are the results of over twenty years of special medical practice. They are thorough, and every cure I effect is therefore PERMANENT.

I might selfishly limit my practice to men of means only, and thus charge big fees for my services, but I want EVERY MAN AFFLICTED WITH DISEASE to benefit by my discoveries for the cure of men's ailments. I have therefore made my professional charges as low as possible. Any man, whatever his circumstances, whether wage-earner or millionaire, may easily avail himself of my skill.

What "Weakness" Really Is

"Weakness" in all its phases and in practically every case that comes to me for treatment is merely a symptom resulting from a state of chronic inflammation in the prostate gland. This inflammation may be a lingering result of some contracted disease. In by far the greater number of cases the general health of the patient is perfect, there being no lack of either physical or nervous energy. My treatment is a local one entirely.

I Cure All the Diseases of Men, such as Varicocele, Hydrocele, Piles and Reflex Ailments.

Consult Me First

Even though your case may be one that some other doctor is able to cure, and though his cure may be absolutely thorough and permanent, there is yet good cause for your coming to me for treatment. The service I render is entirely unlike and better than the ordinary. I have devised new and scientific methods of treating men's diseases in all their phases. I cure cases that others cannot cure, and cases that others can cure I cure in less time and without pain or possibility of injury. All my forms of treatment have been perfected along the lines of Nature's requirements, and are in exact harmony with the natural recuperative forces. Therefore, my cures are painless, prompt and thorough.

The Only Cure For Weakness

It is a well-known fact that Dr. Harrison & Co. are the only specialists on the Coast curing all forms of weakness with celerity and certainty. Theory and practice are different propositions. Only the legitimate specialist, with a wide experience and expert knowledge, gained by many years of hard study and research, can effect the cure. Sixteen years of eminently successful practice, right here in Los Angeles, is our best recommendation.

We will cheerfully pay One Thousand Dollars to any physician or layman who can produce a case of weakness occuring in any man of good habits under the age of 65, not complicated by any organic disease of the heart, liver or kidneys, or by the sequelae of chronic disease, that we cannot completely cure in from four to six weeks by our new and improved method of local treatment. The local treatment is entirely painless and does not involve the use of "installations, suppositories," etc. We will effect the cure without prescribing a singe drop of medicine and without using a single pill, tablet or granule.

THE MARKETS.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Strength that has been lacking in the cantaloupe market for some time past became apparent yesterday morning. As a result, there were slight advances in the price. One reason for increased value was the higher grading which dealers have been demanding, in order to keep their melons from burning in some localities, many of the cantaloupe growers picked the fruit while very green, and it would not ripen en route or in storage. This hurt the trade all around and was one of the reasons for the recent disastrous conditions. Watermelons are in small demand, comparatively, and in order to move them prices are selling at $15 per ton.

Egg receipts were light cases, and in this view, prices were exceedingly firm, and an advance was looked for in some directions, but was not realized, awaiting larger arrivals to-day as well as on account of the good supply of eastern stock on hand. Twenty cases of case-counts were all the sales recorded.

With slow demand, offerings of butter were limited. Creamery firsts and cooking were the best sellers. Receipts were only 26,708 pounds. Northern fresh cheese continues to sell at 14 cents a pound despite predictions to the contrary. There is a large quantity of this particular cheese on hand, and receipts are always good. It was the only variety which received any attention on "change yesterday. Total arrivals of all kinds were 56,000 pounds.

Potato arrivals were marked at 1234 sacks. This amount is considerably above the average and is due chiefly to the hold-over of two cars which were to be shipped direct from Burbank to southern points. Some extra fancy stock from Hemet was in demand, and 150 packs were sold on 'change and fractionally higher than the ordinary offerings.

The onion demand was better than usual and good sales were reported on the street. On call, 35 sacks were traded out of Bermudas and there were fair offerings. White is weaker; Silverskins as they are more commonly known, were selling well at 65 cents per lug box. Receipts were but 19 sacks.

Scattered offerings of beans were the rule. Pinks, Lady Washingtons and small whites were all put up without selling, and there was an indication of weakness in prices. But 16 sacks were received.

Eggplant was lower, selling at 8 cents a pound. Crooked-neck squash were worth but 40 cents a box. Summer squash moved slowly at 15 cents. Little demand for lettuce was apparent. Cabbage also moved slowly. Bunch goods were in fair demand, particularly beets and radishes. Artichokes are still selling at 60 cents per dozen.

Siberian crabapples were plentiful and sold from $1 to $1.25 per lug box. Receipts of 322 boxes of other apples were recorded. There were few changes in other deciduous fruits. Royal Anne cherries from San Jose brought 10 cents a pound. Early Hale peaches sold at 50 cents while McKevitts averaged scarcely $1 per box. Plums of many different varieties were stationary in values.

There was a sharp advance in the value of pork. This meat has been fluctuating back and forth for some time past, but yesterday the market jumped an average of 2½ cents in all vasieties on the smoked and cured pork. Lard also went fractionally higher. Beef was steady, while live-stock quotations were unchanged.

PRICES HIGHER ON MINES.

Demand for Goldfield Leaders Holds Up Quotations, Although Sales Are Light.

Trading in the mining stocks listed on the Los Angeles-Nevada Exchange was of small volume yesterday. Prices held up fairly well, as holders did not wish to make liberal offerings, although bidding was brisk, and there was a distinct demand for many of the leading Goldfield issues.

Actual trading in the Goldfield issues was light, however. Four hundred shares of Combination Fraction changed hands at the firm price of 6¼ during the morning call. Thirteen hundred shares were sold on the informal call, prices ranging from 53 to 59 cash. The close was unchanged, but firm, at 59@5.

Daisy was a good trader during the informal call, a total of 2100 shares changing hands in the afternoon. The price was firm and higher at 80. Yesterday's close was strong at 81@82, compared with 79@81 on Monday. Jumbo Extension showed a slight return to higher levels also. Sales ranged from 36 to 40 on the informal call, when three lots of 300 shares each changed hands. Sales totaled 100 shares on the afternoon calls at 40, with the close strong at 41 bid, with none offered.

The final stage seems to have been reached in the Johnnie Consolidated mix-up. Rumors to the effect that A. L. Myers has withdrawn his guarantee and that the property would be closed pending a reorganization, were in the air, and prevented so much as a bid for the issue yesterday afternoon. Sales totaled 300 shares at 1¼ on the early call, and the close was at 1¾@1¾.

There was a good demand for Goldfield Consolidated, but none was sold, although the closing bid was at 5.47½, a rise of 20 points being apparent, compared with Monday's closing bid. Orders from Frisco for New York and other eastern points, is said to be the reason for the sharp advance. Florence scored a 2½-point advance in the bid, closing at 2.10 bid, with none offered. A sale of 100 at 2.00 was made in the morning.

Minor trading in Bonnie Clare at 8½ in the morning, and at 7 on the informal call. Homestake at 80, Bullfrog Mining at 2, Florence Extension at 15, Lige Harris at 2.00 a thousand shares, and Oro at 8½ completed the business of the day.

CANTALOUPES IN NEW YORK.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, July 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eleven cars of California melons arrived in solid condition on a very irregular market, very dull and inactive, due to after effects of the holiday, and a few of the fanciest realized $2; standard, $1.50; pony bulk, $1.75; standard, $1.25.

Pony Georgias received in liberal supply; 9000 packages arrived; condition very poor, generally overripe. Standards, 60 to 75 cents; ponys, 40 to 50.

Although the market was very dull, as is generally the case after a holiday, the outlook for Californias is very favorable. It is only a matter of time now when Georgias will be out of the way, which will leave the field open to Californias. The hotel season is now in full swing and they will absorb a large amount.

Shippers should take great care in selecting stock for eastern markets as long distance and extremely hot weather cause fruit to ripen very rapidly, which makes it impossible for buyers to hold for any length of time.

WHEAT MARKET CLOSES WEAK.

Hedging Sales by Leading Cash Interests Induces Free Selling by Longs and Brings Out Liberal Sales for the Short Account—Oats Are Bearish.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, July 7.—The wheat market opened easy and as trading progressed the weakness became more pronounced until the close, which was at the lowest point of the day. Hedging sales by leading cash interests induced free selling by local longs, and also brought out liberal sales for the short account. Excellent weather for the growing crop in the Northwest and lower prices at Liverpool were additional bearish influences. The selling, however, was held in check to some extent by the fear that the government report to be issued tomorrow would be decidedly bullish.

The market closed weak. September opened 1@¾ to ¼@¾ lower, at 99 to 99¼, sold off to 97¾ and closed at 98. General profit-taking by both local and outside longs caused weakness in the corn market, despite a strong market at Liverpool.

Wet weather in Iowa and Illinois and the break in wheat were mainly responsible for the selling pressure. The greatest loss was in the July delivery, which declined 3¾ from the high point of the day. The market closed weak at almost the lowest point. September improved unchanged to ½ higher, at 71¾@72⅛; gold off to 72⅜, and closed at 72¼@72⅜.

Oats were materially affected by the weakness of other grains. After the firm improving the market developed considerable weakness and closing prices were at the lowest point of the day. Heavy rains in Illinois helped to weaken the market. September opened ¾ to ⅞ higher, at 47¾ to 47⅝, and declined to 46⅝, where it closed.

Provisions were firm early in the day, owing to a 5-cent advance in live hogs, but later became weak in selling credited to packing interests. At the close, September pork was off 15¾, lard was down 5 cents and ribs were 5 cents lower.

Cash quotations were as follows: Flour was firm; No. 3 spring wheat, 96@1.07; No. 2 red, 99@99½; No. 2 corn, 72½@74½; No. 3 white oats, 46@55; No. 2 rye, 74@75; fair to choice malting barley, 66@70; No. 1 northwestern flaxseed, 1.23¾; prime timothy seed, 3.70; short ribs sides (loose), 7.37½@8.75; mess pork, per bbl, 15.50@15.62½; lard, per 100 lbs., 9.37½; short clear sides (boxed), 8.87½@9.00.

EMANCIPATION!

WHEN A KISS IS SCORNED

Women to Soon Assert Their Independence.

Prof. Burton Tells of Great Social Changes.

Influence of Drama Becomes Dominant Force.

"The time is rapidly coming, indeed it is almost here, when the American woman is no longer going to be regarded as a pretty doll; to be chucked under the chin when her husband arrives home at night. She is going to assert her independence, more and more."

"And is there not danger, Prof. Burton, that she will abuse it?"

"In some cases, yes; but on the whole, no."

Prof. Richard Burton, who teaches literature at the University of Minnesota, made the foregoing highly interesting statement in the course of an "interview" last night. He is in Los Angeles on a lecture tour, and yesterday spoke at Cumnock Hall on "The Drama As a Social Force." Thursday morning he discusses "Ibsen." Prof. Burton is registered at Hershey Arms, where he was found last night, smoking an after-dinner cigar on the piazza; the evening was cool, and the mocking birds had just finished their evening concert in the pomegranate tree. It was a pleasant moment for a characteristic interview.

Prof. Burton brings to his work a keenly analytical mind. He has watched social tendencies for many years; was formerly with the Hartford Courant; then took up literature, with a specialty of the drama, in which field he is an acknowledged national authority; later, he became a platform speaker, touring America; all the while keeping up strong work on literary topics. He is an exceedingly easy man to "interview." His bright, chatty style is always interesting, his characterizations of men and events terse and happy. He has a genial way of spicing his remarks with bits of humor, and can say rasping things in a way to make one smile good naturedly, while still recognizing unpleasant truths.

CENTER OF SOCIAL SYSTEM.

"There is," he added, "a growing spirit of feminine individualism in our country. I see signs of it everywhere. Woman, as never before, is taking the reins and will in time exercise the real power she was created to wield. There is no doubt that she is the very center of our social system. The greatest power in our civilization; for is she not queen of the household?

"Ibsen has done much for the emancipation of American woman. He has clearly shown woman's right to an individual life, in the broadest sense. His plays are above all a plea for woman's equality, side by side with man. While I do not agree with Ibsen in all details, and wants, of course, he has taken extreme types of woman, to impress his point, at the same time his subtle feminine philosophy is sound. The American woman will have her way more and more, and man must at least concede to her a purely individualistic career. If he treats her as a pampered petted doll, then so much the worse for the American man. She will simply pack her trunk and leave his house.

"Some years ago, the requests made for my lectures were largely for talks on the novel, but now it is the drama," went on Prof. Burton. "The drama is making gigantic strides in America, and I now regard it as the more vital and direct of the five forces in modern life—the other four being the church, the school, the library, and last but by no means least, the daily newspaper.

"But the trouble is that Americans must be taught to think, at the drama. Yes, it is coming; I see it everywhere. Your 'tired business man' imagines that he must be amused, but have you noticed that the best recent plays set before him a problem, and without knowing it, mixing in a great deal of humor, he finds himself growing interested?

"Too many Americans are still merely grown-up children in intellect. This is especially true of the way they regard the drama. Most of us have been taught to want nothing but action in a play; but that is not always going to be.

IBSEN'S MESSAGE.

"The individual in the mass, in his club, in his social group, in his church, has been too long hampered. He is going to break away and think for himself. He will not always tamely submit, as he does now, to have his individuality ironed out of him by association with other men. Your big, strong man stands alone.

"That, after all, is Ibsen's message—that we must stand alone in this life, and seek happiness in our own way, even though the world be against us. Yes, many of us are still too busy to think, and we want everything 'boiled down, that is, I will admit, our national defect; but it will not always be that way.

"We are coming more and more upon the day of the subsidized drama, in which plays will be presented and theaters maintained without any thought of box office receipts. It is going to be tried, as you know in New York City, and it is already a success in Chicago, where very excellent dramas have already been put forth, and have been appreciated by the every-day class of people.

"Now, watch the train butcher on the day coach. You remember, some years ago, that he sold only the trashiest class of novels? Today, our general public is really reading better stuff, and when you see men in the smoking car of the overland reading excellent books that certainly means something.

"In some respects, with all his restless activity, his mental alertness, his bright capable mind, the American is still much of a child. But it will not always be that way. The time is rapidly coming when we are going to bring culture and conscience to the theater, and do hard, plain thinking there. We are on the eve of a marriage between literature and drama.

"Much of this recent awakening, then, is due to the great Ibsen, whom I regard as the most influential of modern dramatists."

WOMEN TO GO TO JAIL.

Four Followers of Socialism, With Two Men, Pose as Martyrs by Going to Cells.

Four women, who posed as martyrs to the cause of Socialism, were arrested last night at Winston and Main streets on the charge of speaking on the street without a permit. They had mounted a box to address a gathering of Socialists and unionites which numbered nearly 2000.

The crowd cheered when the women were placed under arrest, and the police had some difficulty in dispersing the mob, which blocked the street. After the women were arrested, two men attempted to speak and they, too, were arrested. The women said they were Mrs. Margaret Baker, Pasadena; Mrs. Walter Holloway, Mrs. Dorothy Johns and Mrs. Bertha Daly. One of the men gave the name of "John Doe," while the other said he was Ernest C. Miller. They all declined to give bail, and were locked up.

When the women were searched in the matron's department of the jail, it was found that they evidently had gone to jail to stay. They had their night clothing under their street dresses, and their toilet articles were found hidden in their clothing. The matron allowed them to retain their extra clothing, but everything else was taken away from them.

The women had signed an agreement to violate the city ordinance by speaking on the street without a permit. It was further agreed that they would remain in jail until their cases were settled.

RAFFLES RAIDED.

A raid was made by the police last night upon cigar stands and eleven proprietors were arrested on the charge of conducting raffles. In each case fountain pens, pipes and tickets were confiscated. The bail of the dealers was fixed at $50 each, which was furnished in all instances.
